FLYERS CROSS OCEAN WITHOUT ONCE SEEING IT

Tell Story of Fight with Storms.

Will Fly Back

Detroit, Mich., July 16.—(AP)—Pilots of Captains Alexander Magyar and George Endres for a homeward flight across the south Atlantic were announced here tonight by Erna Prattinger, secretary of the committee which sponsored the successful New York-to-Budapest hop. Prattinger said the return flight would be by way of Africa and South America. The fliers will remain in Hungary for about a month reconditioning their plane before starting the homeward trip, he said.

BUDAPEST, July 16.—Forced down after a 25 hour flight from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, the airplane Justice for Hungary ended its 3,600 mile trip this evening in a cornfield outside Rakoke, 14 miles from Budapest. Pilot George Endres and Navigator Alexander Magyar had flown across the Atlantic without ever having seen the ocean through the clouds beneath them.

The object of their flight was hastened by the failure of one gasoline tank to surrender its contents, even with the application of a hand pump. Rough furrowed ground made a safe landing impossible, and before Endres could bring his red-winged monoplane to rest he had bent her propeller and broken her right landing gear.

Ask for Cigarets.

According to eyewitnesses, both airmen had tears in their eyes when they stepped from the plane. Although they had been a day and night with no food but a single sandwich and a drink of water, their first request was for a cigaret.

Meanwhile in Budapest Premier Bethlen and most of his cabinet; Nicholas Roosevelt, the American minister; Endres' wife, Magyar's mother, and a crowd of 5,000 impatient citizens had been waiting for hours on Budapest flying field for the arrival of the airmen. The flyers were taken to Budapest in an automobile. They were given a warm welcome.

Tells Impressions of Flight.

"What was the chief feature of our trip? Well, I should say the weather," Endres said in reply to the first question put to him.

"It was so bad that we crossed the Atlantic without ever seeing it, except for a half hour over the coast of France. We passed over Ireland and southern England and we never saw them. We just barely saw France."

"I think ours must have been the most heavily loaded airplane that ever took off for an Atlantic flight. We carried 620 gallons of gasoline, thirty-five gallons of oil, and a radio set that weighed 150 pounds. We had a bunch of mail matter which weighed 32 pounds. Allow 200 pounds each for my navigator and myself in our clothes and you have a big load.

Nearly Crash Into Hill.

"I wondered for a few moments if we would get off. The weather didn't help us because there was no wind to give us a lift. You know that hill at Harbor Grace? Well, we just cleared the hill and then had to drop down almost to the water again.

"We steered from Harbor Grace to Valencia, London, and Budapest, but the weather was so bad it certainly took a lot of steering. After we had been going half an hour we came into a combination of rain, fog, and storm. After three hours' fighting we shook off the storm, but were still in a fog which stretched right down to the water. Above the fog were low clouds, and we flew between them and the fog for an hour and a half.

"At 11 o'clock last night there was still fog, but we could fly 200 feet over it in clear air. We navigated by means of stars and our compasses. In the morning we crossed Ireland and southern England. We used bearings we got from ships, but there was nothing else to tell us, since we had cloud or fog beneath us all the way.

Sight Land in France.

"We first saw land about 10 o'clock this morning in France. After flying so long with nothing but grayness below us we really were not certain whether what we saw was English or

SCHOOL BOARD HEAD AGREES TO CUT MILLIONS

Pledges Committee to Act Now.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

President Lewis E. Myers of the school board promised Gov. Emmerson's revenue committee last night that he would do his utmost to inaugurate a four or five million dollar saving in school operation within five or six days. Trustee Carr acquiesced in the pledge.

This promise came after about two hours of questioning of school board and department heads by the committee, headed by Joseph K. Brittain.

Insull Is Aroused.

Later Ernest Withall, business manager of the board, was given a severe grilling and his replies were so unsatisfactory that Samuel Insull finally blew up with this:

"Your explanations would not be accepted by me or Mr. Sargent or by the responsible head of any large private business."

There were so many things Withall didn't know, that one member of the governor's committee walked over to President Myers and remarked privately: "It's a wonder that a third of your $100,000,000 appropriation is not wasted."

A little later Mr. Insull, with a display of personal disgust, said:

"Since we are giving our time and energy to aiding this public service, we have a right to demand that these matters be looked into, and the information given us."

Speak for "Aroused Taxpayers."

Chairman Brittain started the meeting by announcing that the committee considered itself as the representative of "the aroused and revolting taxpayers, who have lost confidence in the governments because of the enormous expenditures." He went on:

"I hope that you appreciate we mean business. We cannot fiddle while Rome burns any longer. The cost of the local governments must be cut, or we cannot get the confidence of the people, and without it a special session of the legislature is hopeless."

Fred W. Sargent first asked President Myers whether the board would agree to an audit of its books by the city controller.

"There is a strained relationship between the city administration and the school board," said Mr. Myers, "and if an outside audit is to be made it should be by an auditor whom some of the trustees will look upon as unprejudiced. Three members of the board voted to have the mayor's advisory commission make an investigation."

Myers Promises Coöperation.

"Are you going to drag along these proposed economies," asked Mr. Brittain. "You cannot dilly dally and restore the credit of the board and get the confidence of the public."

"I am only one member, and cannot deliver the board," replied Myers, "but you may be sure of my coöperation."

"I have recommended to the board economies of $1,385,805," said Mr. Myers.

Would your board permit this committee, through experts, to work with the Cleveland Audit company in its investigation of the school affairs," asked Mr. Sargent.

"I would favor that," said Myers.

"I would be glad to urge the board to do that," added Trustee Carr. President Myers read a list of the extra educational services performed

New York, July 16.—[Special.]—Princess Anna Troubetzkoy, daughter of Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky of New York, whose sudden death in Paris on Tuesday was announced here the next day in a cable message, met her death in a plunge from the Eiffel tower, it was disclosed today.

The parents of the princess did not learn of the manner of her death until yesterday, it was said tonight at their home, when they received the news by telephone from Paris.

Their daughter married Prince Serge Gregory Troubetzkoy in a civil ceremony here on May 14. They sailed on the steamship Berlin for France on June 28 and were to have been married at a religious ceremony in August in the Russian Orthodox church on the estate of Prince Troubetzkoy's family at Clarmart, near Paris.

Tragedy Is Explained.

Prince Obolensky explained the tragedy tonight in the light of information from his brother, Prince Alexander Obolensky, who is in Paris.

"The princess," he said, "went to Eiffel tower with her cousin, Miss Natalia Pissaress. They went to the fourth floor, at the top of the tower. This floor is not closed in, as are the other floors. My daughter—Prince Alexander told me—was leaning over a railing when her foot slipped. We are sure it was entirely accidental."

The Troubetzkoy and Obolensky families have intermarried for four generations. The most recent union, on May 14, took place in the old county courthouse, when the Princess Anna and Prince Troubetzkoy were married by City Court Justice Joseph W. Keller in his chambers.

Parents Going to France.

Prince and Princess Obolensky, the parents, plan to sail shortly for Paris. The funeral services of the Princess Anna will be held tomorrow at Clamart, where the religious ceremony was to have been held.

Memorial services for the princess were held this evening in the Russian Orthodox church of Christ the Savior, in New York. In addition to the immediate relatives of the Princess Anna there were more than fifty friends present of the Obolensky and Troubetzkoy families.

Many Attend Services.

In a group near the altar were the parents of the Princess Anna, Prince and Princess Obolensky, and their 17 year old son, Alexis; Prince and Princess Serge Gegarine, Mrs. Alexander Timasheff, sister of the Princess Obolensky; Prince Serge Obolensky, second cousin of the late princess, and Princess Natalie Galitzene, a cousin.

Attending also were Prince Basil of Russia, Miss Ruth Baldwin of this city, a close friend of the late princess, and her sister, Mrs. Francis R. H. Tomes, and Dimitri Shvetzoff, who acted as usher at the civil marriage.

KITTY GOES AWAY FOREVER; POLICE WILL BURY HER

Kitty was her first name. More formally she was Mrs. Saunders, but to the hundreds of detectives, judges, and attorneys, who patronized the Silver grill, 1132 South State street, adjoining police headquarters, she was just Kitty.

Kitty was a waitress. But she was more than that to the men of the night shift. She was sort of a confessor, sometimes sort of a jester, and the business of slinging hash never interfered with her offering a few words of encouragement to some downcast policeman. Kitty was one of them in heart.

Below the surface Kitty wasn't happy. Her husband had deserted her. Her two children at 1304 East 76th street were her big solace. But Kitty didn't want to live. So she told the bluecoats several times.

Last Saturday Kitty walked into the station. She waved good-by. "I'm going away," she called. "And I'm not coming back."

She didn't. She died yesterday at the Lakeview hospital where she went Saturday for an operation. That was why a collection was being taken up last night at the detective bureau and police annex.

The police down there are going to bury Kitty.

FORGETS HORSE HE RENTED; TIED TO TREE 3 DAYS

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 16.—[Special.]—When Frank Sopoliski hired a saddle horse and had not returned it two days later George Fassinder, owner of the South Hills riding schools, figured something was wrong. A 12 hour search located Sopoliski at his home.

Then, Fassinder told Humane society officials, Sopoliski thought of the horse for the first time since he had gone swimming in a South park pool. He wasn't quite certain where he had left the horse, Fassinder said, but they finally found it in a clump of woods a quarter of a mile from the pool.

The horse, its owner said, had been tied to a tree so closely that it had not been able to reach food nor water during the 76 hours it was there.

At a hearing before Ald. Patrick Cawley, Sopoliski was fined $10 for cruelty to animals and posted $1,000 bond for a hearing on the criminal charge of failing to return a rented horse.

Rob Evanston Doctor of Champagne and Whisky

Eleven pints of champagne and two and one-half cases of whisky, one and a half cases of which were described as "real Bourbon," were stolen last night from the home of Dr. Roy Allen Whiteside, 2226 Sherman avenue, Evanston. Dr. Whiteside, returning from a loop theater, found the lock on the rear door of his apartment had been broken. Only the liquor, which was valued at $225, was missing. Dr. Whiteside said he used the liquor in prescriptions for his patients.

'Ma' Kennedy Sues to Annul Her Marriage

Los Angeles, Cal., July 16.—[Special.]—Following the filing of the suit for her annulment of marriage to the Rev. Guy Edward Hudson, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy Hudson tonight went—alone—to the honeymoon cottage at Hermosa Beach. There, she explained, she hopes first to clear away the marital tangle involving her husband of three weeks and other women and then remarry him.

"Acting under legal advice, I signed marriage annulment proceedings" she said. "That means but one thing to me—another wonderful and beautiful marriage annulment proceedings," she ward every moment, and Mr. Hudson is of the same mind."

Meanwhile she said she would inquire if it would be proper for Hudson and herself to continue together "if we have a chaperon along."

Admits Former Marriage.

The annulment petition, signed by both Hudson and Mrs. Kennedy admitted Hudson was still legally married to Mrs. Margaret Newton Hudson of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Newton today stated: "I am sorry for Mrs. Kennedy, but unfortunately for her I am positive he is the same Hudson who married me. I finally locked him out of the house."

This Mrs. Newton-Hudson today stood as one of four women in the ardent G. Edward Hudson's tempestuous love life of recent years. She married him in Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 22, 1929.

Another ex-Mrs. Guy Edward Hudson was located in Denver, Col. She knew her husband both as "Guy" and "Jack Hudson." Her friends in Los Angeles came forward today, inspected the photographs of Mrs. Kennedy-Hudson's mate, and pronounced him the missing husband of the Colorado woman. The latter, over long distance phone, however, expressed some doubt as to validity of her marriage.

Other Wives Reported.

A third ex-wife was today asserted to be living in Seattle, Wash.

It was also declared today that one Guy Hudson appeared at Los Angeles courthouse on Jan. 12, 1929, and took out a license to wed Ethel Lee Parker. The latter was located here today, under the name of Mrs. Ethel Harbert, and stated that she had never married Hudson after taking out the license because "he postponed the marriage repeatedly and I wed another man later."

BERLIN'S FINANCIAL PLIGHT PUT UP TO THREE NATIONS

Shoot Rioters as Banks Pay Wage Checks

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, July 17.—(AP)—Communist riots at Gelsenkirchen, Coblenz, and Dusseldorf, involving use of pistols, kept police busy during the night.

At Gelsenkirchen police and communists entrenched waiting for daylight. Streets were torn up, windows smashed, food stores plundered. The town was in darkness, all lights being put out in the riot.

At Coblenz communists were quelled after attempting to erect barricades of street paving blocks, tactics which were successful at Gelsenkirchen.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 16.—The banks throughout Germany opened today, after 42 hours of closure, and withdrawals were permitted to take care of salaries, wages, taxes, doles and other major items.

Some violence marked the resumption of operations of the financial institutions. Thousands of policemen were pressed into service and tried to maintain order by establishing lines in front of the savings banks, driving back the crowds when they became fretful from the dreary waiting in the rain.

Germans to Go to Paris.

Tonight the German government received an invitation from the French to attend a conference with Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, Premier Laval of France and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson of the United States on Saturday in Paris.

Wilhelmstrasse announced this evening that Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, accompanied by two experts, will leave Berlin tomorrow evening for Paris to participate in the discussions on Saturday afternoon and Sunday before proceeding to London for the opening of the extraordinary conference of seven world powers called by Great Britain to try to find a way out of Europe's economic dilemma.

Police Keep Crowds Back.

Lines of needy persons began forming outside the savings institutions before daybreak today. They were anxious to withdraw their funds from the banks, particularly those located in the populous workers' sections.

The savings banks are under the municipal control of Berlin, and squads of heavily armed policemen were stationed at the doors to keep the crowds back.

No payments were made on personal appeals for cash regardless of their gravity. Only withdrawals to enable shopkeepers to meet the pay rolls of wage earners were permitted. Needs of employers were not taken into account, because it was considered that they could obtain credit for foodstuffs and other necessities.

Many scenes of distress were wit-

Stimson Represents America in Confab Over Crisis.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 16.—One thing led to another today and the result is that they are going to call a "little Versailles" conference to begin where the peace treaty left off.

How all this came about—or even what it is all about—nobody knows exactly. Two hard working diplomats, Foreign Secretary Henderson of Great Britain and Foreign Minister Briand of France, assisted by technical advisers, sat down today for a chat with Secretary of State Stimson of the United States to see what could be done about the German financial crisis.

Germans to Go to Paris.

When it was over it was learned that Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany will come to Paris on Saturday and that the Anglo-Saxons had listened sympathetically to the French plan for reorganizing Europe.

This plan is a grandiose scheme for rescuing Germany from bankruptcy with a massive loan while signing an accord for commercial and political collaboration.

In Wilson's Shoes.

Accordingly on Saturday afternoon the American secretary of state will find himself in the position filled by America's war President, Woodrow Wilson, in 1919—arbiter and possibly eventual guarantor in negotiations to liquidate the war—only this time it is not to liquidate a successful war, but an unsuccessful peace.

The basis of the negotiations will be the French plan as outlined to the Americans and British in conference this morning and ratified after a three and a half hour cabinet meeting presided over by President Paul Doumer tonight. Perhaps the plan will be modified at a second conference which will probably be held tomorrow.

Details of French Plan.

Information from French sources tonight revealed the following details of the French plan for aiding Germany. It was pointed out, however, that the plan is still in a formative stage and will not be formally drafted until after another cabinet meeting tomorrow. The plan will probably be published officially Saturday afternoon. This is a brief outline of it:

ONE—The United States Federal Reserve bank will advance Germany a short term credit for $500,000,000 to tide her over the crisis.

TWO—A covering loan of the same amount will be granted as soon afterward as possible, with America, Italy, France, England, and Belgium participating. This loan will be payable in ten years and will be guaranteed by a lien on German customs and possibly other revenues.

Will Turn Over Customs.

THREE—Germany must promise to resume the Young plan payments after the expiration of the Hoover moratorium, these payments to be guaranteed by a supplementary lien on customs—in other words, all of Germany's customs are to be turned over to her creditors.

FOUR—Creditors will be authorized to constitute a committee of control vested with most of the powers held by the agent general for reparations under the Dawes plan, with the further right of supervising Germany's foreign loans.

FIVE—Signing a political moratorium for ten years under which Germany would promise not to augment her military budget and would drop her campaign for a revision of treaties. French counter concessions are not mentioned.

Dawes Plan Redivivus.

Financially the scheme amounts to resuscitation of the Dawes plan, and like the Dawes plan would call for some sort of a committee of control—probably the International bank, although the French would prefer the financial committee of the league of nations.

There is no idea of trying to settle at the present time all outstanding problems between France and Germany. The whole point of the plan is that these questions will be left hanging fire for the duration of the armistice, and the two countries will work together to solve their individual problems. Naturally this gives France a big advantage, as it assures her of domination in Europe for at least five years more. In return she is said to be prepared to offer Germany definite concessions—just what they are, however, is not seen.

The program outlined above is what

Chancellor Bruening and Dr. Curtius will be offered on Saturday, and it is this understanding, that any concessions will be bilateral, which makes the German visit possible. It is hoped that they will agree in principle on the plan here, and then—although France is still holding out against the assumption of the British foreign office that the conference will be held in London Monday—move over to London. Theoretically the London conference will just be a windup of details, but in reality it is staged to give Great Britain the prestige of pulling off the final agreement. Italy will probably be invited to the London conference.

Day's Events Significant.

It is hard to bring home what really happened today because on the surface nothing happened—except the decision to hold a conference Saturday in which the American secretary of state for the first time since 1919 will meet the heads of the German state in a European conference to iron out problems left over from the war. That is a dramatic thing in itself, but the full significance of this conference is not only dramatic but tremendous.

I talked with a number of officials and they, the French ones at least, declare that Saturday is destined to be a historic date, comparable to the declaration of the armistice.

"If the conference succeeds it will be the beginning of a new area for Europe. It will mean that the war is really over after 12 years of nonmilitary struggle. If it fails, God only knows what will happen." This is what one internationally known French official told THE TRIBUNE tonight.

Recalls Peace Conference.

The conference is almost as vital to America—it places the United States in the same position as it was during the peace conference, and the same old struggle begins all over again with M. Briand and Premier Laval taking Georges Clemenceau's place and Mr. Stimson in the idealistic rôle previously played by Woodrow Wilson.

The difficulties in the way of the French reaching an accord with the Germans on their plan, are tremendous. Notably, it is hard to see what concession France can offer in return for those demanded of Germany, even supposing the nationalist chamber of deputies would ratify them. It is also doubtful whether the Germans could accept any sort of financial control on which the French condition the loan.

Stimson Is Silent.

What America's attitude is regarding the situation is impossible to determine because Mr. Stimson clamped an air tight order for secrecy and silence over all American spokesmen. The American embassy, bound by these orders, is unable to give American newspapermen any direct line on the conference. Consequently the foregoing account represents the French viewpoint—with as much bias as possible sifted out.

Thus it can not be said that Mr. Stimson is really trying to suppress news and is perfectly willing to let the American public know what every one but the American agents think about the business.

To Help the Other Boys.

Of one thing Mr. Stimson's spokesmen are certain—that he is just there to help the other boys get together and is not going to commit the United States to anything. Officially the explanation of his rôle is that President Hoover assigned him, because he accidentally happened to be in Paris, to use his good offices in promoting accord between the various parties—Woodrow Wilson gave himself a similar assignment. It is stated that if Mr. Stimson goes to the London conference—which is virtually certain if the conference is held—he will go as a sort of an observer and America will be in nowise engaged.

Likewise it is insisted that today's discussions were purely of an economic nature, and that all political considerations were shelved whenever they were brought up, which was frequently. The European authorities, when informed of this statement, politely laughed up their sleeves.

League of Nations Happy.

The European view is that America is now in Europe to stay, and the league of nations considers this event as the happiest thing that has happened since the war, "only you must not say that in America now," one league of nations spokesman told THE TRIBUNE; "just think about it!"

Observers here think Mr. Stimson has already done quite well, considering that he came over merely for a rest. For one thing, THE TRIBUNE learns, it was his arrival in Paris that made the visit of Chancellor Bruening and Dr. Curtius possible. They had already turned down three invitations from the French, but when they learned Mr. Stimson was here they decided he would be a sufficient guarantee against the French trying to dictate the terms of a new armistice, and authorized Ambassador Leopold von Hoesch yesterday to say that the Germans would accept with alacrity if invited again.

Explains U. S. Limitations.

In his conference with M. Briand, Secretary Henderson, Premier Laval, and others at the ministry of the interior this morning, Mr. Stimson explained at length his position and the principles of our government which, he said, forbade him entering into any political negotiations. He gave it clearly to be understood that it is impossible for the American government to participate in a loan to Germany and that decision would rest entirely with the federal reserve and private banks.

Since the secretary did not point his remarks by walking out and yielding his place to some American banker, but stayed to use his "good offices," the others let it go at that. They will have plenty of use for those good offices.

It is impossible to learn whether Mr. Stimson and Mr. Henderson endorsed the French plan. It is certain that the Americans are cool about the grandiose French project and they think it will be difficult to realize. Mr. Stimson had a long telephone conversation with President Hoover today and apparently received no definite instructions.

CHILE'S MORATORIUM ON FOREIGN DEBTS RUNS UNTIL AUG. 1

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 16.—(AP)—Premier Blanquier today declared a moratorium on the foreign debt until Aug. 1 and straightway set in motion a thoroughgoing governmental house cleaning to effect economics.

The premier, whose government is only two days old, announced that for the rest of July interest and service charges on foreign obligations, estimated at $3,040,000, would be deposited locally and held in trust. After Aug. 1 a decision will be made about future payments. This action ties up interest expected by holders of Chilean bonds, most of whom are residents of the United States and England.

Declaring that the government was doing its best to cope with the economic situation caused by the world depression and the disorganized mineral and nitrate markets, the premier decreed large salary reductions. The reductions hit all the way from ministers to office boys, affecting also the army and navy. Chile's total foreign debt is about $485,000,000, of which approximately $60,000,000 is in short term notes.

ABYSSINIAN KING SURRENDERS HIS ABSOLUTE RIGHTS

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, July 16.—By his own free will, Emperor Haile Selassie of Abyssinia, "Conquering Lion of Judah," today stepped from the ranks of the world's absolute monarchs and granted a constitution to his subjects.

Speaking from the throne at a brilliant ceremony in the palace, the emperor announced he had decided to establish a two chamber parliament, with responsible ministers to carry out its decisions. He declared he would rule Abyssinia in conformity with the constitution, but that "in order to prevent future disputes, the crown would be secured to the present dynasty."

"For many years," the emperor said, "Abyssinians have been isolated from the world so that it was necessary for the emperor to govern like a father. But now such progress has been made as to enable them to take up some share of the task we have performed alone. It is in this spirit that we have decided to institute a legislative body of two chambers, the members of which will be designated by provinces, subject to our consent."

BOY STEPS IN DEEP HOLE; DROWNED.

GERMAN POLICE BATTLE RIOTERS AS BANKS REOPEN

nessed, where mothers, with babes in their arms, tired to fight their way through the police lines to enter the banks. They clamored for money and the police carried them off.

Rebuffs to Many.

Individual cases met speedy rebuffs.

"I want to draw 50 marks," one applicant said. "I need it to pay room rent and buy food."

"Your landlord cannot dispossess you for the nonpayment of lodging bills now, and you should be able to obtain credit for food," replied a bank official.

"My child is ill," a mother pleaded. "I must have doctors and nurses to care for her, and she must be sent to Switzerland."

"The place for the child is in the local hospital," was the answer. "Let the authorities there arrange for her transportation to Switzerland."

The government tonight denied the rumors that Herman Schmitz, German dye magnate, will be named dictator of industry and finance.

"We don't even know him," said the office of Chancellor Bruening.

Police Kill Rioter.

At Coblenz a mob of communists and jobless men hurled bottles and stones at the police until the officers raided them with their rubber night sticks. Some shots were fired at the police. Two officials were slightly wounded and 70 agitators were arrested.

At Bochum, in the Ruhr district, Reds battled the police, who killed a 20 year old worker and severely wounded another.

At Segeroth, also in the Ruhr, communists pelted the police with paving blocks and flower pots from their windows. Many arrests were made.

At Muenster 15 rioters were arrested, and at Dortmund in Prussia one Red was killed and another critically wounded when the police were forced to use riot guns.

The communist newspaper in Munich was ordered to suspend publication for a month for having made seditious utterances against the government. At Frankfurt-on-Main communist and jobless crowds were dispersed by police with clubs.

Jobless Chant "We Are Hungry."

"We are hungry! We want bread and work!" At Dresden the Reds attempted to celebrate unemployment day until the police fired guns. A woman pedestrian was wounded.

At Leipzig shots were fired at motor trucks, which were loaded with policemen. The police also used guns. Twenty-six were arrested.

Trains from Switzerland, Belgium, Holland and France today were packed with returning German vacationists, who were unable to afford the shortened exchange rates offered in view of the weakness of the mark.

The government tonight announced an agreement between the Reichsbank and the Austrian National bank for the exchange of marks and schillings at a fixed gold rate.

Pay City Workers Half.

The municipality of Berlin announced tonight that 50 per cent of the wages of civil workers, which were due yesterday, will be paid today. The balance, it is expected, will be paid tomorrow.

Authorities of the German capital issued a statement tonight that adequate food supplies for the city for an indefinite period were assured. All citizens were urged to cease attempting to hoard food supplies. At the same time the police quietly advised grocers, butchers and other shopkeepers not to permit any of their customers to stock up, even in exchange for cash.

The finance ministry tonight announced that it had paid the Bank for International Settlements at Basel its monthly installment on the unconditional annuity of the Young plan, amounting to 38,000,000 marks, about $9,500,000, and that it had immediately received a check covering the amount as a loan.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD OF GAS.

Mrs. Bertha Wolf, 54 years old, was found dead yesterday in her home at 3232 North Racine avenue. She had inhaled gas through a rubber hose, apparently with the intention of committing suicide.

GLASS HITS PLAN OF RESERVE BANK TO AID EUROPE

Lynchburg, Va., July 16.—(AP)—United States Senator Carter Glass, a member of the senate banking and currency committee and chairman of the senate subcommittee charged with recommending changes in the federal reserve act, today severely criticised a proposal to have the federal reserve banks grant large financial credits to foreign banks.

"It is announced in the press dispatches," Senator Glass stated, "that the federal reserve banks are to be drawn into the European financial debacle, and, without one semblance of statutory warrant, will 'joint other central banks' in guaranteeing tremendous credits to foreign governments. In short, it is stated, the trust funds and credits of the federal reserve banking system are to be hazarded in the maelstrom of this European financial panic.

"Should this utterly lawless thing be done it will dishonor every responsible official of the system and give color and credence to the increasingly violent attacks of ignorant demagogues who have already wickedly prejudiced this banking system with the volatile and emotional agrarians of the south and west."

Senator Glass commented it had been suggested in some quarters that the President of the United States, in conjunction with the 'dominating figures' of the New York Federal Reserve bank, should coerce the federal reserve board in Washington to engage in this financial venture.

"The President of the United States," he said, "has not and never was intended to have any authority whatsoever over federal reserve banking policies, which are definitely fixed by statute, both affirmatively and negatively.

"The proposal to have the federal reserve system thrust into the vortex of European financial operations in the guise of buying prime commercial short time bills is a discreditable proposition. These would be purely financial bills, without one particle of reference to any commercial transaction of any description.

"It is no answer to this criticism to say that the dominating figures of the New York Federal Reserve bank once did the same thing for England. Because the law was once violated outrageously is no excuse that it should now be even more outrageously violated in a highly dangerous degree, which may be, and very likely will, eventuate in an incalculable disaster to the commercial credit system of the United States.

"With such maladministration as has already occured and as that now proposed, it will not be long before the stoutest defenders of the federal reserve system in congress will be driven at last to elaborate the bitterest criticism of its enemies."

SIX POWERS JOIN TO PUT GERMANY BACK ON ITS FEET

Britain Calls Conference for Next Monday.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, England, July 16.—Prime Minister MacDonald's proposed dash to Berlin tomorrow with Foreign Secretary Henderson was suddenly canceled this afternoon as a sequel to the announcement of an extraordinary conference here Monday evening, which will be attended by the ministers of Great Britain, France, the United States, Germany, Belgium, Italy, and Japan, to hunt an economic formula to put Germany and central Europe back on its feet.

RAMSAY MACDONALD. [E. & E. Photo.]

Great Britain hopes, when the means to attempt to bring Germany out of her financial mire shifts to London, concrete advances will be made to certify European stability.

Will Tackle Arms Cuts.

Although the government did not know how far reaching the discussions will be, it is learned from a reliable source that no time will be wasted in tackling the disarmament question, which is universally regarded as inseparable from finances.

The United States will be represented at the Monday conference by Secretary of State Stimson, now in Paris; Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who is on the Riviera, and Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium. Mr. Gibson arrived in London last night to attend the meeting of the Young plan experts, which convenes tomorrow.

Prime Minister MacDonald, Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson and Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden will be the British representatives. It is expected that Mr. MacDonald will preside.

Japan First to Accept.

Foreign Minister Hymans and Premier Renkin will sit for Belgium. Premier Pierre Laval, Foreign Minister Briand and Finance Minister Flandin will probably represent France. Foreign Minister Dino Grandi will represent Italy. Japan was the first nation to formally accept Great Britain's invitation. Other acceptances were expected to follow immediately.

As a result of the crystallization of the European situation during the last few days, England has already made advance toward holding a preliminary disarmament conference in September preparatory to the February meeting in Geneva. It is now believed that Downing street will make a definite proposal for such a meeting, or, what may bring about a speedier clarification to the situation, turn the meeting of ministers into a preliminary disarmament convention. Furthermore, England is understood definitely to have stated her stand on armaments and to have received memoranda on the French and Japanese positions.

SIX SPEAKEASIES AT NAPERVILLE RAIDED; SEIZE 8

Prohibition agents raided six speakeasies around Naperville yesterday, arresting six men and two women and confiscating large quantities of liquor. The places and the prisoners they yielded were: Lunchroom, 317 North Washington avenue, Naperville, Charles and John Staffeldt; 39 West Chicago avenue, Naperville, Leo A. Hiltenbrand; roadhouse known as Mac's place, Allen McDonnel and Fred C. Brown; saloon on the Chicago road, near Hartford, Mrs. Veronica Dowgialio; saloon at Pine Tree Grove, Patsy Rossella; Broad View tavern, highway 22, near St. Charles, Mrs. Rose Kotek.

Screen Parachute

Five year old Bernice Dagdigian fell to the ground from a second story window in her home, 731 North Christiana avenue, yesterday morning and escaped without a scratch. The child was leaning against a screen which gave way. She fell with it and landed on a bush, the screen beneath her. Bush and screen cushioned the fall and her slight weight withstood the jar, the screen acting almost like a parachute.

STIMSON TO JOIN MELLON IN DEBT PARLEY IN LONDON

Powers Are Limited to German Crisis.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 16.—[Special.]—On the understanding that the conference of government representatives meeting in London next Monday will be limited to questions of the present emergency, the United States has agreed to take part in another round table for the settlement of European affairs.

President Hoover announced today that Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon would sit at the conference as representatives of the United States.

Here's President's Statement.

The President's official statement was as follows:

"As has already been announced, Secretary Stimson will attend the conference in London which has been called by the British government for Monday to consider the present emergency problems in central Europe. I have asked Secretary Mellon, if consistent with his plans, also to attend in order that we may have the benefit of his advice as well.

"It is our understanding that the conference is limited entirely to questions of the present emergency."

Powers Not Yet Defined.

While the exact powers to be wielded by the two secretaries have yet to be exactly defined, it was to be inferred from explanations given here by acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr., that their status will vary in accordance with the topics under discussion.

Insofar as the agenda concerns itself with matters touching President Hoover's proposal for a debt and reparations holiday, or with the possibility of extending further international credits to Germany, Mr. Stimson and Mr. Mellon will act with power on a par with those of the delegates from other countries.

When, however, the talk—as it is inevitably expected to do—veers to subjects purely European and essentially political, the American secretaries, so Mr. Castle intimated, will sit back in the rôle of interested and sympathetic observers.

While taking no active part in the debate, their aim is to be the promotion of good will, particularly with respect to smoothing out the major difficulties between France and Germany.

SWANSON ORDERS AID TO CONTINUE BERWYN PROBE

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday directed his assistant, Homer Dodge, to continue his investigation of the affairs of the village of Berwyn before the election of the present mayor, Frank Novotny, who asked that the conduct of the preceding administration be inspected. Mr. Dodge said that he will go into paving contracts let by the village officials and also the erection of a city hall, which cost $120,000 and has been appraised by experts, Novotny claims, as worth $80,000. Books and records of the A. A. Electric company, which constructed the $500,000 lighting system under the old administration are also being investigated.

Lights Match at Gasoline Station; Dies of Injuries

Frank Tarantino, 18 years old, 3215 Princeton avenue, a printer, died at Mercy hospital early this morning from injuries received in an explosion at a gasoline filling station last night. He struck a match to light a cigar while the attendant was filling the tank of an automobile, and the explosion followed.

2 YOUTHS TAKE OTHER FELLOWS' GIRLS OUT; SHOT

Carl Klopp, 8104 South Keating avenue, a mechanic at the Chicago airport, and John Williams, 3420 West 61st place, according to stories they told the police, looked in on the gayety at White City last night and met two girls who had been escorted there by two other young men. After a while they invited the girls to go for a ride, and the invitation was accepted.

As the four were driving in 53d street at Spaulding avenue, another machine crowded them to the curb. Two men jumped out and began firing at Klopp and Williams. Klopp fell from his machine with a bullet in his shoulder. Williams was shot in the left shoulder and arm, but drove away and took the girls to their homes before seeking medical attendance. He was sent by a physician to Holy Cross hospital, and Klopp was taken to the Southwest General hospital. It was feared Klopp's bullet had penetrated his lung. Both young men refused to give the police the names or addresses of the girls.

COUNTY WORKERS PAID FOR FIRST HALF OF JUNE

Four thousand county employés got their pay checks yesterday for the first half of June. The checks had been overdue for a month. Payments will be made Monday for the second half of June, but no funds are available for the pay roll checks for the first half of July, which normally would be due today. The delayed payday was made possible by the transfer of fees accruing to the county treasurer for collection of taxes.

HEAT STAYS, BUT LAKE HELPS TO TEMPER IT HERE

Rains May Bring Relief in Midwest Tomorrow.

Extreme heat prevailed again yesterday over the middle western states, temperatures in many sections passing the 100 mark. Chicago's highest official reading was 96 degrees, reached at 12:20 p. m., and only a gentle lake breeze that played over a narrow strip near the shore line prevented the mercury from climbing several degrees higher, it was said.

The forecast today is for fair and continued warm. Tomorrow, according to prediction, will dawn partly cloudy and warm, but showers may fall in the afternoon or evening and cause a drop in the temperature.

A fairly exact measurement of the lake's cooling effect was obtained by comparing the readings at the University of Chicago, where it was felt, and the Chicago airport, where it was not.

Breeze from Lake Helps.

Wind shifts occurred shortly after noon and the university record, the only one accepted as official, dropped by 1 p .m. to 92. It was still there at 2 and 3 p. m. At 4 and 5 o'clock the readings there were 91. At the airport, where the winds continued steadily from the southwest, the mercury was 99 from 3 to 5 p. m. The lake breeze was an 8 degree boon for those living and working east of Halsted street.

Some of the suburbs had readings even higher than those at the airport, Gary having an unofficial temperature of 109 degrees, said to be the highest on record.

Galesburg, Ill., reported a maximum of 102, and Quincy, Ill., a high of 101. The top at Cedar Rapids, Ia., was 100.

At Stevens Point, Wis., 101 was reached. The maximum at Clinton, Ia., was 102; at Huron, S. D., 100; at Sioux Falls, S. D., 98 and at Oshkosh, Wis., 99. Milwaukee's maximum reading was 96.

The weather bureau reported, however, that some cooling had occurred over the plains states. Lincoln, Neb., had a maximum of only 93 and Des Moines, Ia., only 94.

Lay Two Deaths to Heat.

At least two deaths in Cook county during the day were attributed in part to the heat. One of the victims, identified from a bank book he carried as Fred Mullen, about 56 years old, collapsed near the railroad station in Glenview and died as he was being taken to a hospital. The other, Dominic Delmonico, 58 years old, 3127 West Lake street, died at his home.

Walter Kubakievicz, 50 years old, 3059 West 19th street, was taken to the county hospital after he had collapsed while mixing concrete in front of 4716 South Racine avenue.

Frank Schmidt, 44 years old, of Dundee, was overcome on a farm near Gilberts, in Kane county, while working in the sun and died soon afterward.

It was estimated 350,000 persons went to the Chicago beaches during the day. The south park commissioners sent fifty extra policemen along their part of the lake front and Lincoln park assigned fifteen additional watchers at the Oak street and Diversey avenue beaches.

J. P. MORGAN, SO IT SEEMS, WAS VICTIM OF BOOK AUCTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 16.—Mrs. Mary Noyes, wife of the poet, Alfred Noyes, was haled into court today to settle accounts with Mrs. Lilian Westby, a former friend, to whom she is alleged to have given $50 for bringing about rival bidding for the famous Bedford "Book of Hours," boosting the price from $27,000 to $185,000.

J. P. Morgan bought the manuscript at an auction two years ago for the latter suit after Mrs. Noyes had placed it on sale at Sotheby's.

The delicate question of what Mrs. Westby might expect for a good turn in netting $140,000 to Mrs. Noyes was settled to Mrs. Noyes' satisfaction by a check for $50, but not to that of Mrs. Westby, who is now demanding a $4,100 settlement for what she termed a "nerve racking experience."

The Bedford "Book of Hours" was executed by the best creators of illuminated manuscripts in the fifteenth century, antedating Agincourt. After Mrs. Noyes had been willed the manuscript and married the poet she approached Mrs. Westby and announced that she was disposing of both the "Book of Hours" and the "Lutteral Psalter," another manuscript of the same class.

Mrs. Noyes thereupon unfolded the plan that Mrs. Westby was to appear at the auction and carry the bidding to $130,000 on the promise of a rich reward. The contract was renewed at the auction rooms, according to Mrs. Westby's counsel.

Thereafter the bidding was carried from $25,000 to the sale price. Mr. Morgan bid $5,000 more than Mrs. Westby's final offer. Later Mrs. Noyes sent her friend a check for $50 for the "good turn," it was alleged.

The "Book of Hours" is now the property of the British museum.

WOMAN WILLS WAUKEGAN 30 ACRES FOR PARK

All but $9,000 of the $99,000 estate of Mrs. Emily H. Moulton, under a will offered for probate yesterday at Waukegan, is to go to philanthropic and public institutions. Nine relatives are to receive $1,000 each. To the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., and the Methodist Deaconess orphanage at Lake Bluff are left $20,000 each. The city of Waukegan is bequathed thirty acres of improved land within the city limits for a park, to be known as Hinkston park, in memory of Mrs. Moulton's father, Eber Hinkston. Mrs. Moulton, who was 87 years old, died in June. She was the widow of Arthur Moulton, civil war veteran.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 16.—(AP)—Premier Henry announced today that there will be launched shortly throughout Canada a public relief program whereby all unemployed single men in towns and cities as well as the transient jobless, will be cared for by the provinces. They will be organized into "armies," he said, and employed on public works.

SIFT RACKETEER CLEWS IN DOUBLE SLAYING INQUIRY

Victims Die Refusing to Name Killers.

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Wolcon, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Burke.

Jesse Simmerman, larceny, sentenced to 2 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Joseph Sabath.

Charles La Pardon, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; William Putscher, murder, sentenced to life in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Barney McCone, alias Murphy, labor racketeer, and Herman [The Kid] Diehn, gunman with a thirty year record, went to their deaths early yesterday morning refusing to name the slayers who had shot them down in a Forest Park saloon. Police, in an all day investigation, met the same stubborn silence in questioning witnesses.

Many theories were advanced for the double murder. McCone and Diehn were said to have been attempting to supplant the West Suburban Teamsters' union by another union operated by Fred [Frenchy] Mader. McCone was business agent for the teamsters' union and one report was that he was thus double crossing his employers.

Again, the killing may have been a gangland affair, it was pointed out. McCone once operated two saloons which were owned by the late Jack Zuta. Another theory was that the slayings resulted from a falling out among thieves.

Refuses to Name Slayers.

The presence in the saloon at the time of James E. McFadden, president of the Truck Owners' bureau and Material Dealers' association, with offices at 288 North La Salle street, was also being investigated by the police. McFadden took Diehn to the Oak Park hospital, where the gunman died. He denied knowing any of the slayers or the motive for the shooting.

Chief of Police Fred Licht of Forest Park and a squad went to McCone's home at 910 Lyman avenue, Oak Park, during the afternoon and seized a valise filled with three sticks of dynamite, several percussion caps, and a quantity of other explosives. These were material for bombs, the police said, indicating, they added, that McCone was about to start terrorizing business concerns in the suburbs.

McCone, who was 35 years old, and Diehn, who was 50 years old, were standing at the bar with a number of other men in the saloon at 7228 Circle avenue, Forest Park, shortly before midnight Wednesday when two well dressed young men entered.

Fire Without Warning.

"I was standing at one end of the bar serving drinks," Eddie Grabowski, 1029 Circle avenue, the bartender, told police. "I heard these two fellows say, 'Everybody stick 'em up.' They walked up to Barney and the Kid and blazed away without warning. I dropped behind the bar. When I got up the bunch had blown and Barney and the Kid were groaning on the floor."

In a rear room were McFadden and a girl. He came out and helped Diehn into his automobile, taking him to the hospital. McCone's wife, who also had been in the rear room, ran shrieking to the bar and helped her husband to another car. Both men died in hospitals, refusing to answer the questions of police.

Search of Diehn's car, parked outside the saloon, disclosed a .45 automatic pistol. A .38 revolver was found in McCone's automobile.

Widows of the slain men were questioned and professed ignorance of their husbands' methods of earning livings and of motives for the shooting.

Hunt Teamster "Czar."

Examining the licenses of automobiles found outside the saloon, police found that McCone, Diehn, and others all gave the address of 12 North Fifth avenue, Maywood. This is the office of Timothy Lynch, said to be a czar of teamsters' unions in the western suburban towns. He was being sought for questioning.

Diehn's record at the identification bureau, dating back thirty years, included a trial on a charge of murder, on which he was acquitted; a three year sentence for larceny, and a number of other charges of burglary.

An inquest was continued to Aug. 11.

PUTSCHER, RIBBON SLAYER, SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR LIFE

WILLIAM PUTSCHER.

William Putscher, 20 years old, convicted slayer of Mrs. Charlotte Mildred Helsing, was sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday by Judge Peter M. Schwaba in the Criminal court. The court first overruled a motion for a new trial.

"I have read the points raised by the defense counsel," said Judge Schwaba, "and have come to the conclusion that there is no reversible error in testimony for a new trial.

Putscher, known as the ribbon slayer because of the ribbon found about the victim's throat, was asked if he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced. He replied in the negative. His attorney, Daniel L. Madden, said that he expected to appeal the case to the Illinois Supreme court.

BEST EVANSTON GARBAGE FOUND UNFIT FOR HOGS

The plea of William Schroeder, a farmer living near Wheeling, that he fed his hogs "the best garbage from Evanston" failed to impress a jury last night, and he was found guilty of cruelty to animals.

Schroeder was tried before Justice of the Peace A. L. Sengstock at Morton Grove on complaint of Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin of Lake Forest. Justice Sengstock fined Schroeder $10 and costs, the payment of which is deferred pending an appeal.

Mrs. McLaughlin Testifies.

Mrs. McLaughlin left a birthday party in honor of her son, Robert, 2 years old, to attend court. She testified she was an agent for the Anti-Cruelty society, and that she inspected Schroeder's farm on May 29. She noticed two horses standing in an unlighted shed in water and mud several inches deep, she said. She testified also that twenty hogs were on the premises, and that their food consisted of garbage which "was unfit even for hogs to eat."

Taking the stand, Schroeder denied that conditions on his farm were unsanitary and that the garbage fed to the hogs was spoiled. It was the best feed for hogs obtainable, he declared.

"Why," he added, "I get it from Northwestern university and the various high class cafés and restaurants in Evanston."

Jury Finds Him Guilty.

After an hour's deliberation the jury decided that the best garbage in Evanston wasn't good enough even for hogs, and found Schroeder guilty.

The conviction evens the score in the Schroeder-McLaughlin feud. On May 29, when Mrs. McLaughlin visited the farm, Schroeder forcibly evicted her. She signed complaints charging disorderly conduct, cruelty to animals, and maintaining a nuisance against Schroeder. Schroeder was acquitted of the disorderly charge, and the nuisance complaint is pending and will be the "rubber" case.

Boy Peddlers Are Seized as Highland Park Thieves

Two small Chicago boys, sent out by their parents to peddle doughnuts, on Wednesday broke into the home of J. H. Lambert, Chicago broker, on Roger Williams avenue in Highland Park and stole $12, a watch, and diamond rings valued at $2,000. From another young doughnut seller, on whom the pair had encroached, the police learned their names and they were arrested. They are Mitchell Zuck, 11 years old, 947 Newton street, and Edward Schultz, 12, of 1104 Canal street.

REVEAL CAPONE ALLY INDICTED BY U. S. IN PEORIA

Teddy Newberry Named in Rum Plot Charge.

Teddy Newberry, Capone gangster and public enemy in charge of booze and beer on Chicago's north side, is under indictment for violation of the prohibition law in western Illinois. This was disclosed yesterday.

WILLIAM F. WAUGH

Newberry and twenty-two others were indicted by the federal grand jury at Peoria on May 7 in connection with a huge alcohol distillery near Carbon Cliff, in Rock Island county. The United States marshal's office in Chicago, which had been requested to seize Newberry and four other Capone hoodlums, kept the several warrants secret until Attorney William F. Waugh announced that he would surrender Newberry.

First Indictment of Newberry.

This is Newberry's first indictment on liquor charges. The action leaves Frank [The Duke] Cooney, south side vice chief, as the only Capone gangster of public enemy rank who has not felt the lash of federal authority.

Newberry formerly was aligned with the old Moran-Zuta-Aiello north side gang, but after the St. Valentine day massacre and the subsequent slayings of Jack Zuta and Joe Aiello he fled to the Capone fold and has since been forcing Capone beer and booze on north side dispensers, according to investigators.

The other Chicago hoodlums indicted are Gabriel and Paul Cinquina and Tony and John Carsello, all of whom were indicted recently with 64 other defendants in the so-called middle west alcohol conspiracy which distributed 4,000,000 gallons of booze over four states. Bonds for the Cinquinas were fixed by Judge Louis Fitzhenry at $15,000 for Gabriel and $10,000 for Paul, and at $5,000 each for the Carsellos. The Carsellos have surrendered and made bond. Newberry's bond is $15,000.

3 Year Conspiracy Charged.

The indictment charges that the defendants conspired three years ago to operate continuously a distillery with a daily capacity of 2,000 gallons on the "Jandheere" farm, not far from Moline and Rock Island, in a group of buildings known as "the slaughter house and rendering plant." Besides the conspiracy count, there are substantive counts of manufacture, transportation and sale, making the defendants subject to the Jones law penalties of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Mike Blumberg, the Al Capone of Clinton, Ia., also named in the middle west conspiracy indictment, is a co-defendant with Newberry. Another defendant is O. W. Kempster, highway policeman of Sterling, Ill.

Attorney Waugh declared that Newberry had never been in Rock Island county and had never met any of the other defendants. He said, however, that his client would surrender late next week.

Named in Warrant

E. M. (TED) NEWBERRY.

WIFE WILL GET DIVORCE FROM JAS. P. CONNELL

Judge Rudolph F. Desort indicated yesterday that he would grant Mrs. Lucille Connell, 835 Sheridan road, a divorce from James P. Connell, former vice president of a printing concern. The bill and crossbill, in which each had charged the other with adultery, were dropped, and the decree will be granted on grounds of desertion.

Connell, who testified at a previous hearing that he had spent $197,000 in eighteen months, testified yesterday that he has little money left, but paid $1,500 which he was in arrears on temporary alimony payments. He promised to pay his wife $5,000 in lieu of permanent alimony, and to provide for the support and education of their daughter, Eleanor, 14 years old.

ENDS HIS LIFE WITH POISON.

John Sardera, 29 years old, a blacksmith out of work, swallowed poison in his home, 10789 Edbrooke avenue. He died in the Roseland community hospital.

FOUR KILLED AS 2 ARMY PLANES CRASH ON FLIGHT

San Antonio, Tex., July 16.—[Special.]—Two army planes collided at a low altitude over Brooks field here today and four flyers were killed. The dead are: Maj. Charles V. Hart, 54, flight surgeon and pilot; Capt. Carlos J. Chamberlain, medical officer of the New York National Guard, training here; Second Lieutenant K. Austin Rogers, 25, flying instructor, and Flying Cadet Endicott Longacre, 24.

The crash came as the planes were flying at between 300 and 400 feet, but no cause for the collision had been assigned by an army board of inquiry late tonight.

Maj. Hart and Capt. Chamberlain were flying in one of the planes and Lieut. Rogers was instructing Longacre in the other. Chamberlain was training to become a flight surgeon. The planes crashed into a field in a snarl of metal. Several other army ships were flying within sight and these landed immediately, but found the occupants dead. Neither ship caught fire.

Maj. Hart's residence was listed as Harrisburg, Pa., but he was married and was quartered at the field. Capt. Chamberlain lived in New York, Lieut. Rogers here, and Cadet Longacre in Washington.

2 CARS OF I. C. TRAIN DERAILED IN SO. CHICAGO

Two cars of a four car Illinois Central suburban train which had left Randolph street at 7:50 p. m. yesterday for South Chicago were derailed at 51st street and Commercial avenue at 8:23 p. m.

The accident was caused by the splitting of a switch leading into a crossover track between the northbound and southbound rail lines. The first and second cars continued on the track and dragged those derailed for 150 feet. One of the support towers of the trolley wires, standing between the north and south tracks, was struck by the last car and part of it was carried away.

None of the passengers—there were fewer than a dozen in the derailed cars—was hurt. Wrecking crews were sent out to repair the track and to replace the cars, but the southbound lane was blocked for several hours. Trains were re-routed, those bound south going around the wreck on the tracks ordinarily reserved exclusively for those headed north.

BOY DIES OF ARM INFECTION.

Fred Just, 8 years old, 4367 Oakenwald avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital from an arm infection he suffered when he fell from the elevated right of way of the Illinois Central railroad at 43d street on July 3.

MONTREAL, Que., July 16.—[Special.]—Members of the Illinois joint legislative committee on prisons arrived here today with their entourage, bound on a $25,000 junket trip to Europe to study foreign penal conditions. The entire group departed at 5 o'clock for Quebec, where they will board the Empress of Britain for Southampton, England. The expense is borne by the Illinois state treasury.

Other Members of Party.

Others on the party are:

Two Judges on Trip.

Judges Sullivan and Fisher and Senator Courtney are accompanying the junket as members of the judiciary advisory council.

The party, said to be the largest of its kind from Illinois, was greeted here by Mayor Camillien Houde. He arranged for a tour of inspection of the famous St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary. Several members of the commission availed themselves of the opportunity.

Senator Barr, chairman of the commission, told interviewers the prime object of the trip was the study of the manner in which first offenders are treated in other countries.

MAJ. GEN. GULICK TO REVIEW TROOPS AT FORT SHERIDAN

MAJ. GEN. GULICK.

Maj. Gen. John W. Gulick of Washington, chief of the coast artillery of the army, will arrive at Fort Sheridan at 11:30 a. m. today for a review of the summer troops quartered there. DEATH THREAT IS RECEIVED BY BELOIT HEIRESS

Beloit, Wis., July 16.—[Special.]—Police authorities of Beloit and of Rockford, Ill., today combined forces in a search for gangsters who have demanded $15,000 from Mrs. Florence Yates Scobie, heiress to the millions of the late Porter B. Yates and one of the richest women in Wisconsin. Unless their demands are met, the gangsters have threatened, Mrs. Scobie will be killed.

The heiress became the wife of David Pennistone Scobie, Chicago insurance broker, at her estate here on Wednesday, and the couple now is in Canada on a honeymoon trip. On the day of the wedding, it was learned today, a note signed "The Big Eight Gang" was received at the Yates estate, Hillcrest. It specified that the $15,000 must be delivered on the South 2d street road leading out of South Beloit early this morning.

Police and deputy sheriffs, accompanied by W. J. Baker, banker, and an agent of the Yates estate, went to the spot mentioned, which is south of the Illinois line. Baker carried a satchel filled with blank paper to represent money and the deputies and police, accompanied by Rockford authorities, hid themselves near by. The extortionists failed to appear, however.

U. S. to Free Goldhurst, Sent Up for Five Years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 16.—[Special.]—The department of justice announced today that a parole has been granted to Harry Goldhurst, former New York broker, who handled the stock speculation account of Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Goldhurst, who is serving a five year sentence for operating a bucket shop, will be paroled April 15, 1932. He was sentenced in June, 1928, and became eligible to parole last year. He now is confined at a prison camp at Camp Meade, Md.

Goldhurst and Charles W. Kable operated the investment concern of Kable & Co., which was proved to be a bucket shop. Kable as well as Goldhurst was indicted for use of the mails to defraud and conspiracy and was convicted.

That Bishop Cannon had been speculating in stocks through Kable & Co. leaked out following the indictment of Kable and Goldhurst by the federal grand jury in New York. The bishop denied he ever knew that the concern was a bucket shop. He also denied that he was speculating on margins, asserting that he was buying the stocks on a partial payment plan. He dealt in several hundred thousand dollars' worth of stocks and suffered a net loss.

Thomas Maclay Hoyne, one of Chicago's oldest practicing lawyers, whose office is in the Temple building, will celebrate his eighty-eighth birthday today in customary fashion.

If the weather permits, he and his brother, Frank G. Hoyne of Highland Park, who is in the real estate business, will play golf, after which they will lunch together.

The younger brother, Frank, is 77 years old today.

The two birthdays will be celebrated tonight at a family dinner party in the Highland Park residence.

Mr. Hoyne is taking a month's vacation in July, but in August will resume his daily work in his office. He was born in Galena, being brought to Chicago in a stage coach as a baby.

Mr. Hoyne is the father of six children, all of them born in Chicago and now living here. They are: Thomas Temple Hoyne, former State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne, Dr. Archibald Hoyne, Eugene M. Hoyne, Mrs. Frederick Ingraham, and Miss Mary Hoyne.

City to Greet Mother of Its Official Greeter Today

Mrs. Lou Gaw, 74 years old, mother of George D. Gaw, official city greeter, will arrive in Chicago at 8 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Gaw will arrive over the Big Four railway, coming from Owensboro, Ky., the birthplace of Chicago's official host. Plans have been made for Mrs. Gaw to take the first ride in the city's new white automobile, reserved for official guests.

Norton Tests New Police Shield; It Stops Bullets

Chief of Detectives Norton yesterday tested a bullet proof body shield, the invention of Martin Martinson of Princeton, Ill. Martinson offered to wear the shield—of rubber and steel—but Chief Norton was not willing and stood the shield in a corner of the detective bureau pistol range and fired a dozen shots into it. They did not penetrate the quarter inch thickness. The device would cover a man's head and torso and would be best used by automobile squads, Martinson said.

So much more for your money
The quality you insist on—
at a very low price★

The first time you drive a Pontiac you're due for a genuine surprise—especially if you have based your ideas on small cars costing just a little less. You'll find the whole "feel" of Pontiac different—it gives you a totally different kind of ride.

First is the feeling of power. You'll note pick-up, speed and a driving ease you never looked for at so low a price. If you like to get where you are going without being boxed in traffic or shifting too much on hills, you'll call Pontiac a performer after your own heart.

Then there's comfort—deep seats, flexible springs, four hydraulic shock absorbers and enough weight and length. And, even if you know little about mechanics, you'll readily see how rubber cushions at 43 points in Pontiac's chassis take up road shocks.

On sizzling summer days, and in wet weather, you'll marvel at how well Pontiac's insulated Fisher body shuts out heat and dampness. And when you run a critical eye over the interior fittings and finish, you'll see why Pontiac owners are so glad to have their friends ride with them . . . genuine mohair or whipcord upholstery, for one thing! (Fine leathers in open models.)

The graceful body lines, the broad one-piece fenders with neat built-in fender lamps, the deep V-radiator with its chrome screen—these and many other fine-car features will help make you proud to own a Pontiac . . . an outstanding General Motors value. You'll like the very low price, too—for what a satisfaction it is to get so much more for your money!

Any Oakland-Pontiac dealer will arrange a demonstration at your convenience.

'FREE AND EASY' WIFE IS HELD IN HUSBAND'S DEATH

Flaws Found in Her Story of Shooting.

Mrs. Hazel Scott, 33 years old, who was born and reared in Montana, admits she has "a free and easy manner" and is an adept with a pistol, was held last night on a charge of murdering her husband, Harold, 37 years old, who was shot in their home at 60 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, early yesterday morning.

The housewife insisted that her husband had committed suicide by shooting himself in the heart, but discrepancies in her story caused Assistant State's Attorney Edwin D. Markham to order the charge placed against her. Her bond was fixed at $10,000. She evinced no emotion when told of the accusation.

"Free and Easy" Manner.

Mrs. Scott declared that her husband had been jealous of her for several years because of her "free and easy" manner on parties with other men. Her training in Montana, she told police, was the reason for her attitude and there was no harm in it. However, Scott continually misinterpreted her motives, she said.

Thus, when the Scotts were at an Archer avenue roadhouse on Wednesday night, drinking some cold beer with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Page of Aurora, and Dale Pesley of the Fort Dearborn hotel, an argument arose over the proper attitude of a wife toward other men, according to Mrs. Scott's story.

The argument grew so heated that when the Scotts entered their home Mrs. Scott decided upon a stratagem to alarm her husband, she said.

"I took the pistol given me by a friend some years ago and with which both Mr. Scott and I had often practiced," she said, "and wrote a note to my son, Dale, 16 years old, saying I was going to commit suicide. I went into the bathroom, fired a shot into the ceiling and lay down.

"My husband came to the bathroom, broke in the door and found me lying there. At first he was scared, but when he saw that I was not shot he took the gun from me and said that two could play at that game. I heard a shot and he fell to the floor. I called a doctor, but he was dead."

Employed as Paint Salesman.

Scott was employed by the Bradley-Vrooman Paint company, 2632 South Dearborn street, as a salesman. His former home was in Richmond, Ind., and he was a graduate of Purdue university. The weapon with which the shooting was done had been presented to Mrs. Scott in 1927 by Edward J. Hurts, vice president of the company, a friend of the family.

Mrs. Scott told several stories before she gave the version related above.

RUSSELL HOLDS TO LEADING PLACE IN NATIONAL AIR TOUR

San Antonio, Tex., July 16.—(AP)—Harry Russell, Dearborn, Mich., piloting a Ford trimotor, led the contestants in the national air tour into San Antonio from Corpus Christi late today. The leg was completed in a driving rainstorm.

Russell, leader in the last announced point standings, brought his plane down three minutes ahead of L. R. Bayles, Springfield, Mass., in his diminutive Gee Bee. Charles H. Smart, Pine Bluff, Ark., followed in another Ford trimotor.

THEATER OWNERS AID IN WAR ON UNION RACKETS

Independent Group Backs Action Against Maloy.

Following the indictment of Thomas Maloy, business agent of the motion picture operators' union, and six others on Wednesday, the national organization of independent picture theater owners yesterday sent reinforcements to the aid of his Chicago members in combating union racketeering.

Besides assisting in the prosecution of Maloy and his associates, the national organization offered financial assistance sufficient to offset the $250,000 voted to Maloy recently by the union as a defense fund. This action was taken by the union before Maloy was indicted. The point at issue between the owners and the operators, it is said, is whether the owners are to continue to be forced by Maloy to hire two operators where they say only one is needed.

Offers Swanson Help.

Abram F. Meyers, president of the Allied States Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors, announced the outside help to State's Attorney John A. Swanson in the following telegram:

"Six thousand independent theater owners of the Allied States Association of America congratulate you for the courage you evidence by the return of the indictment against Chicago's nortorious theater racketeers. My personal representative, W. A. Steffes, has been sent to Chicago to render you all possible assistance in this great fight."

Maloy and his six associates were named in true bills charging conspiracy. Assistant State's Attorneys Charles E. Lounsbury and Charles Bellows say their evidence is sufficient to bring about convictions.

The prosecutors said that union members yesterday requested police protection at a union meeting. The operators had been called into session in the morning in the Capitol building and in response to the appeal a dozen detectives headed by Sergt. Michael Ahern were on hand.

"Too many coppers," said a union official, in calling off the meeting, according to the prosecutors.

In the afternoon Prosecutors Lounsbury and Bellows met Mr. Steffes, who comes from St. Paul, where he is president of the Northwest Allied Association of Theater Owners, a unit in the national organization of which Meyers is president.

Steffes said the 6,000 owners are ready for a nationwide battle with the union and are ready to start in Chicago. Many of the independent owners are being driven out of business by the demands of the union, he said.

Refuse Demand for Records.

The prosecutors said Miller, who is a former business agent of the operators union, had been designated as the one to handle the money appropriated for "settling labor disputes" and that he was indicted because he would not reveal to whom he paid the money.

All the records of the union are in the state's attorney's possession and the prosecutors also have the records of the larger theater owners which show the payments to union men, Mr. Lounsbury stated. He said Maloy demanded the return of the union records yesterday but was refused.

The prosecutors yesterday questioned several motion picture operators in their investigation of Maloy's affairs.

Order Suspect's Arrest.

Late in the day police were ordered to arrest John Mace, alias Joseph Macek, 39 years old, as a suspect in the Jacob Kaufman murder. Kaufman, an operator and a foe of Maloy, was shot several weeks ago. Mr. Bellows said he had been informed that Mace was known as a "heavy man" around the union headquarters, but had not been seen since the killing. He once lived in Brookfield but later moved to Lyons.

Sensitive instruments recording time, temperature and current consumption . . . a room heated to 120° Fahr.—hotter than most kitchens ever get . . . an impartial engineer believing nothing he can't prove.

Out of such a test emerged the simple fact that the Norge Electric Refrigerator chills faster, stays colder, freezes ice in less time . . . and does it all on less current.

THE TEST

At 8 p.m.—Norge temperature 50°—room temperature 120°.
Norge used least current of all tested.
Norge froze all ice cubes solid and in the least time.
This impartial comparative test is not nearly so extreme as the standard Norge factory test.

The test was conducted to decide which of all electric refrigerators was to be chosen for a thousand metropolitan apartments. Considerations of appearance, general construction, convenient arrangement, capacity, and prestige of the manufacturer narrowed the choice to four. And of the four, Norge was finally chosen.

THE ROLLATOR

Selecting a refrigerator for your home is little different from the problem facing the man who purchased a thousand. The things you want to know are the things he found out. So we suggest that, when you are ready to equip your home with electric refrigeration—see the Norge before you buy.

Norge is manufactured by Norge Corporation, Detroit, a Division of Borg-Warner, one of the world's largest makers of automotive parts, including free wheeling.

MYERS ASSURES PAY TO STRANDED TEACHER ABROAD

Salary Will Be Mailed; Source Secret.

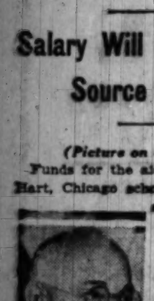
Funds for the aid of Miss Virginia Hart, Chicago school teacher who is stranded in Berlin due to the failure of the school board to pay her salary, will be forwarded to her in care of the American consul general there. President Lewis E. Myers of the school board informed that official in a cablegram last night.



LEWIS E. MYERS.

Because of the financial situation in Germany, Miss Hart will have to wait more than a week for her money, which will be sent by mail in the form of a post-office money order. It is impossible to cable money to any part of Germany, school officials said they were informed.

President Myers said that the money would not come from any fund in the depleted school treasury, but refused to say whether he was paying it out of his own pocket. Miss Hart is on sabbatical leave at half pay from her duties as a teacher at the Lovett elementary school. The school board owes her $120 for May and June.

Mayor Cermak received a wireless message from the consul at Berlin on Wednesday, informing him of Miss Hart's plight and turned it over to the board of education with the comment that he had been invited not to concern himself with affairs of the board and would not do so in the Hart case.

Yesterday the mayor got a telegram from Miss Elizabeth Hart, a sister of Virginia, who is also a school teacher. The telegram disclosed that the family financial situation had been further complicated by the closing of the family's bank, and demanded that public officials "do something."

"I would be glad to help in the situation, but I have been told to mind my own business. This teacher should know better," the mayor said, referring to Elizabeth Hart's message. "I consider her one of those cranks inspired to do something which doesn't amount to anything. I didn't send the teacher to Berlin, and I am not responsible for the unpaid salaries. The board got itself into this mess."

Scrip Payments Today.

The first payments of scrip will be made today to 685 teachers who have applied for it, it was stated yesterday by Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the board of education.

Since Monday, when the board started receiving applications, 2,600 employes have applied for the scrip.

Although loop banks and most merchants persisted in their refusal to accept scrip yesterday, offers to take it were made from some other sources. The Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, Coke and Light, and Public Service companies will accept it, they announced. Railroad passenger agents will meet today to consider a plan to accept the scrip.

It was reported yesterday at school board offices that the board has received an offer from a New York investment house to purchase the scrip, in large blocks, at a discount which was said to range between 1 and 3 per cent. Such sales would be up to employes who receive the scrip, it was pointed out.

by the board, among which was instruction in rifle practice. He said he did not think some of these constituted education for the public schools.

You also instruct in pistol shooting," commented Mr. Sargent. "Do you approve of making expert shots with the pistol of the school boys?"

"You are turning out graduates of the Chicago Normal college, at great cost, which you cannot employ, are you not?" asked S. E. Thomason.

"We will absorb them in two or two and a half years," replied William Bogan, superintendent of schools.

Starting Now, Says Myers.

"Why does not the board practice economy," asked Mr. Sargent for the third time.

"We are starting," said Mr. Myers.

"It is a little late," commented Mr. Insull.

"How has the Otis school law worked?" asked Mr. Sargent.

"In some respects it has been a failure," replied Mr. Myers. "It was designed to take politics out of the schools and it has been ineffective."

"You were quoted as saying at the last meeting that $10,000,000 could be saved in operating the schools," put in Mr. Insull.

"What I said was that if I could run it as a private business I believed I could save $10,000,000 a year," said Mr. Myers.

"Cannot you make some substantial saving?" asked Mr. Thomason.

Question Called Dangerous.

"In an institution spending $100,000,000 a year, how much can you save?" persisted Mr. Insull.

"That's a dangerous question to answer," said Myers. "Give us a little time, a week—and I believe the board will have decided upon a saving of $4,000,000 to $5,000,000. I cannot pledge the board, but I think they will surprise you next Wednesday at the next meeting."

Later in telling of his efforts, Mr. Myers said that about 26,000 window panes were broken last year at a cost for replacement of about $100,000. He went on:

"The board has bought and has on hand about three years' supply of putty and glass."

"Is that so?" snapped Mr. Insull. "You have appropriated $152,804 for replacement of window glass this year," said Harris Keeler of the bureau of public efficiency.

"It will probably all be spent," interposed Mr. Myers.

"You have appropriated for 40 glazers at $13.60 a day for a total of 11,240 man days," went on Mr. Keeler. "If they put in 27,000 window panes, you will average 2.4 window panes per day by each man."

"Our records will show that is wrong," put in one of the school officials.

"But that is what you have appropriated," retorted Keeler.

Withall Doesn't Know.

"When was three year's supply of putty and glass bought?" asked Mr. Insull of Withall.

"I do not know," said Withall.

"You knew it had been bought," asked Corporation Counsel Sexton.

"I did not, until I heard it from the president," said Withall.

"If that can happen in putty and glass, it can happen in typewriters and desks and other things," commented Mr. Insull.

"Before this three years' supply was bought, didn't you check up to see how much you needed?" asked Mr. Sargent.

"No, I did not," said Withall.

"Does any one keep check to know how much personal property the board has and where it is," asked Mr. Sargent.

Too Great a Task.

"The board abolished the property control bureau six months ago," explained Withall. "It only had two employés and it was unfair to ask them to keep track of all the board's property."

"I think it was unfair, too," remarked Mr. Sexton, "because it would take one man to keep track of the three years' supply of glass and putty."

"Where do you keep all that glass and putty?" asked Sargent.

"O, in the warehouse," said Withall.

"And it is scattered among the 400 schools," added Mr. Myers.

"How do you happen to know about the three years' supply of glass and putty and the business manager didn't?" asked Mr. Thomason.

Discovered by Accident.

Withall explained that he had been on a vacation and Myers said he discovered the information "by accident."

"Haven't you any legal responsibility for buying so much glass and putty?" asked Mr. Sexton.

"I suppose I have a moral responsibility," said Withall.

"What are the duties of your office?" asked Thomason.

"Practically everything," said the business manager.

"That's a very poor answer," snapped Mr. Insull.

"What was your former business?" asked Mr. Sargent.

"I have been business manager for three years and before that I was secretary in State's Attorney Crowe's office; before that chairman of the industrial commission under Gov. Small, and before that in the mediation department of the state under Gov. Lowden."

"Then you have not had any recent experience in business management?" asked Mr. Thomason.

"That covers my employment for the last fourteen years," explained Mr. Withall.

Queried About Autos.

"How many autos has the board of education?" asked Mr. Sargent, and the business manager produced a list.

"Does each of these cars have a driver?"

"Yes, at $200 a month."

What kind of cars do you use?

"Superintendent Bogan and Trustee Caldwell have Lincolns and we have four Packards and four Buicks."

"These cars are used to drive the trustees to the board meetings only?" asked Mr. Wantz.

"Yes, and out to the schools nearly every day.

"What are the trustees doing driving around to the schools nearly every day?" asked Trustee Carr, who has been on the board only two months.

"Are any of these cars used in private business?" asked Mr. L. Sargent.

"Not that I know of," said Withall.

In the plans to save $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 it is understood that certain trustees at a private session yesterday considered delaying opening of schools a week and also increasing the number of pupils by two for each teacher.

REPORTS RAPID WORK ON FILL IN LINCOLN PARK

Progress by the Lincoln park commissioners on the work of filling in the lake north of Montrose avenue has been "exceptionally good," Louis Nettelhorst, secretary of the park board, announced following an inspection of the work yesterday. He said that the project should be finished ahead of schedule time.

Sand brought from Indiana Harbor is being poured into the water from boats of the Construction Materials corporation, the general contractor. The project will cost $3,000,000. It will make way for extension of the outer drive northward from Montrose avenue to Foster street.

AUTO TOUR HUNT FOR EYESORES OF HIGHWAYS BEGUN

The first mapping of eyesores and beauty perils which dot the highways of Illinois was begun yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lawton of Glens Falls, N. Y., specialists in highway beautification, left Chicago by automobile to tour several thousand miles of Illinois highway.

A caravan of automobiles launched the tour by accompanying the Lawtons to St. Charles, where Mrs. Lawton will address a Fox river valley improvement association luncheon today. Included among those who made the trip to St. Charles were representatives from the Woman's City club, Chicago Outdoor Art league, Friends of Our Native Landscape, Prairie club, City club, Chicago Woman's club, Conservation council, Municipal Art league, and the Garden Clubs of Illinois.

The delegation was headed by Mrs. Howard C. Phillips, chairman of the billboard and roadside committee of the Lake Forest Garden club, which launched the movement with the help of 103 other members of the Garden Clubs of Illinois.

Mrs. Lawton is chairman of the National Council for Protection of Roadside Beauty. The six weeks' tour of Illinois highways is largely financed by the American Nature association, she said.

CHICAGO NEEDS PLEA TO HELP HUNGRY PUPILS

Fund Grows and So Does Children's Need.

Contributions to the fund for destitute and hungry school children, which was inaugurated by THE TRIBUNE and William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, have shown an increase during the last week, according to Mr. Bogan.

"It is particularly gratifying," Mr. Bogan said, "to note the number of small contributions received. These are from persons who themselves are feeling the depression but who nevertheless feel the plight of small children."

Teachers and Doctors Give.

Of interest to the educators was the number of physicians and school teachers who have contributed to the fund. The teachers have not been paid for three months.

At the beginning of the campaign in behalf of needy pupils Mr. Bogan said that $3,000 would carry them through the summer. Approximately $700 has been received and all of the balance will be needed if some of the school children being fed at schools, playgrounds, and community centers are not to go in want.

THE TRIBUNE will be glad to receive and acknowledge in its column contributions to this fund.

Contributions Are Listed.

Contributions received during the last week and immediately turned over to the home economics department of the school system included the following:

$25.00.

Mrs. Mary Maroney, Walter L. Cherry, Mann's Club of C. & N. W., Anonymous.

"We would like to impress on the public that, while the contributions are being received in gratifying numbers, the need is growing also," said Miss Frances L. Swain, director of home economics in the public schools.

PAROLED EMBEZZLER DENIED WRIT; MUST RETURN TO PRISON

McKee Marshall, former bucket shop operator convicted of embezzlement and sentenced to serve one to ten years in prison in 1922, was denied a writ of habeas corpus by Judge Peter M. Schwaba yesterday in the Criminal court and was remanded to Joliet penitentiary.

He was paroled in 1928, stayed in Chicago a few months and went then to Detroit and afterwards New York, where has was arrested for a stock deal in Detroit. He was extradited to Chicago after the Illinois parole board held that he had violated his parole by leaving the state.

His attorney, W. G. Anderson, argued that only three of the nine members of the board were of that opinion, but Assistant Attorney General John E. Johnson produced a certified document to prove that it was the united decision of the nine. Johnson maintained that the proper way to decide the matter would be through a writ of certiorari to the Illinois Supreme court rather than by a writ of habeas corpus.

AGED MOTHER OF FLYER, INVALID, IS HAPPY TODAY

Propped Up in Bed, She Prays All Night for Son.

Cincinnati, O., July 16.—(AP)—A real hero and idol is Capt. George Endres, Hungarian trans-Atlantic flyer, to his parents and brothers and sister, who live here. The four walls of the humble Endres living room are covered with scores of his photographs which show him as a child, student, cadet, army officer, aviator, bridegroom and in dozens of other rôles.

Mrs. John Endres, the flyer's 71 year old mother, seriously ill with cancer, cried when the flash of the landing in Hungary was telephoned to her: "Ah! That makes my heart beat better." Propped up in bed, she had prayed all night for success of the flight.

She said "Yurga," her pet name for her son, had promised to return here in September and provide medical treatment, X-rays and radium for her affliction, from funds he expected to earn from the flight.

"You see, this ocean trip had a real meaning to me," she joyfully told newspaper men.

His Sister's Birthday.

John Endres, former police chief of Perjamos, Hungary, told of his son's army service. He said George was a Hungarian flying ace who shot down several allied planes and won 24 decorations during the war.

"Once my son was shot down in the flying service," Endres said, "and spent two years afterwards as a ground officer." In a big offensive, the Russians captured 6,000 Hungarian troops, including my son. He was confined as a prisoner in Siberia, but escaped through Russia and Sweden and rejoined his army. For this heroic return, he was decorated for bravery by Emperor Franz Josef.

"Our son was the first soldier to personally receive a decoration for war bravery by the emperor. His 24 medals covered his breast by armistice time."

The trans-Atlantic flyer, a Hungarian resident, visited his parents a month ago, and relatives said he told them he planned to return in September if the flight were successful, make his home here, and become an American citizen.

"Little Hungary" Celebrates.

Detroit, Mich., July 16.—(AP)—"Little Hungary," a colorful section of Detroit, populated by 30,000 foreign born, tonight celebrated the completion of a trans-Atlantic flight that two years ago had its inception in a foreign language newspaper office here.

Hundreds of native costumed Hungarians paraded to martial Hungarian music through the west end street when the news was flashed that Capt. George Endres and Capt. Alexander Magyar had landed their plane Justice for Hungary near Budapest, the goal of their flight across the ocean.

A parade wound through the downtown section to the Detroit city hall, where speeches were made and congratulations offered by Mayor Frank Murphy. Church services will be held tomorrow, offering thanks for the flight's success.

Planned Trip in Detroit.

It was in Detroit's "Little Hungary" that Magyar, then a lieutenant in the Hungarian aviation reserve, first broached the idea of aiding his native land by making the flight. Magyar placed his idea before Franz Prattinger, editor of the Hungarian News here. They unsuccessfully sought financial backing for more than a year before Lord Rothermere offered $10,000 to the first Americans to fly from North America to Budapest. Then, as a result of this offer, Emil Salay, a retired manufacturer, living in Flint, Mich., put up $20,000 to finance the trip.

Capt. Endres, Hungary's leading flyer, was brought here for the flight and Endres and Magyar attempted to make the trip last summer, but were held up by mechanical defects in their plane. Most of last winter was spent in working on the plane at Ford airport here.

More than 5,000 postal cards, sent by Hungarian residents in many cities in the United States, were carried by the flyers, to be mailed back to this country upon their arrival.

SPAN ATLANTIC TO BUDAPEST

Above is shown the route flown by George Endres and Alexander Magyar, Hungarians who flew from Harbor Grace, N. F., to Budapest. The Justice of Hungary, so named to focus attention on what is termed the injustices done Hungary after the world war, is the first airplane to make the flight to the Hungarian capital.

LOAD TOO HEAVY, FLYERS UNABLE TO TAKE TO AIR

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 17.—(AP)—Hugh Herndon Jr. and Clyde Pangborn failed in an attempt to take off on their intended round-the-world flight at 6:30 a. m., Chicago daylight saving time, today. Their heavily laden plane ran down the full length of the 4,800 foot runway, went over an embankment onto Roosevelt Field No. 2, and still failed to rise.

The flyers dumped 600 of their 850 gallons of gasoline to save themselves from crashing. Their plane, suddenly lightened by the loss of their fuel, leaped into the air and barely cleared a hangar, several electric light poles and high tension wires. They circled around the field and flew back to the runway position.

HUNGARIANS FLY OCEAN WITHOUT ONCE SEEING IT

French soil, although our bearings indicated it must be French.

"Finally I was able to drop down through the rain to a railroad station and Magyar managed to pick up its name. We were in France, but a little off our course. We went through Germany, northern Switzerland, and Austria in stormy weather, which lasted practically to Munich.

"Before we started we figured we had enough gasoline to last us to eastern Hungary if the weather was good. While we were still over the Atlantic I had connected up one tank and found it didn't work, so I had to cut it out.

"By the time we got to Linz, in Austria, it became evident that our fuel might not hold out. But we decided to keep on to Budapest. At Gyor, on the Danube, more than half way between Vienna and Budapest, the motor cut out on us. Fortunately we were 4,000 feet up, so that I was able with the hand pump to get the last drop out of the gravity tank.

"We couldn't land at Gyor, but chose the first good place we saw. We came down a little hard on account of the ground being so rough, but a brief examination showed there was still some gas in our tanks. Whether it was because the pump went wrong that we could not get it I am not yet sure.

"All I drank on the trip was a little water this morning and all I ate was one tomato sandwich, made in Newfoundland. The plane behaved so well that I was able to do a job of one hand steering all the way which would have earned me a ticket from any New York traffic cop.

"My navigator proved he knows his stuff. And I'll bet no trip ever has been made with so many bearings. We found those we got from ships the most useful. Coastal stations in England could not help us much because so many people were cutting in.

"What will I do next? I intend to go back to America—fly back in the Justice for Hungary. But I am going to take some other route, either north or south."

The two airmen are to be the heroes of a long program tomorrow. It will be shared with them by Stephen Szalay, Michigan sausage manufacturer, who financed their trip.

Flyers Win Praise of U. S.

New York, July 16.—(AP)—Hangars and clubs and other places where birdmen gather resounded today with praise for the scientific flying which took Alexander Magyar and George Endres over the ocean to Budapest. Despite the mishap which forced them down 14 miles from Budapest after they had flown over the city, the trip was considered only short of Lindbergh's famous exploit for precision.

They came mighty close to hitting their destination "on the nose." No one since Lindbergh thus far has been able to start for a point in continental Europe and actually come down in the exact announced spot.

TWO 90 CENT BOOKS ON NAVIGATION AID FLYERS OVER OCEAN

St. Louis, Mo., July 16.—(AP)—Two navigation books costing 90 cents guided Capt. Alexander Magyar and Capt. George Endres on their flight from Newfoundland to Hungary. This was revealed here today by Lieut. John Geppert, who last fall gave Magyar lessons in nautical astronomy.

Magyar, having completed a three months course at an air college near here, sought additional instruction from Geppert, an officer in the naval reserve. Geppert gave him the books, a treatise issued by the hydrographic office, costing 75 cents, and a 15 cent nautical almanac.

The flyers apparently followed a course mapped out at Geppert's home when plans for the flight were being discussed, Geppert said.

POST AND GATTY START AIR TOUR; HERE SATURDAY

New York, July 16.—(AP)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, world flyers, start their national air tour tomorrow with Schenectady, N. Y., as their first stop. During the first week of their tour they will visit Schenectady, Walden, N. Y., Boston and Springfield, Mass., and Chicago.

Post and Gatty will leave New York in their world girdling Winnie Mae at 6 p. m. tomorrow. FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES

Resinol clears them away

"My complexion was very poor because of pimples and blackheads which covered my face and neck. I had been advised to try Resinol Soap and Ointment, but had tried so many other things without success I was digusted with everything. However, a friend urged me to try a sample anyway. In three days' time the improvement was so great I could hardly believe it. I will always have a word of praise for Resinol." (Signed)—

TOMORROW afternoon, all Chicagoans and their visitors will have the opportunity to see what many term as the greatest race horse in history. Twenty Grand, if he wins the $90,000 Classic tomorrow at Arlington, will be acclaimed as the all-time champion—a super horse far exceeding any other thoroughbred in the memory of followers of the turf.

Twenty Grand is the stellar attraction in this, the World's Richest race for 3-year-olds of the season. This generous purse is made possible by the unique non-profit policy in force at Arlington, that allows not one cent for personal use. Only a track with a policy such as this could offer $70,000 in added money for such a race.

Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney's great horse has come to Chicago especially for this race because his owner and trainer expect him to come through and add this money to his high winnings with comparative ease.

Contending against Twenty Grand will be Mate, who twice beat him—once as a two-year-old and in the Preakness this year; Spanish Play, victor in the Louisiana and Latonia Derbies; Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt's Sun Meadow, and others—all great horses in their own rights.

Don't miss this amazing show tomorrow. There will be plenty of room in the spacious grandstand and enclosure at beautiful Arlington. Also there will be no increase in admission prices. It costs only $2.20 to get in and $1.00 extra for a grandstand box seat. Come early and mix with the great, colorful crowd. Enjoy the excitement, glamour and thrills that such a spectacle and such a horse can bring.

NELSON TO TELL STATUS OF ALL CLOSED BANKS

Auditor and Committees Continue Conferences.

Conferences with a number of directors and depositors' committees yesterday engaged the attention of State Auditor Oscar Nelson, who is endeavoring to straighten out the tangled financial situation resulting from the closing of a number of outlying banks. While nothing definite was decided yesterday, Mr. Nelson expects to make a report shortly regarding the financial status of all the banks involved.

OSCAR NELSON.

"I am conferring with directors and depositors' committees daily," Mr. Nelson said in discussing the program of the work of his office. "I outline to them the requirements for the reorganization of the banks in which they are interested. If they can meet them, well and good, but we doubt that there will be many cases in which reorganization will be possible.

Work with Receivers.

"The receivers we have appointed in almost every instance are working in harmony with depositor committees and they have been meeting with very good success.

"One of the chief difficulties we have had to contend with is seeing that debtors of banks pay up. As an example, a party may have a mortgage made with a bank that has closed. Well, he figures that he will try to get out of his debt at a low figure inasmuch as the bank is shut. So he will get some third party to dicker with the receiver to accept a figure much lower than the mortgage calls for, believing that the receiver will not go to the trouble of collecting the full amount. Of course our office will not agree to such transactions. And in estimating the capacity of debtors to pay stockholders and depositors often can be very helpful."

Favors Separate Receivers.

Mr. Nelson reiterated his position that depositors of banks that have closed can best be served through administrations by individual receivers rather than through the appointment of a blanket receiver to act for all the closed banks.

"Experience has taught us that better results are obtainable through the individual receiver," Mr. Nelson continued. "The work can be done at less expense to the depositors for it is easier for us to fix the amount of compensation in individual cases. Recent reports of high fees paid receivers as obtained from court records have not always been fair. It is easy for a receiver to request a high amount for his services in a court petition, but we don't have to pay the amount he demands and where we find the amount excessive we pay what we think is just."

In response to an inquiry as to the status of the Laramie State bank, which closed in August, 1930, Mr. Nelson stated that collections have been slow and litigation has retarded the receivership.

Mr. Nelson stated that depositors of the Builders and Merchants' Bank and Trust company, which closed April 13, who are agitating for the appointment of Clarence A. Beutel, president of the Phillip State bank, as receiver in place of Will H. Wade, the incumbent, represent only a part of the total depositors of the bank and so far the state auditor's office is satisfied with Mr. Wade's work.

Investors' Losses in Land Bank Bonds Laid to Inefficient U. S. Supervision

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 16.—[Special.]—Charges that inefficiency of supervision on the part of the federal reserve board is responsible for the failure of some, if not all, of the member banks of the federal reserve system are matched by charges that inefficiency of supervision on the part of the federal farm loan board is responsible for the losses of investors in the obligations of the federal land banks and the joint stock land banks.

The members of both of these boards are appointed by the President. The chairman of each of the boards is Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

The management of the federal land banks and the joint stock land banks has been involved in a great deal of scandal. For years, despite the fact that the federal farm loan board was headed by the "greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton" the examination and supervision of the federal land banks and the joint stock land banks were a farce.

Some in Receiverships.

As a result some of the banks were thrown into receiverships, some of the officers were prosecuted and convicted and the value of the bonds issued by the institutions suffered a decline that produced in many cases a considerable loss for investors who purchased at par and later were compelled to sell.

The scandal eventually became so odoriferous that the administration was compelled to undertake a thorough house cleaning. Mr. Mellon, who had professed an inability under the restrictions of the law to prevent the scandal, succeeded eventually, with the aid of Eugene Meyer, in bringing comparative order out of chaos and under a reorganized board the banks are now being subjected to a nursing regimen.

There appears to be a widespread notion that federal land bank bonds and joint stock land bank bonds are obligations of the United States government, or at least are guaranteed by the government. Thousands of investors are said to have purchased such securities under the impression that the obligations possessed some sort of governmental backing and thus were as good as gold.

Obligations of the Banks.

This, however, is not true. The government, although it undertook a certain responsibility of supervision of the banks, assumed no responsibility for the bonds the institutions might issue. The bonds are exclusively the obligations of the banks. The land bank bonds are the collective liability of the twelve federal land banks. The joint stock land bank bonds are the liability of the particular joint stock land bank issuing them.

The fourteen issues of federal land bank bonds are now quoted at prices ranging from 84 to par. The 82 issues of joint stock land bank bonds range in price from 10 to 94, the average being 64.

These banks were organized during the Wilson administration to supply cheap credit to farmers. The money for the loans was procured from the sale of bonds bearing 4, 4½, and 5 per cent interest. The government undertook to see to it that the banks were conservatively managed. Virtually all of the 9 millions capital of the federal land banks were subscribed initially by the government. Nearly all the government stock has now been retired. Of the 66 millions aggregate present capital, 65 millions are owned by farm loan associations.

Provided for Inspections.

The government undertook to see to it that the loans should be made on land security conservatively valued, that an adequate margin of safety should be provided for bond issues, that all bond issues should be approved in advance by the federal farm loan board, and that the banks should be inspected periodically by federal officers. These undertakings were honored by the government more in the breach than the observance.

Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], charged in a speech during the last congress that under amendatory legislation slipped through congress designing money interests had been enabled to steal the farm loan system from farmer control. He also accused Mr. Meyer of having wrecked what remained of the system during the two years that he professed to be reorganizing it, Mr. Meyer hotly denied the truth of the accusation.

23 of 61 Pay Dividends.

Only four the twelve federal land banks and nineteen of the forty-nine joint stock land banks ever have paid dividends.

On Dec. 31, 1930, the federal land banks had 410,493 loans with a total unpaid principal of $1,130,604,354 outstanding. The amount of bonds of these banks outstanding was $1,136,447,020. These banks held about 20 millions worth of real estate acquired under foreclosures.

A receivership for the Spokane Federal Land bank because of frozen real estate assets was averted when financial aid to the extent of $2,800,000 was furnished pro rata by the 11 other banks.

The joint stock land banks, three of which were forced into receiverships and one of which is being voluntarily liquidated, are chartered by the farm loan board but are privately organized, the stock being subscribed by the investigating public. The total capital paid in at the end of the last year was nearly 48 millions. Forty-four of these banks had surplus, reserves and undivided profits aggregating $13,427,754 and five had deficits aggregating $3,013,034.

Chicago Bank Has Deficit.

The Chicago Joint Stock Land bank had a deficit of $1,136,750, the Des Moines bank, $744,586; the First Carolinas, Columbia, S. C., $216,201; the St. Louis bank, $6,040, and the Southern Minnesota, $909,495. The banks in the hands of receivers are the Kansas City, the Bankers of Milwaukee and the Ohio of Cincinnati. The Kansas City bank has been reorganized and is about to be discharged from receivership.

The aggregate outstanding amount of loans to farmers by the joint stock land banks on Dec. 31 last was $590,810,882. The amount of bonds outstanding was $612,119,900. Real estate acquired by the banks under foreclosures was valued at 21 millions.

SHIP ROTARIAN GIVES OWNERS A CASH WORRY

Remove It by July 31 or Pay Fine, Devine Told.

How to raise, demolish, or by some other method get rid of the old ship Rotariah, which rests half sunk, on the bottom of the Chicago river at the Clark street bridge, became a pressing problem for its owners yesterday after one of them was fined $1,000 for obstructing the river with a menace to navigation.

MILES J. DEVINE.

Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller assessed the fine against Miles J. Devine, joint owner of the ship with Walter J. Powers. City Prosecutor Michael L. Rosinia agreed that the fine would be vacated if the vessel is removed before July 31. Powers has been summoned to appear in court on July 23, when the prosecutor indicated, a fine of $1,000 may be assessed against him.

Devine told Judge Schiller that he has done everything possible to raise the boat. He criticised Powers, who, he said, has hidden himself and let him, Devine, "hold the bag." He also criticised Sebastian Schwager, contractor, who started to raise the boat but abandoned the job when his cables broke and let it slip back to the river bottom. According to Schwager funds ran short and his men refused to work. Another attempt to raise the boat will be made by John E. Murphy, its former owner, Devine said.

"He knows every rail and timber of her," Devine asserted, "and if he can't raise her nobody can."

Later in the day Devine filed the praecipe of a suit for $75,000 against Powers in the Superior court. The suit is for damages to the Rotarian caused by its sinking, for which he holds Powers responsible, he stated.

The Rotarian, which is 46 years old, first was towed into the river three years ago and for awhile served as headquarters for the Cook County Democracy, a political organization supporting the former city administration. Later it was used as a taxi dance hall and finally was turned into a chop house run by Powers. On Oct. 11, 1930, it turned over on its side and sank.

COMPLETE ORAL PLEAS IN TRANSIT ORDINANCE TEST

The first phase of the quo warranto proceedings to test the validity of the transit legislation and ordinance ended yesterday when attorneys in the case completed their arguments before Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski in the Circuit court.

ALLAN T. GILBERT. [Moffett Photo.]

Judge Klarkowski announced that within a few days he would set a date for delivering his decision. Allan T. Gilbert, one of the special transit attorneys for the city, said that the city hopes to have the decision before Aug. 11, the last date for sending the case to the Illinois Supreme court in time for consideration at its October term.

Attorneys from the offices of the attorney general and the state's attorney are attacking the constitutionality of the transit measures in order to obtain an early Supreme court decision upon them. The city's attorneys are defending the case.

CHINESE DEMAND DEATH PENALTY FOR CHICAGOAN

PEIPING, China, July 16.—(AP)—Execution of Dr. Francis F. Tucker, treasurer of the William S. Porter Memorial hospital operated by the American board of missions at Techow, Shantung, has been demanded by the Kuomintang in the Techow district, as the penalty for the death a native hospital employé whom Dr. Tucker shot last week in the belief he was a burglar. Tucker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Tucker, 1938 Home avenue, Chicago.

The Kuomintang asks the physician's immediate arrest and suspension of the activities of the mission. It demands an apology from the American minister and payment of an indemnity to the dead man's family.

The American consul at Tsinanfu reported that Dr. Tucker, after a series of burglaries at the hospital, le. a revolver under his pillow on a cot in his office. Last Saturday night he was awakened by a man who entered the office with a skeleton key. The intruder started to flee when Dr. Tucker awoke and the physician shot him. Any effort to bring Dr. Tucker to trial in the Chinese courts would be vigorously opposed, legation officials said.

GIRL ON MOTOR TRIP TO VISIT FIANCE KILLED

A motor trip to see her fiancé, a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, ended in tragedy last night when Miss Grace Nilson, 18 years old, of 1328 South 48th court, Cicero, was killed in an automobile crash at Albany, N. Y.

Miss Nilson, a high school graduate and daughter of Nils T. Nilson, a metallurgist for the International Harvester company, was driving east with Mrs. George F. Sellers of 6541 Riverside drive, Berwyn, to visit the latter's son, George Jr. Their car left the road and crashed into a telephone pole, resulting in injuries to the girl which resulted in her death several hours later. Mrs. Sellers, wife of the president of the Excel Photo Service company, Inc., 1316 South Crawford avenue, was unhurt.

Three deaths were reported in Chicago last night, increasing the Cook county motor toll for the year to 614. The victims:

Mrs. Rose Basile, 40 years old, 2827 Wentworth avenue. Killed by the automobile driven by Joseph Manella, 22 years old, 3211 South Wells street, at Wentworth avenue and 28th street. He was held.

Unidentified man, about 65 years old. Fatally injured last night in the east drive of Sherman park at 32d street. John Hauftman, 5200 South Laflin street, the driver, was held.

Mrs. Mary Blinder, 49 years old, of 1814 Colfax avenue, Evanston. Died in Rogers Park hospital of injuries suffered July 2 when the automobile driven by her husband, Samuel, collided with a taxi.

MAYOR CALLS ON AUTO OWNERS TO GET CARS TESTED

Mayor Anton J. Cermak yesterday issued a proclamation asking the motorists of Chicago to avail themselves of the tests of their cars which will be made in the seven inspection lanes next week as a part of the safety week program.

The arrangements for the lanes were completed yesterday. Locations of the lanes will be: south of Soldiers' field between the inner and outer drives, Fair Oaks avenue between Broadway and Sheridan road, Kedzie and Logan boulevards, Homan avenue between Madison street and Warren boulevard, South Ashland avenue between 63d and 69th streets, and Stony Island avenue between 79th and 79th streets for passenger automobiles; Polk street between Union avenue and Halsted street for trucks.

FUTURE OF U. S. FARMS ASSURED, LEGGE ASSERTS

Agriculture is still solvent despite its recent recessions, and has an assured future in the next thirty years, Alexander Legge, former chairman of the federal farm board, told representatives of the National Live Stock Marketing association yesterday in their meeting at the Hotel La Salle.

ALEXANDER LEGGE

Mr. Legge cited figures to prove his statements. The peak value of tilled farm land in the United States was 80 billion dollars, and this has been deflated to 42 billions, of which but 22 per cent, or 9¼ billions of dollars worth, is encumbered, he said.

If the population increases during the next thirty years at anywhere near the rate of increase between 1900 and 1930—which was 41 per cent—increased production of farm produce will be necessary, he asserted.

EFFORT MADE TO POISON HER, SAYS WOMAN WITNESS

New York, July 16.—[Special.]—A witness in the disbarment proceedings against the fifteen attorneys accused by Samuel Seabury today testified before Referee Clarence J. Shearn that an attempt had been made to poison her after she had testified in the vice inquiry.

She further refused to tell her present address, because "the police are after me."

She is Mrs. Lillian Greiner, arrested in November, 1928, by Patrolman Irwin O'Leary, in her beauty parlor, on a charge of prostitution.

On direct examination she had told Einar Chrystie, prosecuting the disbarment cases for the bar association and the New York County Lawyers' association, that William J. McAuliffe, one of the accused attorneys, had asked her for $200 to "square" the police.

YARDMASTER STRUCK BY ENGINE.

Thomas R. Honan, 53 years old, 7518 Wentworth avenue, a yardmaster for the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, was knocked down by a switching engine at Taylor and Clark streets yesterday and was taken to St. Luke's hospital slightly injured.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE SNOOT-KICKERS' APOLOGIA.

Trustee Savage of the school board has risen to defend the holdover majority of the board against the charges made before the governor's committee. He may be regarded as the spokesman of the trustees appointed to kick King George's snoot out of the Chicago public schools.

"I notice," he said, "that no one has cited any specific case of graft or corruption or pointed to one act which sustains the charges."

The accusation for the moment is not graft and corruption, but gross mismanagement. The charge has been made and has not been denied that the costs of maintaining the schools in Chicago are far higher than in other comparable cities and that the excessive cost runs into millions of dollars. Mr. Insull says the janitorial costs look 50 per cent too high to him. Mr. Sargent says the engineer-custodians of the schools make more money than locomotive engineers, who are the aristocracy of union labor. The Chicago Building Managers' association made a special study of the janitorial costs in the public schools and found them grossly excessive. Mr. Keeler found, in a personal investigation, that some janitors were giving only a half day's work for a full day's pay.

The charge has been made that the school board has purchased acres of land which it does not now need. The charge has been made that school board contracts were let at excessive figures. The charge has been made that the school board, in preparing its present budget, must have known that this would be a year of financial stringency, but, nevertheless, made no effort to hold costs down to a minimum. To all these charges Mr. Savage makes no reply. And neither do any of his snoot-kicking colleagues.

THE AMERICAN TABLE.

THE TRIBUNE Friday food pages must frequently have a wholesome and pleasing salivary effect upon the interested citizen. They reveal America as the land which should be most worth while to the friends of the table because of its infinite variety. If it lacks the full art of cooking, that may be regarded hopefully. The variety is not only of foodstuffs but of the world's cuisine. Each nation which has contributed its people has contributed also its dishes. Modern transportation has communized climate and soil. It brings the semi-tropics into midwinter. The seasons are rolled into one.

The American table may never be as robust again as it was shortly before and after the civil war, when game abounded and there were no game laws, but the people themselves haven't such gorgeous demands as may be seen satisfied on an old Palmer house menu. There is still, however, a diversification of food products into which local customs and traditions as well as soil and climate have gone. Each state brings in its offerings—the bean hole beans of Maine, the chicken gumbo of the Carolinas, vintage ham from Virginia, buckwheat cakes from Pennsylvania, maple sugar from Vermont, pompano in New Orleans, and channel cat in Kansas City, soft shell crabs from the Carolina sounds and mackerel on Cape Cod, deep apple pie from Ohio and Indiana, citrous fruits from Florida and California, apples and peaches from southern Illinois, Michigan, and Door county, Wisconsin; watermelons from Georgia, January strawberries from Florida, October strawberries from Wisconsin, olives and figs from California, cranberries from northern marshes—Ceres has a special wand for nearly every state.

There is the varied table of a half dozen climates, and some day poor cooking will be a crime and mediocre cooking will be disorderly conduct in America. Volstead, it is true, is no friend of the table, and the epicure will despair of the United States so long as certain nuances of the palate are legally held to be satanic; but there is nothing in the vagaries of the human race to indicate that Volstead can be a permanent condition of people anywhere. It is a transition which marks the passing of a new people from the frontier to urbanity. It takes them over while they collect themselves for self-reliance of a different kind and discover that morality is largely an individual achievement outside the police laws. Eventually a poorly cooked meal and not a glass of wine will be evidence of social turpitude.

SOME BALL GAME.

A ten minute ride in a taxicab, with Hogan at bat in the fourth, the bases full and nobody out, may be included among the new minor adventures in the modern world. Terry had singled to center. (The score was 2 to 9 in favor of Mr. Wrigley's Players at the time.) Ott singled to right. That was crossing State street at Wacker drive just ahead of the policeman's whistle. With Jackson at bat the count was two and two and at the pinch a whistle from the river blurred the consequences and the driver's right ear was in the back of the cab, but he took the next crossing perfectly, although two cars were edging in for the turn north.

It must have been a hit, because Hogan was at bat and the bases were full. Hogan sent two fouls into the wire, and then the cab went into the usual tangle of trucks at Lake street. Nothing could have been worse. The critical moment of a ball game was all tied up in one of the worst traffic spots in the city. The trucks which are turning left to the lower level make half of the difficulties. Two of them can block four directions. At times the situation requires genius. It was no place for Mr. Hogan with two strikes and the bases full, particularly when he was about to clear them with a double to the left wall. The driver was out of the play completely, but the passenger thought he got it, and by the time the cab was at Mr. Insull's Civic Opera house it was clear that Mr. Wrigley's Civic Players were in the red, three to two, with no one out.

The reception blurred again on the bridge and the game was more in the air than on it as the turn was made at Canal street. That is a tough egg traffic post. The coppers must get tired of seeing so many travelers. Something makes them misanthropic and it may be that, but the turn was made without a ticket, although the situation out in Mr. Wrigley's park was aggravatingly suspended. At the North Western curb the side was discovered to be retired without further scoring. Otherwise there would have been nothing to do but go on to the Union station and try one of its suburban trains.

Later intelligence revealed that Mr. Wrigley's Players remained calmly civic and won, 5 to 4.

HOODLUM DISORDERS.

Lincoln park police report considerable hoodlum trouble at the Oak street beach. The roughs are a negligible proportion of the masses using the beach, but, unchecked, they can throw the whole scene into disorder, spoil it for well behaved people and become socially intolerable. There is frequently a wide gap between social and legal viewpoints. Hoodlums disturbing the peaceable enjoyment of recreation places or the use of public utilities and places of assemblage are in fact serious offenders. Their conduct is not trivial, nor are the consequences of it. They can deprive citizens of the full use of facilities representing great investments. They can impose indignities and dangers which codified law may regard as of small consequence. When the offense, serious to the persons exposed to it, has been reduced to a legal fact in a court of petty cases it is likely to be insignificant disorderly conduct for which the penalty is trivial.

The law sees one thing and the people imposed upon suffer another. They may have had a most disagreeable experience which they would have done anything to avoid if it had been possible and from which their government is supposed to protect them.

Older societies regarded a disturbance of the peace affecting the rights of other people as a very serious offense, as it is. In America there is a disposition to attribute it to natural exuberance and, if not to indulge it as a privilege, to condone it as something to be expected.

The police should be backed to the limit in protecting the parks and beaches from hoodlum disorders.

A GENTLEMAN SOCKS A LADY.

A New Yorker who hit a woman as and because she lighted a cigaret has been fined twenty-five dollars. The woman had been marketing, cash and carry, and a boy was carrying her groceries. She lighted a cigaret, and the man, middle aged and of good repute, seeing her, berated her and knocked her down. The facts were proved, but the judge, in consideration of the defendant's clear record as a citizen, a worker, and a provider, let him off with an almost negligible penalty. There was, of course, more than the offender's good life to be taken into account. There was the national psychology.

Mr. Kelleher, the citizen by name, disapproves smoking by women. His disapproval of it gives him certain rights which American law is bound to respect. Each citizen is entitled to his tabus, some of which he may have enacted into statutes, but which constitute his privilege whether given legislative sanction or not. There is only one condition. These tabus must be charged with public service. He must be prepared to say that he believes them to be good for other people. Malum prohibitum forms a much more respected body of American law than malum in se. The thing which is regarded as evil is of greater gravity in American life than the thing which is evil.

Although the country has forty-eight legislatures and the national congress, all receptive and willing to work at good deeds, it is impossible for them to enact all the tabus which every moral citizen would impose upon his fellows. The scheme of control would be imperfect if it did not allow for individual initiative and enterprise. When the statute is lacking the personal privilege remains. Mr. Kelleher exercised it, and probably if his case had been presented to the judge in its full content with adequate reference to the national opinion on the subject he would have been dismissed and the woman would have been fined or jailed.

She, indeed, had but one recourse. She might have shot Mr. Kelleher, which would have canceled out the whole proceedings. It would have been found then that he had acted within his privilege in endeavoring to stop what he did not like, but manslaughter being malum in se and therefore negligible in American jurisprudence (see records of the prohibition enforcement unit and the coast guard log) the incident was properly closed when the undertaker was called.

The lady would have been wrong in not submitting to correction, but the manner in which she succeeded in avoiding it would have been of no consequence.

THE ROLLING SNOWBALL.

[The Battle Creek Enquirer-News.]

The charity snowball that Detroit started rolling with easy welfare spending has begun to grow in size and increase in momentum, and the city administration does not know how to stop it.

With $20,000,000 already spent and the city forced to negotiate with Mr. Ford for a $5,000,000 loan, the demand is now made by a group of the beneficiaries of the $20,000,000 for a welfare fund of $100,000,000.

Whatever political plums may have been growing on the welfare tree, if political plums were sought, seem to have been shaken off by the vigor of the new demands. Those who now want one hundred millions are the same ones who have been receiving part of the $20,000,000 dole and have also been getting free lodging from the city. They have turned on their benefactors with disconcerting suddenness.

It's an old story. Politically controlled charity, coupled with indiscriminate spending, has devoured every community that has tried it. The snowball grows and grows, rushing down the hill to bankruptcy. The more that is given, the more is demanded. The appetite increases and never finds satisfaction.

Detroit has forsaken the principles of democracy and is learning the consequences. Both the treasury and the electorate are being undermined, morally as well as financially.

SOME HOT WEATHER HINTS.

DR. FRANK MARSH holds that sunstroke, heat stroke, and heat cramps are nothing more than different symptoms and disorders growing out of the same cause. It is his opinion that sunstroke is due to heat and not to electric rays or parts of light rays that cannot be detected. The variation in salt content of the body and blood is a very important factor in heat stroke, but it is not the most important factor. Acidosis is the outstanding cause. His experiments showed that there was a great increase in body acids, particularly in lactic acid, in sunstroke.

When the atmosphere air is at 50 degrees and the human body is at rest, the excess heat made by the life processes is easily given off by conduction. The moister the air the better the conduction works. When the air reaches 70 degrees conduction is not equal to the task of keeping down bodily heat and evaporation of perspiration helps out. For this latter process dry air is much superior to wet. At first perspiration is insensible.

As the temperature rises the perspiration accumulates in beads and runs in streams. When the temperature of the atmosphere reaches blood heat conduction goes out of business and perspiration carries on as the agency for cooling. The dryer the atmosphere the more effective is perspiration.

When the atmosphere is saturated with water and the temperature reaches 98, the body begins to go into a fever. Bodily temperature goes out of control.

The skin and the kidneys throw off much salt in solution. If the atmospheric temperature rises high perspiration rolls off the skin and the kidneys, in order to conserve salt and water, slow down to almost nothing. If an insufficient amount of salt and water is consumed presently the blood becomes deficient in both.

When the kidneys slow down the blood supply of salt and water is conserved. Salty fluids drain out of the tissues into the blood, causing some increase in its saltiness and its volume. But there is a limit beyond which these processes cannot go. Presently, perspiration slows down. But, meanwhile, temperature is going down, salt content is falling, and acidity is accumulating. The man develops heat cramps or heat stroke. If he is a whisky drinker, or is infected with malaria, he will go into this condition more quickly than he otherwise would.

It has been proposed that plenty of slightly salt water be consumed as a preventive measure. Dr. Frank Marsh, who has practiced on the employés of the Anglo Persian Oil company on the hot plains of Persia, says:

"Prophylactic treatment is effective." He advocates putting persons overcome by heat in the cold storage room of an ice plant until they can be removed to certain refrigerated hospitals, where such cases are almost certainly and completely cured.

Several physicians discussed Dr. Marsh's paper. All were agreed as to the advantage of the refrigeration treatment, but there was disagreement as to the unity of sunstroke and heat stroke. Some advocated injections of soda solution to overcome the acidity.

EARLY TUBERCULOSIS.

M. S. D. writes:

1. Is fever always present in the early stages of tuberculosis?
2. What is the explanation of bile in the urine?
3. Are concealed tonsils always diseased?

REPLY.

1. No. There may be a moderate amount of early tuberculosis without fever. Fever is an indication that the process is active.
2. The kidneys are excreting bile from the blood. The usual source of bile in the blood is the gall bladder and ducts. However, bile can be formed in other tissues and find its way into the blood. If it does, some of it will be extracted from the kidneys.
3. No.

HAVE CHILD EXAMINED.

L. F. writes: My little girl, 14 years old, has been complaining for some time that she cannot get her breath. Every few minutes she has to stop to get her breath and, as she says, she doesn't always get it.

She sometimes feels a dull pain or weakness a little way beneath her arms. She doesn't feel like doing anything, and the least little thing she does she gets out of breath.

REPLY.

Have your daughter examined for heart disease and anemia. Either or both cause the symptoms described.

SEEKS GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE.

Chicago, July 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a young married woman. I left my husband a year ago to go on a trip. Upon my return to the city I did not go back to live with him. I have supported myself all this time. I would like a divorce but have no grounds that I know of. How can I obtain one? C. I. E.

You are not entitled to a divorce on the bare facts stated.

DEED IS INVALID.

Chicago, July 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife gave me a warranty deed to a cottage she owned in Kentucky. The deed was made in Wisconsin and recorded in Kentucky, according to law. Last year an examiner in Louisville, Ky., said the deed was not valid. Can that be possible? A. J. B.

Yes. It is possible. We cannot determine the correctness of the opinion without having before us the point on which the opinion is based and the facts.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BATHING SUIT SEASON.

Chicago, July 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was rooming with a private family and when I left I owed room rent. I left a bathing suit that was given to me as a keepsake. Can this be held for the room rent? I asked her to send it to me as she said she would hold it until I sent her the money. Can she hold it for the amount due? It does not cover the amount. A. P.

If you left it as security, then she would be entitled to continue to hold it as security. Unless you assented in some such way, she would have no technical right to hold it, but as a practical matter the amount would not be worth legal contest.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

JULY WHEAT at 50¼ cents a bushel hit an all time low in Chicago Wednesday. And at the same time it was announced that the wheat crop in Indiana this year would be in excess of all crops since the agricultural reports were begun 'way back in 1866. Poor old wheat! All dressed up and nowhere to go.

LOUSY, while a word that should cause the truly refined to raise the eyebrows and say "tut, tut," is not a libelous word, and the Supreme court of New York said yesterday that the Messrs. Shubert, the w. k. showmen, couldn't collect a nickel from the Life Publishing company for applying the word to the strenuous efforts of the Shubert boys to elevate the drama. And we'll bet a cookie we know what Lee and Jake thought of that decision.

IS NOT A KISS WORTH THE PRICE OF A TEAR?

Deep on the couch of night a siren star,
Steeping cold earth in swooning loveliness,
Sings madness to the earthlings that we are,
Imploring each to seek, in love's duress,
For old love's wounds a soothing tenderness:
"What though love end?" How sweet her voice, and clear!
"Though love for you may hold but bitterness—

"Too young, too beautiful you are by far
To fill your life with guarded emptiness
As one might fill with ashes a rare jar:
Far better welcome love with eagerness,
Drink in the rapture of this night, and press
Close to your heart the love you hold in fear.
What though it end, and ending, it bring stress?

"When time so swiftly will your beauty mar,
When life so rarely brushes happiness,
Is not one moment's long withheld caress
Worth days and weeks of aching loneliness?
The rainbow worth the drenching rain? No less,
Is not a kiss worth the price of a tear?

"Though fearing love will, ending, bring distress,
Still greet it tenderly, still hold it dear:
It may live ever, and if not?—Confess!

SHERRY KING.

FRANCE, in stepping reluctantly forward and saying she may do something or other to help Germany out of the awful fix she's in, reminds us of the confederate colonel in New York a dozen years or so after the civil war, who saw a blind man with one arm and one leg off playing a hand organ on which was the sign: "Help a Poor Union Soldier Who Was Shot All to Pieces at Shiloh." The confederate colonel took five dollars out of his pocket and gave it to the organ grinder. "My, that's nice of you," said a friend of the colonel's, "and he fought on the other side." "Well, said the colonel, "I gave him the five dollars because that's the first Yank I ever saw trimmed up to suit me."

AND THERE SHALL BE NO MORE WAR.

[GREETER GAW SPEAKING.]

"Why, suppose some time there's a big parley voo in some foreign capital and there's sitting around the table a lot of big guys and some one says: 'Well, we'll have to declare war on America.' Then supposing one of these fellows at the table gets up and says: 'Hold on there. I was in Chicago and I never met so many fine folks in my life. Americans are all right. Let's go slow about this.'"

But, Greeter Gaw, before abandoning peace and disarmament conferences and demobilizing the army, let us consider a moment. Suppose another guy at the parley voo said: "Ah, shettup! I was in that burg once an' a guy gimme a bum cigar and another guy soaked me on the beezer and grabbed my ticker. Let's go over and soak 'em." Then the war clouds would darken again and it might go ill with us. Perhaps we had best keep the navy for a while longer, anyhow.

THE PREVAILING IDEA of the flappers' shrieking pajamas, we note, is to make them look like open umbrellas at the ankle. If they keep on getting any wider there's not going to be much room for other pedestrians on the sidewalk. We had to get out on the pavement and risk being crushed by mad autos several times yesterday whenever we passed a pair of pajamas.

PEOPLE WILL BUILD ROCK GARDENS, but a member of the New York produce exchange thinks that every farmer who nobly resisted the temptation to plant too much wheat should be given a dollar and a half for each acre not planted. Then we city fellers ought to get a dime for every window box not planted in wheat. We don't plant wheat in the window boxes anyhow, but, at least, if there's some more government money being scattered around we folks that never get in on these things ought to be given some kind of a break. And now we're getting around to the rock garden part. Maybe city people could be given a dollar and a half for every rock garden they didn't build. There ought to be some way of rewarding the heroic souls who refuse to build those things.

THE MARATHON MAN.

The marathon man left the ballroom floor
And stood his lady love before
And bowed down low, with pleading eye,
And softly asked, "May I have July?"

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 17, 1915.

CHICAGO.—The word "finis" was written under the "Fighting Letters of Junius." Hadrian H. Baker, 4648 Vincennes avenue, founder and circulator, was taken into custody on twelve bench warrants issued by Judge William Fenimore Cooper. His bitter attacks on some twenty or thirty judges often retailing back stairs gossip got him into trouble.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools, upheld the Chicago Teachers' federation in her testimony before the state senate committee which is investigating the board of education. In discussing the federation Mrs. Young took occasion to deny the reports that she is a Roman Catholic and has an altar in her room at the Hotel La Salle. She said such reports had gone all over the world and that for months she had been trying to run them down. She admitted that some persons have been bringing up the religious issue in connection with the schools.

JULY 17, 1901.

NEW YORK.—Capital, as represented by the billion dollar steel corporation, has accepted the opportunity for a finish fight with organized labor, and the present fight is to be made the final test of strength. No compromise and no conference with the men until the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers recedes from its position, is the decision of the United States Steel corporation, according to a statement by a representative of the highest interests in the big combine. While the declaration was not official, it was given out after consultations between J. Pierpont Morgan, Charles M. Schwab, president of the steel company, and other officials of the combines interested.

CHICAGO.—Charles A. Spring, one of Chicago's oldest citizens and for over forty years manager of the McCormick Harvesting Machine company, died at his residence, 448 Dearborn avenue, aged 75 years. He was an altruist in the sense that he believed no man should amass great wealth, and in carrying out his principles he limited his fortune to $250,000 and devoted the excess to the gratification of his philanthropic instincts.

PARIS.—While M. Baudin, the minister of public works, was proceeding through the Avenue Marigny on July 16 a woman fired a shot at him under the impression that he was M. Delcasse, the minister of foreign affairs. As she fired she shouted, "A bas Delcasse!" Mr. Baudin was not hurt. The woman is French and married to a Pole, Count Olzewsky. She was arrested and claimed she intended to kill Foreign Minister Delcasse, against whom she had a grudge.

JULY 17, 1881.

ST. PAUL.—Intelligence has been received of a terrible tornado which devastated the beautiful city of New Ulm, Minn., last night. The ill-fated city is situated on the right bank of the Minnesota river and on the Winona and St. Peter railroad. It contained 3,500 inhabitants. The storm made its appearance at 4 o'clock and it could be distinctly seen approaching in two separate columns, one moving upward while the other appeared to descend from the clouds, whirling with terrible rapidity. Six hundred buildings are more or less damaged, some being totally wrecked, among them the finest business blocks in the city. Thirteen bodies have been found in the district, most of them buried in the wrecked buildings.

WASHINGTON.—[1:45 a. m.]—The President has rested well since midnight and at this hour is sleeping quietly. At 7 p. m. his doctors reported that he had spent a better day than any since he was shot. His pulse then was 98, temperature 100.2, respiration 19.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The daring robbery of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific train last night at Winston Station Mo., and the cowardly killing of Conductor William Westphal had been the chief topic in railroad circles today. Several large posses have been scouring the country and about daylight the spot where the robbers had their horses tied in the woods was discovered. The trail was in the direction of Clay county.

THE PRISON TOUR.

Aurora, Ill., July 12.—The press today tells us of a trip to be made, beginning this week, to Europe by Lieut. Gov. Sterling and a committee of state senators and members of the house of representatives to inspect prisons.

Thousands of unemployed in Illinois, hunger with some prevails, yet money for a whooped junket—for, no doubt, other buildings that contain bars will be inspected.

No mention is made of prison wardens or superintendents as being part of the committee.

Ho! Hum! A. V. OTTER.

RIIS PARK.

Chicago, July 10.—Leo Koralik's plea in your column of July 10 for Jacob Riis park for the children instead of the golfers almost moved me to tears. I would have felt sorrier for these unwashed little hoodlums that steal our golf balls at the third and eighth holes if it were not for the fact that they have a swimming pool and playground with usual children's apparatus in the northwest section of the park.

The golf course here does an incalculable amount of good to hundreds of office, store and factory workers who are able to get out for the air and exercise, but have not either the means or a car to get out to the country clubs.

We need lots more public courses.

I am for all of the park space possible for the children to play in and adults to loaf in. But I think there is a certain class of residents in the neighborhood of Riis park who are taking a dog in the manger attitude toward this golf course.

REMEDY FOR BLUSHING.

Chicago, July 10.—I have noticed in the Voice of the People a few women or girls objecting to the examination given at the swimming pool in Cermak park, Lyons. I don't think that there is any immodesty shown, as a person is with her own sex and all are treated alike. If people are so modest that they blush when any one sees them stripped they should confine their swimming to their bath tub, where they can be alone. When you go in swimming at Cermak park you know that the whole body of all the swimmers is clean and you don't have to worry about contracting some sort of skin disease. LILLIAN LEE.

EVENING SCHOOL.

Chicago, July 8.—I trust the evening schools of Chicago are considering a reduction in tuition this fall. If tuition is not lowered I know a good many ambitious young men who will be compelled to discontinue their education.

NORTHWESTERNITE.

SUMMER CLOTHING.

Gary, Ind., July 9.—Women are inclined to wear little or nothing as long as it is in style, but not so with men. Sometimes a few effeminate men attempt to establish a silly style that lasts for about one edition of the evening paper, but the real he-men stand aside and laugh. The legs of a man are ugly enough without showing them on the streets and in the public meeting places. Imagine a man dancing with a lovely girl wearing an evening gown and him in shorts and sandals. Or picture a man in the winter time working to get his car out of a snow drift, dressed in shorts, knee-length stockings, sandals and a cape. Perhaps, if an armful of lilies and a derby hat were added, he would find the way to Kankakee much easier.

NAKED IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, July 7.—Last week while driving north on the outer drive a desire to explore the island on which the planetarium is located came over me. After inspecting the north end of the island and seeing the wonderful bathing beach on the east shore, I decided to drive around to the south end.

About five hundred feet south of the beach I was greeted by a sight I could hardly believe—a full grown man crossing the road absolutely naked. A short distance on there were about twenty more men—not boys—stark naked and playing ball. A little to one side on a hill about five feet above the level of the island stood a bronzed figure gazing over toward the beach where thousands of ladies and children were bathing. He was more modest than the rest. He had a cap on.

MEXICAN IMMIGRATION.

Chicago, July 9.—There has been much argument pro and con upon the question of Judge Green's action against the Mexican official. It is not for me to judge whether the action was proper or not. If will say that, in my opinion, he was absolutely right. But if the incident were to have happened during Judge Lyle's reign of terror, the people would have all applauded the action.

People living in a Mexican district can well understand Judge Green's action and words. I can offer no explanation for the deplorable condition that exists wherever these Mexicans settle, but as for a remedy, the city might either place a social worker in each and every family or they might send them all back to their native country, where, it seems, no one cares how they live. U. S. TO DEPORT 20,000 IN 1931, DOAK PREDICTS

Those Seeking to Hamper Work Assailed.

Alexandria, Va., July 16.—(AP)—A denunciation of organizations which attempt to prevent the deportation of alien radicals was hurled by Secretary Doak today with a prediction that more unwanted residents will be sent home this year than last.

WILLIAM N. DOAK.

In an address before the Alexandria Kiwanis club the secretary of labor questioned the motives guiding organizations by speech or by writing the annihilation of our democratic form of government."

Just before leaving his office to cross the Potomac river for the luncheon talk Doak predicted that deportations of undesirables this calendar year will reach 20,000, or 2,000 more than in the last fiscal year.

In the luncheon speech he referred, without naming them, to persons and societies "who sneer at the word 'patriotism.'"

"It has been a puzzle to me always to learn upon what ground these organizations and these individuals base their reasoning," Doak said. "There is nothing American in it, nothing democratic."

When courts uphold deportation warrants against many agitators associated with societies "whose announced purpose it is to overthrow the government of the United States by force and violence," he said, certain other organizations "descend upon the department of labor with this plea or that plea for a change in the deportation order."

If other protests prove ineffective, he continued, the "un-American American" groups "quickly resort to some plea which they think has a humanitarian touch."

"The department of labor is trying to do its work under the law," he said. "It exercises humanity in many cases, but of these one hears little."

C. L. O'DONNELL RENAMED HEAD OF NOTRE DAME

South Bend, Ind., July 16.—[Special.]—The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., was reappointed president of Notre Dame university at the conclusion of the chapter meeting of the Holy Cross order here tonight. The Rev. Michael Mulcaire continues as vice president and faculty athletic chairman.

The Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, former football star, becomes president of St. Edwards university, Austin, Tex., and the Rev. Joseph Burke becomes principal of St. Thomas Military academy, St. Paul, Minn.

BOOST WAGES TO END DEPRESSION, ADVICE OF WOLL

New York, July 16.—[Special.]—Business recovery cannot be induced by a reduction in wages, but rather by a general increase of wage levels throughout the country, and unemployment can be eliminated only by a constant lowering of working hours and days, Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, declared today at the convention of the International Longshoremen's association in the Hotel Victoria.

MATTHEW WOLL.

Mr. Woll thought it "the height of folly" for any one to attempt to outline a panacea for the economic ills of the country, because of the complex and detailed relationships in the economic structure. The depression, however, he said, had emphasized four fundamental principles on which to base a better social order.

Cites Four Lessons.

The four lessons that industrial leaders should have learned from the depression, he said, were that the reduction of wages decreases the purchasing power and consequently restricts markets; that a constant reduction of working hours per day and working days per week would give employment to every one; that price cutting is as detrimental as wage cutting, and that there should be united planning by labor, industry and government for the economic development of the country five or ten years hence.

"The depression has clearly indicated," Mr. Woll said, "that if there is to be a recovery of business, it cannot be had by any reduction of wages, but rather by an increase in wage levels throughout the country. Wages in America are generally conceded to be on a higher level than elsewhere, but the average industrial wage throughout the country is no more than $25 a week.

Says Incomes Are Too Low.

"Any one who believes that a 5 or 10 per cent reduction in wages would bring prosperity fails to understand economics, or is merely deluding himself. If we were to raise those incomes from $25 to $35 a week, it would stimulate activity and increase our purchasing power by 30 per cent. The question is not one of only maintaining wages. I think it is more important now that wages be increased."

Mr. Woll asserted that a reduction of working hours would be mutually beneficial to labor and industry.

"I'm all through trying other coffees"

says Mrs. Ernest R. Graham

"I have used enough other coffees to learn that the only one I can always depend upon is Manor House."

MRS. ERNEST R. GRAHAM

COAL · HEAT · COSTS · LESS

The cost of heating this apartment building at 4109 N. Keystone Avenue with coal is $1,493.00 a year. To heat it with the fuel that next to coal is most economical an estimated $2,181.62 a year would have to be spent. To heat it with the third fuel some $3,032.30 would have to be invested.

COAL HEAT... COSTS LESS

In homes or apartments or commercial buildings a dollar buys more coal heat than it ever has . . .

IF YOU buy wisely now, you will find that every dollar in your pocket is from 10 to 20% bigger than it was just a few months ago. This is particularly true when you spend your money on coal.

Today you can get 12 to 15% more coal heat for a dollar than you could get 4 months ago ... 10% more in all likelihood, than you will be able to get for a dollar 4 months hence. This is the season in which coal prices reach the lowest level of the year!

Consider in addition how much coal saves you over other fuels. It is approximated that coal saves 35 to 50% over the cost of the next most economical fuel, and 60 to 75% over the cost of the third fuel. Dollars saved which shrewd buyers will be able to use in realizing wants whose fulfillment in the past has been slightly beyond their means!

To make every cent's saving in coal

In buying your coal now, though prices are at the year's lowest level, you won't make every important cent's saving unless each ton delivered to you weighs its full 2,000 pounds, and unless the quality of it is uniform throughout.

To make sure of these important factors, purchase your coal through any one of the 242 Merchants listed at the bottom. Each has pledged himself to full weight and honest grading. Each has the Association's guaranty back of his pledge.

CHICAGO COAL MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION

$4,007.40 a year are spent to heat this store and office building at 6700 Stony Island Avenue with coal. Were it heated with the second fuel some $6,675.76 would have to be invested each year; while the expense of the third fuel could be estimated at $13,567.00 yearly.

The owner of this handsome home at 4043 Lake Park Avenue saves from $2,307.20 to $8,167.05 every five years on his fuel bills by burning coal. For coal costs him only $565.44 yearly; while the second and third fuels would cost him approximately $1,026.28 and $2,198.85 respectively every year.

RAILWAY HEADS DEFEND FREIGHT RATE BOOST PLEA

Contend Agriculture Can Stand Increase.

Washington, D. C., July 16.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission was told today that despite low prices agriculture can stand an increase in freight rates.

This statement was made by J. J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, testifying in hearings on the carriers' petition for a 15 per cent increase.

Shortly before, William Wolf Bikle, chief attorney for the roads, had said they found it impossible to fix a date at which the proposed increase might be abandoned. He suggested that the commission keep the case open, if an increase is granted, for any future action that might be warranted.

Questioned at Length.

Pelley was questioned at length after reading his prepared statement, by Commissioner Eastman, sitting as an observer, and State Commissioners Hugh H. White of Alabama and Paul A. Walker of Oklahoma. To many of their questions he answered that he did not know or that traffic departments had asked the increases.

C. E. Elmquist, a Minneapolis attorney, questioned the railroad president after the commissioners had ended.

"Do you know farm products are as low as 20 years ago?" asked Elmquist. "And do you think it is good business to impose the highest freight rates ever known at this time? Do you think it is good policy?"

"Yes. It is our policy," Pelley replied.

"Can wheat at its present low price stand the increase?"

Testimony on Coal Rates.

Pelley followed Roy S. Kern, Pittsburgh rate expert, who finished his testimony regarding coal rates begun yesterday.

Kern explained how specific rates embodying the increase would be applied to the various coal and coke producing districts so as to retain unchanged present rate differentials. Coal and coke rates are being considered separately from other commodities.

It developed during a barrage of questions from attorneys scattered throughout the hearing room that application of the method outlined by Kern would result in an increase of more than 15 per cent in the Ohio rate making section of the great eastern coal fields.

Scandrett Testifies Next.

R. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, followed Pelley on the stand and read a prepared statement intended to show the railroads had been forced to drop important improvement projects. He expressed the belief increased rates "would be most helpful in relief of unemployment."

Scandrett, representing western carriers, said the railroads heads had carefully considered what could be done and decided a uniform increase presented the only solution.

He said the carriers were only asking such an increase as would enable them to operate their property safely and added: "It would also be highly desirable, in this period of lowered costs, to resume in volume programs of railway improvement which have been largely suspended. Such action at this time would be most helpful in relief of unemployment."

Oil Rate Question Raised.

Commissioner Eastman, as in the case with Pelley, took the lead in questioning Scandrett. Eastman recalled that the commission some time ago fixed oil rates from the southwest to Chicago, but they were soon reduced to meet pipe line competition.

"Has the situation changed?" Eastman asked.

"No," replied Scandrett.

"Do you think it is practicable to try to raise those rates?"

Scandrett's reply was inaudible, but Eastman said: "In other words, the rates would have to be adjusted to Chicago."

Referring to oil rates in the southwest, which were reduced recently as an emergency measure to meet pipe line competition, Eastman asked if these, too, would have to be adjusted. Scandrett said he was uninformed on the subject.

Uninformed, He Says.

The same reply was given to a series of questions regarding cotton rates, cut to meet truck competition, and other rates lowered for various reasons.

Scandrett said differentials between Illinois and Indiana coal fields ordered by the interstate commerce commission would be observed. He said differentials not fixed by the commission would be subject to the increase.

The question of lumber shipped from the Pacific coast as rates on it might affect competition with other sections of the country were gone into at length by Attorney Elmquist.

Scandrett was asked if it was his opinion that the western carriers as a whole were in as bad shape as agriculture.

Contend Finances Strong.

Wilbur Larce Jr. of Washington, a former commission examiner, now representing North Carolina interests in opposition to the rate increase, indicated an effort would be made to show that the railroads as a whole were in an extremely strong financial condition.

"Have you taken into consideration the fact that the railroads have increased their surplus from one billion 500 million to over 3 billion dollars during recent years?" asked Larce.

Scandrett made no reply.

"The surplus is so large," Larce continued, "that if you made no profits for seven years you could pay dividends out of surplus."

Responding to other questioners, Scandrett said many classes of freight had been diverted to other methods of transportation. He held it obvious that where truck and railroad rates were on a competitive basis, if the railroads raised rates and trucks did not the railroads would lose traffic.

Points to Farm Situation.

P. H. Porter of Madison, Wis., asked Scandrett if he thought agriculture could bear the new rates.

"I think the increase can be put on farm products without diverting them from the railroads," Scandrett replied.

Porter pressed the question and Scandrett replied:

PHYSICIAN ORDERED BACK TO JAIL WHEN HE BALKS AT FEE

Dr. Henry R. Amberson, a physician with offices at 4332 Elston avenue, refused to pay $250 solicitor's fees to Attorney James G. Sheridan yesterday after spending the night in the county jail and Superior Judge John J. Sullivan ordered him returned to jail to serve a six months' sentence or until he pays the fee.

The physician had been jailed yesterday on a contempt charge after the money had been awarded the attorney to defend an appeal from the separate maintenance decree awarded his wife, Mrs. Nellie Amberson, 4155 Keystone avenue.

After a contested action in which both parties charged cruelty, Mrs. Amberson was given the custody of two children, Patricia, 5, and John, 2, and $50 a week for their support.

NEW WAGE LAW TO DELAY PUBLIC WORK FOR WEEKS

$25,000,000 in State Jobs Held Up.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., July 16.—[Special.]—Approximately $25,000,000 worth of public works, mainly highways, scheduled for construction in Illinois this year, will be postponed from six to ten weeks under the "Prevailing Wage act" passed by the recent session of legislature. The announcement of protracted delays in awarding contracts was made this afternoon by Director Cleaveland of the department of public works following a conference with the attorney general's office.

"With only about eight weeks remaining of the 1931 paving season," said Mr. Cleaveland, "there is but a slim chance of getting much work done on the $17,212,000 in the state's road program this year for which contracts have not as yet been awarded."

Bids had been received before July 1 for $10,000,000 worth of highway construction, but the attorney general's office ruled that these contracts could not be awarded, since the bids did not comply with the wage scale act which became effective on the first of the month.

Must Appear in Contract.

The new law provides that all political units of the state, in advertising for bids on public construction, must provide that the contract shall pay wages equal to the prevailing rate in the community for the job. It is the duty of the political body to ascertain the prevailing wage and the law permits any ten taxpayers to protest against the fixed scale before a special commission or before the courts.

County highway programs throughout the state will be similarly delayed and townships and municipalities must prepare estimates conforming with the new statutes on contracts about to be awarded.

The Chicago Motor Club estimated that approximately 2,000 men will be deprived of employment for the remainder of the paving season due to the delay in highway construction alone.

The law was sponsored by organized labor after it was found that contractors were paying unliveable salaries on many of the downstate pavement jobs.

Compromise Plan Illegal.

"We regret more than anyone else this delay on public construction during a time when employment is none too plentiful," said R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor. "The federation tried to devise some agreeable compromise so that the pending contracts could be awarded promptly. However, there is no way to avoid the law.

Many important road projects in and near Chicago are held up by this legal snag, although the wage scale paid thereabouts has been maintained during the depression.

MOVE LAUNCHED FOR AIRPORT IN CALUMET AREA

Plans for an organization to be known as the South Bend Airports council, the purpose of which is to be promoting the construction of an airport in the south part of the city, were made at a dinner in the Palmer House last night. About 100 south side public officials, business men, and aviation leaders attended. Ald. Sheldon Govier (9th) was installed as president of the Air Commerce Reserve, a group which initiated the airport move.

Speakers at the meeting, including Judge John P. McGoorty, Ald. Govier, Col. Paul Richter, Maj. Horace Keane, and Walter Roy, stressed the advantages of locating a flying field in the south side industrial area. Several sites in the neighborhood of the proposed Lake Calumet harbor were mentioned.

The new airports council, according to Ald. Govier, will seek to enlist the cooperation of the city, state, and federal governments in procuring an airport site and developing a field.

TWO ARE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH IN FORD ORCHARD

Detroit, July 16.—(AP)—Harold Palmer, 28, pilot, and his passenger, Charles Riddels, 25, were killed tonight when their plane crashed in the orchard of Henry Ford's country home near suburban Plymouth. The wreckage was ignited and the bodies could not be removed until the fire burned out.

First Full Meal in 5 Months Poisons a Family of Six

Los Angeles, Cal., July 16.—[Special.]—The first full meal in five months nearly cost the lives of Rees Llewellyn, unemployed father, and his five children. The six were pronounced as recovering from food poisoning after four surgeons and five nurses at Police Emergency hospital worked over them for hours. Mrs. Elisabeth Llewellyn, the mother, was the only member of the family not affected. She had not been home last night when the father served a meal of canned soup, potatoes, and two pies.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk; don't swallow a lot of pills; mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly peppy and bursting and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It ferments and decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul; skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Sleeper & Hartshorn. ©1931, Carter Medicine Company.

ASK HOOVER TO SAVE FALL FROM PENITENTIARY

Washington, D. C., July 16.—(AP)—A last minute petition that Albert B. Fall be saved from the prison term imposed for accepting a bribe was received today at the White House.

Asking executive clemency for the former secretary of the interior, it bore the names of Senators Bratton and Cutting of New Mexico and was submitted as well on behalf of both legislative houses of that state, once served by Fall in the senate.

At the White House, it was announced, the petition was being forwarded to the justice department, in accordance with the usual practice. James A. Finch, federal pardon attorney, indicated the petition would be subjected to the same routine given those of men less well known.

IF YOU WANT A REGULAR DINNER SEE SPAULDINGS

Pulaski County Host Sets Fine Table.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Villa Ridge, Ill., July 16.—[Special.]—The little old road car steamed up one of these rocky Ozark hills, around a sharp bend, and came to rest in the shade of an elm atop an attractively landscaped knoll, with a wheeze of relief from the noonday Egyptian sun.

Here, perched where the slightest breeze may always strike it, is the gracious home of the Spauldings, not so far from the city of Cairo that marks the junction of the Ohio with the Mississippi.

Welcomed by Host.

Bob Spaulding, the veteran southern Illinois horticulturist, extends a welcome between draughts of his pipe. We are just in time for dinner, whether by chance or intention. So far, so good.

We are welcomed to the sheltered veranda and to the washroom where a farm home of yesterday has become one of today, by the modernizing of water supply and fixtures—yet has lost none of the grandeur of its original architecture.

Down in the kitchen, we are told, a couple of young roosters, caught in their prime, had been denuded earlier in the day and consigned by the capable Mrs. Spaulding to the skillet. Likewise, all the trimmings of the sort of dinner that has made this lady of little Egypt famed in the midwest for her hospitality.

Spaulding Table Famous.

Horticulturists, farm leaders of yesterday and today, senators, railroad and government officials—these and many others recall with satisfaction their privilege at a dinner with the Spauldings.

With this in prospect, we stroll about the homestead, with its immense beds of peonies and gladioli that for many years have found admirers in Chicago floral shops. We find the hillsides covered with a surprising variety of plant life, for Mr. Spaulding is somewhat of a hobbyist in practical farming.

Luscious grapes are available from July 'till frost; beans, peas, apples, pears, peaches, pecans, walnuts, chestnuts, asparagus, melons and berries of all sorts adding to this variety. This year, especially, neighbors and those less fortunate in circumstances are making sauces and jellies from the overflow of these crops.

What a Dinner!

The dinner is ready. Son John, who operates the tractor in early morning and late evening, with midday rest from the sun heat, and the gracious daughter, Jeanette, join us. What a meal!

Fresh string beans and sliced tomatoes such as only a Pulaski county farm would produce; new potatoes that invite the creamy chicken gravy; grandmother sized slices of bread with home made butter and strawberry jelly; mayonnaise or fresh young onions for the salad, as you choose, and the hot brown, meaty chicken à la Spaulding.

You wonder at the neat little cubes of ice in your tea on a farm wife's table, yet you forget that electric refrigerators and electric irons are coming with modern lighting and wiring in the country.

John Talks of Hunting.

John is telling of the goose hunts down in the pens along the Mississippi. He is telling of the six young squirrels he brought in and cleaned for the family's delight the week before. And you remember that here is where boys are given genuine companionship over field and stream with bird dog and gun.

Jeanette tells of having invited her club to tea and how the fathers who escorted the girls lingered on the lawn to bask in the Spaulding hospitality while the womenfolk were indoors. And the question of whether dad or daughter had the better party arises.

You are helped to more chicken and gravy meanwhile. Each mouthful invites another, as the ultimate in capacity is neared.

Then comes the added delight of dessert that any urban housewife might hope to be able to serve. A choice of ripe, freshly picked blackberries or the mammoth red Latham raspberries that are becoming a favorite in Illinois. To these add, as per free will and volition, syrupy cream and sugar, and help yourself to some of Jeanette's freshly made oatmeal cookies!

FIRST MALAGA GRAPES ARRIVE

It'll soon be grape time (and possibly wine making time) in Chicagoland. The Thompson seedless have been on the market for two to three weeks and now the larger Malagas have arrived, to sell for about two pounds for 25 cents. Miss Mae Finerman of 1848 South Millard avenue admires some of those being sold by her father in a wholesale commission house operated by Finerman-Rubin at 31 South Water market.

LEMONADE STILL THE POPULAR HOT WEATHER DRINK

If You Want the Best Use Plenty of Lemons.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

What's better on a hot summer's day than a cool and refreshing drink of lemonade? Just the thought of it cools you off.

Say what you will about the virtues of a healthy drink of cold water as an old standby, if there's a choice between the two it will be lemonade for mine every time. After about the second glass of water you'll feel as if you've had enough to do you for a while. But you can go on sipping lemonade for hours and still want more.

Other fruit juices have their day and their many followers. None, however, comes anywhere near to competing with the popularity of lemonade.

A Drink for Hot Days.

Back several decades ago the beverage to serve on a sweltering day was lemonade. Lemonade was the thing to drink on a quiet evening at home or at a gala social function. In an old fashioned setting the girls used to entertain their beaus. Hidden away as a surprise would be a good sized pitcher of cold lemonade.

In the present day the dining car stewards on the crack railroad trains have the right idea. You can't go very far on a journey without seeing a waiter dashing to and fro bearing a tray filled with glasses of cooling lemonade. Of course, it's a money making proposition, but nevertheless many people withstand the dust and heat while traveling much better if they have occasional glasses of refreshing lemonade.

Depends on Individual Taste.

In making lemonade spare the lemon and ruin the drink. Nothing is more tantalizing and disappointing than weak lemonade. Some people advocate the use of one lemon to one cup of water, while others make one lemon do for two cups of water. The number of lemons used all depends on the individual's own taste.

To many the greatest charm of lemonade is its sour flavor. If you are one of those who do not like the acidity, add sugar if you must. But dole out the sugar sparingly.

Fancy drinks come and go but lemonade still holds its own. Have a cherry bobbing up and down with the bits of ice or use a thin slice of lemon as an adornment, but don't tamper further with its old fashioned simplicity.

Pickled Pigs' Feet! How to Prepare and Serve Them

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

It is generally agreed that an elephant in a china shop—unless he's a china elephant—is a most distressful spectacle. By the same token you might think that a pig in a blossoming flower plot would not make a particularly pleasing picture. But not my kind of pig in my kind of garden!

Almost any sort of colorful summer supper table will do for the garden. On these warm evenings we prefer one that has a bowl in the center filled with blue larkspur and yellow and coral snapdragons, and is set with sparkling thin stemmed water goblets, and other tall glasses in which small musical icebergs thrust their heads above cylindrical seas of amber tea with a slice or two of lemon floating about for deep water anemones.

Many Ways to Serve.

And we like it when the crisp scalloped petals of the napkin on the bread tray encircle small golden biscuits, and the bright colored flowers on the salad plates are cool, enticing, edible ones fashioned by ingenious fingers from fruits and vegetables.

All we ask of the pig are his feet—pickled. Or, better still, pressed, jellied, or fried.

Pigs' feet pickled or pressed [shade of Peter Piper!] are procurable at almost any grocery. As a rule they are excellently prepared. The pressed and jellied forms lend themselves to delightful garnishings—on a perky lettuce or romaine leaf with a slice of lemon, for instance; or with sprigs of parsley, watercress or mint and circles of stuffed olives.

Suggestion for Preparing.

If you care to try your own hand at preparing them, here is a suggestion for pressed pigs' feet: Place four or six feet in cold water and let them soak overnight. Then with a moderately sharp knife scrape until all the parts are clean and white. Boil them until the meat falls from the bones; from three to five hours is the time required for cooking. Remove the feet with a skimmer. Separate the meat into small pieces and season them highly with salt and pepper. Pack them closely in a square pyrex dish and pour enough of the liquid the feet were boiled in to moisten thoroughly. Place a heavy weight on the dish until its contents are cold.

For the less solid jelly form, a tablespoon of gelatin is required for each pint of stock. Soften each tablespoon of gelatin with two tablespoons of water and with a dash of vinegar, enough to satisfy the taste, add the mixture to the boiling liquid. Drop in the small seasoned pieces of meat, and pour slowly into individual glass molds. When cool, but before the jelly has "set," insert into each mold a slice or two of lemon, a bit of chopped parsley and a few circles of red and green peppers. Pressed and jellied pigs' feet should be prepared at least one or two days before they are used.

Likes His Fried.

A gentleman from Dixie who, among other things, knows how chicken should be fried and flapjacks should be made, likes pigs' feet, after they have been boiled, fried in a thin pancake batter.

For pickled pigs' feet another reliable authority recommends:

4 bay leaves.
1 tablespoon whole cloves.
1 tablespoon broken cinnamon.
¼ cup salt.
2 teaspoons pepper.
1 blade mace.

Clean the feet carefully, and cover them with hot water. Boil slowly until the meat will separate from the bones. Take them up on a skimmer and, having removed the largest bones, place them in a stone jar. Set the water aside in a cool place to be used later.

Steep for 45 Minutes.

Place the vinegar on the fire adding bay leaves, cloves, cinnamon, salt, pepper, onion cut into eighths, and mace. Steep slowly for 45 minutes, but do not allow the vinegar to boil rapidly at any time.

Remove the fat cake from the top of the water in which the pigs' feet have been boiled. [It may be used for cooking purposes.] Add about one quart of this water to the vinegar. Strain the liquid through a sieve to remove the spice, etc., and pour it over the meat in the jar. The jar should be set in a cold place for two days.

Beef, Ham Economical Purchase for Week-End

In its regular weekly market report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the Chicago meat council states: Shoulder roasts of beef continue to represent the most economical meat buy for the households of Chicago over the coming week-end. This meat is delicious served as a pot roast, or sliced and served cold. Cold boiled ham and other seasonable ready to serve meats are also available at attractive prices at the present time.

SHIPPING RECORDS OF CALIFORNIA SHOW HOW FOOD HABITS CHANGE

Proof that the food habits of the nation are changing is found in the fact that California in 1921 shipped only 7,000,000 boxes of the Valencia type of orange, whereas last year the state shipped out 13,000,000 boxes of the same kind of fruit. Chicagoans now eat oranges the year 'round, while formerly they were available only part of each year.

Nature gave us the idea for Heinz Rice Flakes

Nature has the idea that foods should be not only good to eat—but useful, too. It's a mighty wise idea, and we borrowed it for Heinz Rice Flakes.

These delicious flakes not only furnish all the energy and body-building elements of rice, but they supply an essential substance found in no other rice flakes. This substance is cereal-cellulose—one of the gentlest, mildest, and most effective correctives.

H. J. Heinz Company spent eight years in perfecting the exclusive process by which cereal-cellulose is added to crisp, delicious flakes. It costs much more to make Heinz Rice Flakes this way. But it costs you no more.

COOKING IS EASY NOW COMPARED WITH YEARS AGO

Improved Sugar Helps to Make It So.

Never in the history of the world has it been so easy to do kitchen chores and to cook. The number of things that have been produced to save time and labor seems almost endless when we begin to count them. And the amazing feature about a large number of these things is that the price is within the reach of almost everybody.

A housewife in very moderate circumstances now has more luxuries than the housewife with a million would possibly have had a generation ago. Certainly the kitchen is not the woman-killing place it used to be when it was necessary to prepare from the ground up almost every food that went on the table.

The great variety of foods all ready to serve are prepared with the idea of reducing labor in meal preparation. Even the raw materials needed in home cooking are manufactured in such a way as to produce the very best of results with a minimum of work. Sugar is an example. In the days when sugar was a coarse grained substance and many times was not clean as it should have been.

Used to Boil Sugar.

When the cook wished to make a fine textured cake she had to roll the sugar on the dough board or pestle it in a mortar and after crushing, she sifted it. Then it was creamed and creamed with the butter in an attempt to soften the hard crystal that escaped the power of the rolling pin or the pestle. A thrifty housewife bake rolled sugar for coffee, tea, fruits and cereals. She knew that it took much less rolled than coarse sugar to produce the desired sweetness. And there was no economy in using sugar that only half dissolved because the other half that was left in the cup as residue was wasted. In cold beverages the use of coarse sugar was never satisfactory, so women soon learned to make a sugar sirup for cold drinks like lemonade and punch. The sirup insured the use of a minimum amount of sugar and a smooth beverage, but it took time and care to make the sirup.

Coarse sugar also required special care when making candies and cake icings. The crystals of coarse sugar which are slow about dissolving in water or milk even after heating is begun, very easily adhere to the sides of the pan and if left there they fall into the candy or icing, forming the nucleus for large crystals which give candy or cake icing a grainy or sugary texture. The only way the housewife could prevent such unpleasant results was to keep all the crystals wiped down from the sides of the pan during the cooking process.

Proved Uncomfortable Job.

But this constant work on a pan containing a boiling sirup was an uncomfortable job. If she rolled her sugar until it was fine the tendency of forming large crystals was greatly reduced. A sugar that dissolves immediately and produces a clear sugar solution at once is easiest to handle when it comes to making fondant, fudges, or cake icings.

Housewives today do not have to do any extra work on sugar. They can buy a much finer grained product than they could possibly prepare at home, and the crystals are so uniform that they will cream evenly and completely with butter in a jiffy and will produce the ideal texture in the finest of cake, like angel food and pound cake. The tiny grains dissolve readily. The economy of using a fine granulated sugar in iced drinks and punches and in hot beverages in which it dissolves with a stir of the spoon instead of settling wasted in the bottom of the glass or cup is apparent at a glance.

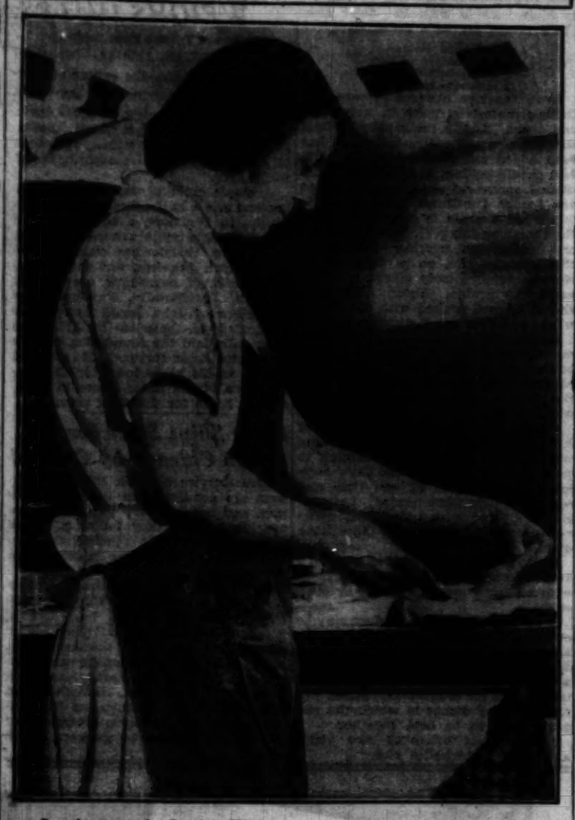
Product Much Cleaner.

In addition to the improvement in the granulation there also has been an improvement in the cleanliness of sugar. A few years ago when sugar was being made into a sirup for beverages or for preserving fruits and making jellies, a colored scum would collect on the top which indicated that there were impurities in the sugar. Now the finest of sugar boiled with water produces a crystal clear sirup without the semblance of a scum.

To insure the housewife perfectly clean sugar a number of refiners have gone farther and have put their sugar in sanitary cartons with a simple sliding device which allows the sugar to pour from the package and which offers protection to the sugar after the package has been opened. This slide also permits sugar to pour gently into the measuring cup and spoon, without any waste and without obtaining more sugar than is wanted. Then too the package makes the storage of sugar simple. It means the sugar can be kept in the cleanest condition until it is all used because it prevents contamination in shipping, warehousing and all the handling necessary before sugar reaches the housewife.

But some may say, what about the expense of this packaged, fine crystallized sugar? One pays for the extra cost of the package of course, but no more for the sugar. The convenience and cleanliness of the sugar is surely worth the cost of the package.

BAKES 15,000 CHERRY PIES



In nine months Lucille Whitacre has molded enough pie crust and sweetened enough cherries to turn out 15,000 pies for the pleasing of Chicago appetites. Her workshop is The Cherry Hut, on Lake street near Dearborn, where cherry growers in Wisconsin and Michigan hope to interest Chicagoans and stimulate consumption of fresh, fresh frozen, and canned cherries. HERE IS LIST OF ALL EQUIPMENT NEEDED ON HOLIDAY PICNIC TRIP

One sharp knife, a frying pan, a cooking pail, long handled fork and spoon, a can and bottle opener, and water bottles are sufficient equipment for the preparation of a picnic meal over a campfire, according to food specialists of North Dakota Agricultural college.

Menus for campfire meals vary from the extremely simple "hot dog" to the more elaborate type, including potatoes, salad, and dessert. Salads usually are of the type that can be prepared at home and packed in jars to take to the picnic, but those which include tomatoes and juicy fruits often are better if prepared just before the meal is served.

HOW TO KEEP REFRIGERATOR SPICK AND SPAN

One means of helping to keep the refrigerator clean is that of watching the condition of articles placed in the storage portions of the refrigerator. Milk bottles, for instance, often need the outside washed under running water before the bottles are placed inside to keep cool. Paper wrappings should be removed before groceries are placed in storage.

HERE'S WHAT TO PAY FOR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Some Tips on Fair Prices at Markets.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

What to pay for commodities on the market in the fresh fruit and vegetable line often puzzles the housewife, who has no way of knowing quality and price comparisons with other years and whether the price she is asked to pay in retail stores is in keeping with the wholesale price which is set largely on the supply and demand and quality basis.

For instance, potatoes just recently have become almost entirely the new crop. Prices have been changing, both up and down. Men on the wholesale market would like to have the housewife know that the standard white or Irish potato should be available in stores at about 2½ cents per pound or about $1.45 or $1.40 per bushel.

New Sweets Due Soon.

As for sweet potatoes, they are or should be selling retail at around four cents a pound whereas a year ago they were six and seven cents for the same quality. The sweet potatoes at present are last year's crop but of good quality. Tennessee is supplying them but will begin shipping the new sweets about Aug. 10.

Another vegetable at about last year's level in price is the dry onion, available at three to four cents a pound. Many of those now on the market are of the 1931 crop grown from sets in Iowa fields.

As for fresh fruits, prices also are changing as the various kinds come into the flush season or start in on the winding up of harvest. Strawberries are somewhat higher and there aren't so many of them on the market. In fact, much of those now being sold are coming earlier than usual this season from California. "Home grown" strawberries have passed out of the picture for this year, but there will be a lengthening out of the season as shipments keep coming from Washington, Idaho and Oregon.

Cherries Are Plentiful.

There is every indication that sour or pie cherries from Wisconsin and Michigan will be cheaper than last year. This deduction is made by market men on the basis of what is happening to the large, sweet, dark cherries grown out in California, Oregon and Washington. Western orchard owners haven't been able to find a market for all of their cherries and much cheap wine is being manufactured.

A bumper crop of cherries in Door county, Wisconsin, is engaging the efforts of around 15,000 pickers. Michigan also expects to have a heavy crop and is in the midst of picking. The cherries marketed fresh, however, are a small part of the crop, as most of the harvest is put up in tins or larger containers of fresh fruit frozen immediately after being pitted. Both the fresh and the canned, it is expected, will be low in price, as some of the 1930 crop is still in storage. Fifteen to 20 cents a quart probably will be the prevailing price for housewives who wish to purchase quantities for canning.

Apples to be Lower.

Apples are starting out this year 25 to 30 per cent lower wholesale than a year ago.

Earlier reports indicated that blueberries, which started out at around 50 cents a quart wholesale would be cheaper as the season advanced. So far the reduction has been less than normal, market reports indicate, although northern Michigan and north central Wisconsin blueberry patches may yield sufficient quantities to lower the price seasonally.

Supplies of raspberries, currants and gooseberries are described as moderate, with prices in accord. The height of the season is close at hand.

STANDARD GRADE FOR EGGS SET BY TWENTY NATIONS

Countries which have established standard grades for eggs include the United States, Canada, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Finland, Netherlands, Belgium, Russia, Poland, Danzig, Rumania, Ireland, South African Union, England, Wales, and Germany.

As a result, the quality of eggs in food circles has become somewhat similar in the above countries. Germany and the United Kingdom, however, recognize the grades only in their domestic trade.

In practically all of the standards the specifications for the air cell deal with its depth. Other designations are specified for condition of shells, yolks, whites and germs.

Okra Gumbo a La Creole Will Tickle Your Palate

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 16.—[Special.]—Where the Frenchman cooks with a piece of garlic everlastingly between his fingers and the Italian drops his beloved olive oil into every concoction, your true Louisiana chef approaches a cook stove with a can of red pepper in one hand, a can of black pepper in the other.

LIEUT. COL. C. B. HODGES.

The result is saucy and savory, and altogether pleasing to the Louisiana congressmen in this town, who will drop every other engagement in order to attend a real Creole dinner at the Arlington hotel, where Joseph Robichaux, the manager, tickles congressional palates with the cooking he learned back in Louisiana, years ago.

Just a little while ago he gave such a dinner, to the delight of such notables as Senators Ransdell and Broussard and of Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, military aide to President Hoover.

The headliner of the menu was Okra Gumbo a la Creole. And here is the proper way to make it, according to Mr. Robinchaux:

Combination: One chicken, one onion, 6 large fresh tomatoes, 2 plates of okra, or 50 counted, one half pod of red pepper without seeds, 2 large slices of ham, about one tablespoonful chopped parsley, one tablespoonful lard, or two level spoons of butter, salt and cayenne pepper to taste.

Commencement: Clean and cut up the chicken. Cut the ham into small squares or dice. Chop onions and parsley. Skin tomatoes and chop fine, saving the juice. Wash and slice the okra very thin.

Creation: Put lard or butter into a soup kettle. When hot, add the chicken and ham. Cover closely and let simmer for about 10 minutes. Then add the chopped onions, parsley and tomatoes, stirring frequently to prevent scorching. Add the okra. When well browned add the juice of the tomatoes which imparts a superior flavor.

Caution: Okra is very delicate and liable to scorch quickly if not stirred frequently, and the least taste of scorch spoils the flavor of the gumbo.

Conclusion: When well fried and browned, add boiling water [0, about 3 quarts] and set the kettle on the back of the stove [it's an old fashioned cook stove, remember], letting it simmer gently for about an hour longer. Serve with nicely boiled rice.

Characteristic comment: Much of the success of gumbo depends on the seasoning which is always high.

And what else would you serve if you had some congressional clients for Creole cooking? Well, if the gumbo were good, nothing else would matter much. But other items sure to please would include crawfish bisque, which is a soup beloved in Louisiana. Then there is salmon pie. It is made in this fashion:

Line a pudding dish with hot mashed potatoes about one inch to an inch and a half thick. Fill in the center with creamed salmon, seasoned with onion if desired. Cover with mashed potatoes, and brush the top of the potatoes over with melted butter or milk, and bake in oven until a delicate brown.

For vegetables, baked cashaw, or spinach croquettes, may be suggestions that are a little different for you. And here's a recipe for stuffed tongue that will put you to work days before your dinner party actually assembles.

Soak a large tongue in strong solution of salt water, red and black pepper, for two days. Remove the tongue, insert a sharp knife through the large end and work around with the knife until your hand can get into the opening. Then take 2 pounds of fresh pork, mixed with fat, and chopped up fine. Season, of course, highly, with salt, sage and spice and with that Damon and Pythias of Creole cooking, red and black pepper. Fill the tongue with this and sew up the opening. Smoke the tongue for several days and serve cold and sliced thin.

AROMATIC SEEDS DESERVE WIDER USE IN COOKING

When we speak of flavorings almost every one immediately thinks of the ones we use in our cooking all the time, such as vanilla or lemon. But there are certain aromatic seeds on the market that introduce a new and unusual tang to the dishes that we prepare for our everyday menus.

The flavor of these seeds may be purchased in two forms, either the seed itself in whole or ground form which is then used in cooking, or the essential oil which is stronger and must be used sparingly.

Most Popular Seeds.

The most popular and probably the most flavorful of these seeds are the anise, fennel, poppy, caraway, celery, sesame and cardamon. All are used in the preparation of various dishes, but we connect most of them with one specific type of food.

Thus caraway seed means dark rye bread, anise seed means cookies at Christmas time, and poppy seed means rolls sprinkled heavily with the seeds. Caraway seed is also tasty when used in the cooking of vegetables, like boiled potatoes or sauerkraut, and in the cooking of meat, like roast goose and roast pork.

Cardamon Associated with Honey.

Cardamon seed has an agreeably pungent odor. It is used for cooking curries, soups, and various cakes. The flavor of cardamon has for generations been associated with foods sweetened with honey.

The other seeds are utilized in much the same manner. Cakes, candies, rolls, breads, cookies, pickles, soups, etc., all profit in flavor when one of these seeds is used in amount sufficient to impart a distinct yet elusive taste.

BUTTER ICING.

2 cups confectioners' sugar.
4 tablespoons cream.
½ teaspoon vanilla.

Cream the butter and sugar together well. Add the cream and vanilla. Stir until creamy and of the right consistency to spread. Cover the top and sides of the cake.

POPPY SEED TORTE.

1 cup milk.
½ cup butter.
1½ cups sugar.
2½ cups flour.
2½ teaspoons baking powder.
3 egg whites beaten stiff.

Soak the poppy seed in the milk for at least 1½ hours. Cream the butter until plastic. Add the sugar in several portions, creaming well after each addition. Add the soaked poppy seed to this mixture. Mix the flour and baking powder and add to the batter. Lastly, fold in the beaten egg whites. Turn into layer cake tins. Bake in a moderately hot oven for 25 to 30 minutes. When cool spread with the filling below. Yield: 2 layers.

CARDAMON COFFEE CAKE.

1-3 cup butter.
½ cup sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.
½ cake yeast dissolved in ¼ cup milk.
1 egg.
4 cups flour.
½ teaspoon cardamon seed (1 teaspoon if ready ground cardamon seed is used).

Add the butter, sugar, and salt to the milk. When it becomes lukewarm add the dissolved yeast cake, the egg, well beaten, flour to make a stiff batter, and the finely ground cardamon seed. Cover and set away in a warm place to rise for at least two hours, until light.

Turn onto floured board, knead for a few minutes and roll into desired shape. Place in buttered pans and let rise until double the volume. Bake in a moderate oven. (A cake about 2 inches high will require 25 minutes of baking.) Cool and brush over with an icing of confectioners' sugar moistened with boiling water, hot cream, or orange juice.

Use Care in Selecting and Packing Food.

BY ROE FOWLER.

Box lunches just seem to go naturally on to trains, like Ossa on Pelion, or insult on injury. Since that is the case, why hasn't the human race learned to prepare them better? The lunches, that is. Did you ever eat a box lunch on the train that didn't smell up the place for hours afterward? I'll wager you didn't. And the crumbs, the flies, and the leftovers. Remember?

It is too bad that we can't all afford to eat in diners. It would be nice to sit down and have a waiter come rushing up to attend to your every need. Unfortunately, the more members of the family there are, the nicer it would be, and the less possible it is. I recently had the full horror of box lunches borne in on me, when I made a trip down into Egypt, the southern part of Illinois, to see my folks.

Riding Is Bad Enough.

Hot day? I'll say it was a hot day! The train was full of streaming humanity. Some of it chewed tobacco. Some of it wore stubble beards, ragged coats, honest suspenders. Some of it, too, wore frizzly hair. It was all intensely human and hot. I thought that just living was bad enough in such a situation, with the cinders blowing into my eyes. The worst, however, was yet to come. It came about noon, when the family across the aisle decided to open its box lunch.

The car was already stuffy, but it reeked even worse when the lid of the box was raised. Out rolled great clouds of banana odor mixed with fetid ham smells and a mixture of aroma de apple. Calmly the mother took out a squashy banana, and handed it to the youngest child. You may imagine the result. Well, after they had combed the banana out of the youngster's hair, or, rather, while they were doing so, the rest of the family fell to with a gusto.

Unfortunately for us fellow passengers the gusto didn't last, or else the family was too thrifty. For after having nearly finished the victuals, which were scattered in goodly scraps across the seats and into the aisles, the travelers gathered the remains, which were dumped pellmell into the box [the lid to which had been broken], to be kept for eating later on. From time to time one of the children would delve into the odoriferous heap and draw forth something further to smear on to his face.

How It Should Be Done.

Understand, you, I'm not belittling box lunches. They're fine if you observe some rules about putting them up, and in eating them. What I kick on is the way most people fix them. Yes, and eat them.

Here's how it could be done. In the first place, there is no sense in putting fruit into such a lunch. Apples only cost a nickel apiece from the fruit vendor, or a dime maybe. You can get them on the train or at any of the larger stations. Bananas, if you must have them, can also be purchased better on the spot than to allow them to lie inside a box where they will sweat and leave their taste in all the other food.

A basket, because it is better ventilated, is far superior to a box in carrying a train lunch. If a box is taken, holes should be cut in its sides. It should be lined only loosely, so that the air can penetrate. It is preferable to line the basket or box with paper rather than cloth, so that the lining can be used to wrap around the scraps before throwing them away.

Should Be Dry Food.

As for what should be taken, the food contained should be of a dry character. Thus, sandwiches, the old standby, are ideal. These can be varied into ham, cheese, and sandwiches having prepared fillings not too wet. Wet fillings make the sandwiches soggy. One thing should be, by all means, left out: jam or jelly sandwiches. These are almost as bad as fresh fruit in smelling up the basket. Peanut better is all right, if it doesn't make you too dry.

Deviled eggs have a tendency to sweat, but if you like them that way, there's no harm in having them. They don't taint anything, but attend strictly to their own business. The basket should not contain seasonings or butter done up in little paper packets. These little packets always look so neat going in, and are so treacherous coming out. They either break, or you spill them in opening.

The food should be put into the basket in layers, with common newspaper between layers. The power of the press is wonderful in keeping order among a few sandwiches. Incidentally, paper of the thickness of newspaper is better than the usual flimsy tissuepaper, which almost always sticks to one layer or the other in unwrapping. To keep the sandwiches from losing too much moisture, a damp cloth can be spread over the top layer.

Cake Easy to Handle.

Cake is nice to have along, and if it is taken, it should be sliced in advance and laid flat. Oil paper of the thickness that comes wrapped around bread makes a good wrapping for cake.

Beverages can be carried iced in a thermos bottle, or you may depend on the ice water on the train. Lots of washing down is required for sandwiches, so in preparing the basket, don't overlook provisions for drinking.

Sausage Offers Housewife Chance for Variety in Meals

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Sausages have always intrigued me, each variety a different size and shape, each with its own characteristic flavor, each tied in its own way. A hostess may present sausage once each day for two months and never repeat, for there are sixty odd kinds of this wholesome, appetizing meat.

Summer or dry sausage is a boon to the housewife at this season of the year, for it is simple and convenient to serve, easy to keep, and welcome at breakfast, luncheon, dinner, or as the mainstay of a picnic or camping party. Sausage is an economical meat, for it is not only high in food value but relatively low in price.

Delving into the history of the great sausage family discloses the reason for the numerous variety. Each country has taken pride in developing one particular variety.

Packers Increase Variety.

In turn our own American packers have increased the list of varieties by gathering the recipes for the best known foreign sausages and adding to them the good ones of this country.

Summer or dry sausage, the kind we particularly recommend for these summer months, differs from the fresh or domestic sausages such as frankfurters, bologna, and head cheese. Summer sausage, always extensively used on the continent, has rapidly increased in popularity in this country in the last few years as Americans have recognized its distinctive flavor and convenient preparation. Dried and cured by scientific American manufacturing methods before marketing, summer sausage needs no further cooking for serving and will keep indefinitely if wrapped and put away in a cool place.

It may further be divided into two classes—Cervelats and Salamis. Two other varieties, Mortadella and Peperoni are not so common. All of these are prepared from uncooked pork which is ground, spiced, cured and dried. Capicolli is a variety of meat classed as sausage and made of a whole piece, the boneless shoulder butts.

The Cervelat Sausage.

Cervelats differ from Salamis in that they are made from very finely ground meat and have no garlic for seasoning. Occasionally you may run across a Salami that has no garlic, but this is the exception. Both Cervelats and Salamis differ so radically in seasoning and preparation that there are countless varieties on the market.

About 90 days are required for curing these summer sausages.

Frequently questions are asked concerning quality in sausage. Unfortunately it belongs to that class of food products which we must accept on faith, for the appearance of sausage gives little hint of the quality of meats and spices it contains or of the care used in processing.

Casual examination reveals few faults. We are wary of any noticeable deviation from normal color which may indicate spoiling or use of prohibitive dyes, and we feel certain that some inedible portions have been used if the sausage is flecked with gristle. Further than this we can tell little.

Protected by U. S. Bureau.

Fortunately, however, the consumers' welfare is carefully guarded by the bureau of animal industry of the federal department of agriculture. Everything concerned with sausage manufacture is kept under observation. Not only the live animals and dressed meats are inspected, but all the ingredients entering into sausage are inspected and analyzed. The best guarantee that sausage is safe and suitable for food is the "U. S. Inspected and Passed" stamp of the bureau of animal industry.

"Home made" does not connote quality when applied to sausage. It does not imply that the product of a local individual or concern is necessarily inferior, but merely that there are fewer legal safeguards for the consumer.

When sausage made under government inspection is sold as "farm" or "country" sausage, the word style is added to the name to distinguish it from locally made products. Imported sausage is inspected at the port of entry for the American public's protection. The imported article, however, forms a relatively small part of our total supply.

FAMILY OF SEVEN CAN FEED HERE FOR $10.36 WEEK

Uncle Sam Tells How It Can Be Done.

An economical diet which will feed a family of seven for a week for $10.36 in Chicago and varying elsewhere in the United States is described in a report released yesterday by the federal bureau of home economics, the United States department of agriculture and the woman's division of the President's emergency committee for employment.

To make it more interesting, the report emphasizes the fact that even an economical diet can include tempting dishes such as chop suey, if the housewife will plan carefully.

Nearly 5,000 years ago Confucius advised his people about eating as well as on matters of philosophy and religion. And Confucius was of the opinion that there should be about one-third as much meat as vegetables served at a meal. Chop suey is prepared in that proportion.

Some Substitutions.

For economy, the government dieticians advise substitutions in the chop suey, such as Jerusalem artichokes or radishes in the place of water chestnuts and bean sprouts or celery instead of the more expensive and difficult to obtain bamboo shoots.

An average for 12 cities in the United States in filling out the "market basket" for a week for a family of mother, father, and five children was found to be at present $10.43. Chicago is seven cents less than that. In other cities the foods recommended would cost: Los Angeles, $9.51; New Orleans, $9.99; St. Louis, $10.02; Washington, D. C., $10.11; Pittsburgh, the same; Kansas City, $10.38; Boston, $10.39; Detroit, $10.41; Philadelphia, $10.47; Dallas, $10.63; Charlotte, N. C., $10.75; New York, $11.29; Atlanta, $11.53.

Here's the Budget.

Bread, 16 to 22 pounds.
Flour, 3 to 4 pounds.
Cereal, 6 to 8 pounds.
Whole fresh milk or canned evaporated milk, 30 to 42 quarts or 30 to 42 tall cans.
Potatoes, 20 to 30 pounds.
Dried beans, peas, 1 to 3 pounds.
Tomatoes, fresh or canned, or citrus fruits, 9 pounds.
Other vegetables, including some of green or yellow color, and inexpensive fruits, 20 to 25 pounds.
Fats, such as lard, salt pork, bacon, margarine, butter, 4 pounds.
Sugar and molasses, 5 pounds.
Lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs [eight eggs equal a pound], 7 to 10 pounds.
Coffee, 1 pound.
Tea, one-quarter pound.

LOW COST RECIPES

Pork Chop Suey.

1½ to 2 cups shredded cooked lean pork.
3 tablespoons fat.
1 green pepper, shredded.
2 cups shredded onion.
2 cups shredded celery.
Salt to taste.
2 cups meat broth or thin gravy.
1 teaspoon cornstarch.
1 tablespoon cold water.
2 cups sliced raw Jerusalem artichokes or radishes.
4 tablespoons soy sauce.

Brown the meat lightly in half the fat and remove from the skillet. Cook the pepper and onion in the rest of the fat a few minutes. Add the celery, meat, salt, broth or gravy, cover, and simmer for five minutes. Mix the cornstarch and water until smooth, stir into the mixture, and cook for a few minutes longer. Add the artichokes or radishes, or substitute for them 1 cup of sliced peanuts. Add soy sauce in sufficient quantities to give the desired flavor and then salt to taste. Serve with hot flaky rice. [This recipe serves 5 persons.]

Boiled Rice.

1 cup rice.
2 quarts boiling water.
2 teaspoons salt.

Look the rice over to remove any foreign materials, wash in hot water and drain. Add to the rapidly boiling, salted water gradually. When all has been added reduce the heat to maintain gentle boiling, and cook with the utensil uncovered until the rice grains are tender [until no hard center is felt when a grain is pressed between the thumb and finger]. Drain at once, and rinse by pouring hot water through the rice on a colander or sieve to remove loose starch and separate the grains. Drain. The rice should be well cooked with the grains whole and free from stickiness.

Brown rice is cooked in the same manner as white rice except that after boiling gently about 30 minutes, it is covered and allowed to simmer until the rice is choked through and the water is absorbed.

Reheat rice for serving by steaming it in a colander or sieve over boiling water, steaming only long enough to heat through. Rice for two days' servings can be boiled at one time and reheated easily when needed. Leftover rice combined with other food materials make a variety of appetizing dishes.

Serve boiled rice instead of a starchy vegetable with butter or meat gravy, with creamed meats, curries, or chop suey.

A softer, more moist product may be obtained by cooking rice in a double boiler, fireless cooker, or waterless cooker, using about two volumes of water to one of rice. Rice so prepared is desirable for croquettes, patties, rice ring and any dishes in which the rice grains are to be held together.

SINGLE STALK OF ASPARAGUS WEIGHS 1½ LBS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HEIDELBERG, July 16.—[Special.]—Meet Heidelberg, the center of German asparagus production. As world famous site of learning, of saber duels, and beer drinking, it is widely known. But Heidelberg has more. It boasts of growing the "finest asparagus the world over."

A single stalk of asparagus weighing one and a half pounds was cut recently, in Walldorf, a small town in the immediate neighborhood of Heidelberg. The Walldorfers claim it was the biggest, heaviest, and most palatable stalk of asparagus ever raised by man. Incidentally, Walldorf is the birthplace of John Jacob Astor, who emigrated to America in 1783 and eventually laid the foundation for the enormous Astor fortune. He donated $50,000 to his home town for the construction of the Astor house in Walldorf, a home for the aged poor.

Dixie Ships Strawberries to Chicago by Carload

Strawberries now on Chicago markets are coming from Illinois, Michigan, and nearby berry patches by the truckload. But they follow a record breaking crop that reached Chicago in March and ended late in June from Louisiana.

The Illinois Central railroad reports about 5,000 cars being shipped from the famous Hammond, La., district alone, and a total of 5,215 carloads of 720 to 750 crates to the car being sent under refrigeration to northern cities, of which 471 cars were from Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, and southern Illinois in turn, as the season advanced. The crop brought over 10 million dollars to growers, it is estimated.

Household Hints

—o—

Raincoats and rubbers should be kept in a cool dark place, as rubber deteriorates in heat or sunlight.

—o—

Rubbing, hot water, and strong soap are enemies of silks and fine fabrics.

—o—

Boiling Pot Soon to Get Succulent Ears.

BY WM. K. McKAY.

Soon will come the golden bantam corn, in all its succulence—premier vegetable product, many of us hold, of all the benign offerings of good old Mother Earth.

Two weeks ago the sturdy stalks in our back yard pushed their tassels forward and now, lower down in the armpits of the stalks, dainty silky strands are showing—promises and harbingers of the yellow ears that the glad sunshine of late July and early August will develop.

Nothing in Its Class.

Golden bantam under ordinary conditions is a gustatory heaven. It may be four or five days under most favorable merchandising circumstances from stalk to dining table, but even a sibling is more delightful. As a yell tickler there is nothing in its class.

Nevertheless, in a spirit of devout and grateful appreciation, the golden beauties of the back yard garden—eleven minutes from the stalk to the boiling pot and twelve minutes more—are an alumna of its sweetness lost, not a breath of its aroma estrayed—and there on the platter it awaits you. As you strip the yellow kernels from the boiling cob, immersed in melting butter, it seems as if you were playing "Home, Sweet Home" on a mouth organ. The gastric juices leap up as a fountain of delight to meet each succeeding mouthful. And the whole world is serene.

Needs Careful Culture.

Back yard golden bantam is carefully cultured and nurtured. Last fall a dozen or so ears were selected for this year's planting. These were hung in the attic high and dry. In midMay the kernels were stripped from the ears, filling a small bowl.

The corn spot had been spaded and forked and the fertilizer which had been Cure through the fall and winter had been worked into the subsoil. In straight rows three feet apart were dug 200 "hills"—really they were holes about eight inches deep. Into each depression was poured a trowelful of prepared fertilizer, wet down with the garden hose. Then two or three inches of loose soil was eased into each hole. The seeds were placed four or five to each hill, each four or five inches from the others, and covered with an inch or two of earth.

Sedulously and carefully we watched them grow, sprinkling them after sundown and hoeing the loose soil into mounds around the roots—thus saving the subsoil moisture and protecting the rising stalks from the flattening pressure of high winds and pelting rains.

Expects Fine Crop.

With all these careful nurturings we'll be a fine crop in early August, and that's when John T. Brown and his fraw, Arabella, are coming to dinner.

Just a couple of weeks more. When the roast of beef is done to a turn—John T. and Arabella like the well done outside cuts and we like the rare inner slices—when the golf ball tin boats from the backyard have simmered to perfection and the new potatoes, boiling in their skins, as Tom Ridgway of Dubuque likes them, have cached themselves into smiles, and the dinner is all ready for the table—that we'll fare into the back lot, strip two dozen ears of golden bantam from the stalks and drop them, with their inner husks still on the cobs, into the boiling water.

Ten or twelve minutes later a dozen platter of golden bantam repose on the table—a feast, my readers, sweet as the honey of Hymettus, and alike in yellow hue—tickling and satisfying to every gustatory desire—a nectar of the palate and a blessing to the innards.

Looks Forward to Visit.

Medium sized new potatoes boiled in their jackets made a big hit with us at the Fourth of July picnic of the Mulgrew-Cosley tribe at Great-Grandma Cosley's lovely old home at Julien, six miles west of Dubuque, 200 year old city famous for its hospitality and good cheer. Fifty broiler chickens and loads of fresh kitchen garden produce served in part to feed four prolific generations. From the hilltop set in the orchard we glanced with pleasurable anticipation at an acre or so of tasseled golden bantam. It will be prime when we get over there towards the end of July.

The kitchen garden on the estate of the George Burdens on the entrancing hilltop overlooking the Mississippi also aroused pleasant yearnings—the orderly and highly cultured rows of potato vines, the golden bantam, and climbing lima beans, with their artistic trellises of willow saplings, gave promise of fine feasting.

Shy on Liquids.

And at this point we are wondering what liquid flip we are to provide for the Browns when they come to eat our golden bantam. Not much in sight. Perhaps a story told by George Burden will tide us over.

One of George's neighbors, a German farmer, was apologizing to a caller for having nothing in the way of a cheering cup to offer.

"The dandelions iss all," he said, "and the grapes ain't yet."

It was this same old German, according to Mr. Burden, who when presented to another oldtimer whom he was supposed to know, but whose name was not mentioned, said, after a quizzical survey:

HERE ARE SOME NEW RECIPES FOR MAKING THAT ICED COFFEE

On a warm day, nothing tastes half so good as a tall, thin glass of iced coffee, creamy smooth, with cracked ice tinkling at the brim.

ICED RUSSIAN COFFEE.

3 cups ice cold, strong coffee
1 cup cocoa, made with milk
4 tablespoons powdered sugar
2 tablespoons cream

Stir together these ingredients in the order given. Serve in tall, thin glasses half filled with crushed ice, with or without a spoonful of sweetened whipped cream.

This recipe serves six—but you'd better be prepared for second servings.

HONEY FLAVORED ICED COFFEE.
[Individual.]

Stir together until well mixed, one-fourth cup of cold, clear, strong coffee and four and a half teaspoons of honey. Then add a half cupful more coffee and pour into a tall glass one-fourth filled with crushed ice. Top with stiffly whipped cream, into which a little honey has been beaten.

FROSTED COFFEE [For six].

6 cups cold, clear, strong coffee
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Pour the coffee, which should be ice cold, into a pitcher. Place on a tray containing the glasses, a shaker, and a bowl for the ice cream. Put two heaping tablespoons of ice cream into the shaker with a cup of the coffee. Shake until the cream is dissolved, pour into a glass and serve. If desired, a little crushed ice may be put into the shaker for each serving. This should be done in turn for each person.

Served with little sugar cookies or fruit flavored wafers, frosted coffee makes an excellent simple dessert for a warm evening.

EATING PROPER FOOD TO KEEP HEALTH URGED

There is true economy in being healthy, says Dorothea Muehl, home economics specialist of Purdue university. Health saves many expenses such as these for drugs, doctor and dentist, plus the important fact that health is a great aid in making money.

It is poor economy to save on food at the expense of health. In order to maintain health Miss Muehl suggests that the following foods should be included in the day's meals:

Fruits—Two servings, one raw if possible.

Eggs, cheese, meats, fish, dried peas and beans.—One serving each from any two of these foods.

Moderate amounts of fats, sweets, and starches should be added.

BABY MUST HAVE SUNLIGHT TO AID DIET FOR HEALTH

Why does modern child care include, amon gother things, so much attention to sunbaths both for babies and older children? The bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture explains:

Normal growth of bones depends not only on the mineral content of the food the child eats, but also upon the presence of vitamin D. Vitamin D found in codliver oil and in certain foods may be supplied to the body by exposure to the direct rays of sunlight. When bones do not form or grow normally, the condition is known as rickets.

Mothers should begin very early, especially in climates where children are indoors so much, to take precautions against rickets by providing diets with adequate mineral content, supplemented with codliver oil during the winter months and sunbaths the year around.

MRS. HENDERSON, AGED WIDOW OF SENATOR, IS DEAD

Offered House as Home for Vice Presidents.

Bar Harbor, Me., July 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, Washington, D. C., society dowager and widow of United States Senator John Brooks Henderson of Missouri, died here tonight. She was 90 years old.

MRS. MARY HENDERSON. (Harris & Ewing.)

Mrs. Henderson's death resulted from two strokes she suffered since she came here four weeks ago. No hope had been held for her recovery for several days.

In 1926 Mrs. Henderson started a crusade against short skirts and high heels and appealed to Washington society leaders to set the fashion by covering up the knees. She was able to muster but little support for the movement.

U. S. Fails to Accept.

In February of this year she offered her fashionable sixteenth street home as a vice presidential mansion. Congress failed to accept the offer.

Mrs. Beatrice Van Rensselaer Henderson Wholean, who for years had been accepted in society as Mrs. Henderson's granddaughter, brought suit to prevent completion of the transaction on the ground that her grandmother was no longer mentally competent. Mrs. Henderson then disinherited Mrs. Wholean and disclosed she was a foundling adopted by her son and his wife.

Women Are Reconciled.

Prior to Mrs. Henderson's trip to Bar Harbor the two women had not spoken, but a reconciliation was effected after Mrs. Henderson was stricken and Mrs. Wholean remained by her side to the end.

Mrs. Henderson was an ardent prohibitionist. Soon after the passage of the Volstead act she destroyed a cellarful of liquor which had been stored by her husband, who died in 1913. She estimated the value of the stock at several hundred thousand dollars.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: What? Has She Come to Stay?

BALLEN, DOORMAN AND FRIEND OF NOTABLES, DIES

At Blackstone Hotel Since Its Opening.

Since 1916, when the Blackstone hotel opened, Alexander Ballen, known as "Bal" or "Sergeant" to many members of Chicago society, has opened the doors of coaches and later of automobiles arriving at the Seventh street entrance to the hotel. Yesterday "Bal" was not on duty as doorman. He died on Wednesday night in the Presbyterian hospital, where officials of the hotel took him after he reported for duty that morning. He had suffered from heart trouble.

Ballen's tall, soldierly figure was well known not only to hundreds of Chicagoans but to many national figures. He was 68 years old.

Born in Guayaquil, Ecuador, the son of Juan Francisco Ballen, member of an old Castilian family, he was educated in England and when a young man was made a consul of Peru and stationed in San Francisco. That was in Grover Cleveland's administration. His uncle was said to have been a minister to France from Peru at one time, and his father was once chief of police in Lima, Peru.

In Spanish-American War.

Ballen left the consular service to fight with the Americans in the Spanish-American war, serving in Cuba and in the Philippines as a sergeant. He came to Chicago 35 years ago and for 14 years was a clerk in the Chicago Athletic association.

Officials of the hotel recalled many instances when Ballen, with his knowledge of French, Italian, Spanish and two Filipino dialects, and his acquaintance with a few words in Japanese, was of service in accompanying guests about the city as interpreter. When President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico visited Chicago when he was president-elect, he frequently talked with Ballen.

Joe Marquis, who was on Ballen's shift as his cab starter, spoke of "Old Bal" with tears in his eyes.

"All the big people knew Bal," Joe said, "but it didn't turn his head. One minute a Rolls would pull up and some one would step out and say, 'Hello, Bal,' and give him a tip. The next minute a bum from Wabash avenue might come along and say he was hungry, and there would go the tip.

Saluted by General.

"Maj. Gen. Frank Parker always called him 'Sergeant,' and saluted. Former President Roosevelt knew him, and Former Secretary of State Frank Kellogg always said 'Hello, Bal.'"

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Josephine Ballen, and two daughters, Lucille, 26 years old, and Eileen, 18. The funeral will be at 9 o'clock Saturday from the home at 7749 East End avenue to Our Lady of Peace church at 79th street and Jeffery avenue. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

GEO. V. LAUMAN, RETIRED LAWYER, TAKEN BY DEATH

George V. Lauman, retired attorney, died of brain hemorrhage early yesterday in the Passavant hospital at the age of 71 years. He lived at 170 East Pearson street and will be buried at his birthplace, Burlington, Ia., on Monday at 2 p. m.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 16.—[Special.]—The estate of the late Thomas E. Mitten, now valued at $1,000,000, has been turned over to the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company by Dr. A. A. Mitten, who succeeded his father as head of the Mitten Management, Inc. Assets of the estate originally had been estimated as worth $3,000,000, but it is now believed liquidation will net only about $1,000,000.

Liquidation of the estate will be effected under a decree of Common Pleas court, which recently ousted ousted Mitten Management from operation of the P. R. T.

Plans for acquisition by the city of the transit system and its management by an operating organization, such as the United Gas Improvement company, were taken up at a meeting of the board.

Miss Sue, as she had been known to generations in Greenfield, taught the primary class in the Presbyterian Sunday school more than sixty years and resigned only after she was more than 80 years old. She continued regular attendance at church service and Sunday school, however, until a few weeks ago.

She was an intimate friend and was closely associated with James Whitcomb Riley all his life. He always went to her for advice.

Rev. E. G. Hjerpe, Former Head of Missions, Dies

The Rev. E. G. Hjerpe, 3417 Foster avenue, who was for many years president of the Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Mission covenant, died yesterday at the Swedish Covenant hospital of uremic poisoning. He was 78 years old. A native of Sweden, the work of the Rev. Mr. Hjerpe had taken him almost around the world. In 1915 he made a five month trip to China to inspect his church's missions there. He retired from active work about five years ago. Besides his widow, five daughters survive. Funeral services will be held at the North Park Mission church at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Dies After Shooting Self While Inspecting Pistol

Victor Dion, 35 years old, 6612 South Paulina street, died in St. Bernard's hospital yesterday of loss of blood after he had shot himself accidently in the home of a friend, Mrs. Mae O'Neill, 6704 South State street. According to the story told the police, Dion was inspecting a revolver which a maid had taken from a drawer she was cleaning when the weapon was discharged, the bullet severing a large vein several inches above Dion's knee. Mrs. O'Neill and the maid, Isabelle Sullivan, 16 years old, 6706 South State street, were questioned by police but were released.

Is Our Bumper Crop of Gifted Children Being Partly Wasted?

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We have a bumper crop of wheat. We apparently have a bumper crop of gifted children. What's going to happen to them? Are they going partly to waste.

While thinking and writing about the gifted child in the last week, I came across an interesting editorial in the Woman's Home Companion of the past month which points out what our loss is going to be if we don't do something about it. The extract follows:

"Here is what well may be the most costly of our many national wastes. We have heard much for years about what should be done for the 'underprivileged' child. Usually that term has meant the orphans, the weaklings, the poor, the mentally retarded.

"Now we are beginning to see that the brilliant child from the well-to-do home may also be tragically underprivileged. Leaving aside the question of justice to the individual child, we ought to be impressed with the nation's loss. Tremendous amounts of human resources and abilities are being thrown away by a school system which aims at the deadly average."

Some interesting findings in this connection were voiced in one of the surveys of the White House conference. A scheme of education which is aimed only at the education of the average child is sure to work great injury to the gifted and the brilliant, by not developing their powers.

These powers should be developed so that their personal growth may be rich one and also so that their superior abilities may be of benefit to society in general. The brilliant mind at sea may either go to seed, or in desperation use its powers in antisocial ways.

To form classes for gifted children in all schools does not seem either a difficult or expensive operation when one hears Elizabeth Irwin talk. Miss Irwin of New York is one of the real pioneers who began her work in a New York public school by a simple process of going the rounds of the classes and extracting the "bright children." Of course, the teacher of gifted children needs to be gifted too. But it is all quite easy of accomplishment if the will is there to provide special education for the mentally superior child.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

FARMERS CONSIDER LAMBS.

Problems related to consuming cheap grains by feeding to livestock this summer and fall are causing many Illinois farmers to consider the placing of western feeder lambs in their pastures this year.

Good stock, well bred and given good attention has always paid and it will do so again this year, asserts W. G. Kammlade, assistant chief in sheep husbandry at the college of agriculture, the University of Illinois. At the same time, he warns, no one ever made much from poorly bred, thin lambs.

Some of the best lambs on the market are produced in Illinois, and many more of them could be raised on farms of the state if more attention was given to better breeding, feeding and management, according to Kammlade. The obvious application of this to those who will buy western lambs is that they must pick with care when buying.

"One of the rules of successful lamb raising is to keep them thrifty," says the sheep expert. "This means to prevent common summer ailments and to supply good feed. Sanitation and pasture rotation are the easiest ways of doing this. Lambs infested with internal parasites are not thrifty and cannot make good use of feed."

Regular medicinal treatment is advised where it is not possible to rotate pastures and the old pastures are infected. Bluestone treatment is said to be useful for this purpose. For grub in the head, the use of pine tar or a similar repellent is advisable.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

A Parade of One.

My most embarrassing moment was many years ago in a small Minnesota town. At the time I was editing a local newspaper in a village adjoining the county seat. This village boasted a very creditable brass band. An enterprising machinery dealer at the county seat engaged the band to furnish the music during the delivery of a carload of twine binders. At the time the band was minus a drum major. As I possessed a full dress military uniform I was chosen to lead the band through the streets. The line of march was, as I thought, fully understood by the members of the band, so we started off down Main street. I strutted along at the head of the parade, looking neither to the right nor the left, maintaining a very dignified posture. I soon noticed that the music of the band was becoming quite faint and I unbent enough to glance around.

Imagine my embarrassment when I discovered that the band had made a square turn a block back and gone on up a side street, and there I was marching proudly by myself.

Chic Blue Tailleur Worn at Longchamps

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—We've gotten so accustomed to wearing knitted clothes and we find them so easy and comfortable that Paris has decided to give us a tricot suit that will be good to wear in the hottest weather. Knitted tailleurs made of purest cotton thread are being shown in Paris, and worn by women of impeccable taste.

The suit shown in our sketch was worn last Sunday to the races at Longchamps by a tall and slender blond of genuinely grand chic. It is a deep, bright blue, and the jacket and skirt are hand knitted, with a fine close stitch. The simple straight jacket of this type, with short sleeves, is more worn than the fitted jacket in Paris this summer. It's only trimming is big patch pockets tucked in crossbar pattern. The skirt is a plain skirt with a slight circular flare and at the hipline a wide crossbar tucked band suggests a nonexistent yoke.

The blouse of white dimity has a childish turnover collar at the close fitting round neckline, and a curved tucked band of dimity is placed around the blouse under the arms. There are no sleeves.

The final touch of chic is given to the outfit by the bright green suede belt and gloves that are worn with it. The hat is a white paper straw sailor and the bag and slippers are blue calfskin.

Strachey Does Miniatures of Other Authors

Book of Hume Gives Test of Quality.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

A DELIGHTFUL book of biographical essays for summer reading is Lytton Strachey's "Portraits in Miniature." [Harcourt, Brace]. They are informative, well learned, without being ponderous or heavy.

LYTTON STRACHEY.

Mr. Strachey writes with the addition of a scholar tempered with the wit of a humorist and the subtle sense of the man in the street. There is nothing highbrow in his style, yet certainly nothing commonplace. They can serve as models for one to the amateur author, for his prose is a gem of diction.

In the section groups six English writers: Hume, Gibbon, Macaulay, Carlyle, Freude and Bishop Creighton. To twelve pages are devoted to Lord Hume, yet he stands out clear as a vivid, a man as well as a philosopher and historian. Typical of Mr. Strachey's fine English is the following passage telling of the approach to the end of Hume:

"For many months he knew he was dying, but his mode of life remained unaltered, and, while he gradually grew weaker, his cheerfulness continued unabated. With ease, with gayety, with the simplicity of perfect taste, he gently welcomed the inevitable. This wonderful equanimity lasted till the very end. There was no ostentation of stoicism, much less any Addisonian dotting of deathbed 's's. Not long before he died he amused himself by writing his autobiography — a model of pointed brevity."

And a model of pointed brevity are the sketches in "Portraits in Miniature." Besides the historians there are men and women, known in the time in which they lived, but, for the most part, long since forgotten, whom it is the author's pleasure to resurrect for a brief hour and bathe in the glowing colors of his prose. There are Sir John Harington, who lived in the 1580s; Muggleton, a religious leader of the 17th century, and John Aubrey, an obscure writer of that period.

In mentioning Aubrey's biography, Lytton Strachey says something that aptly fits his own essays: "The method of enormous and elaborate accretion which produced the 'Life of Johnson' is excellent, no doubt, failing that, let us have small measures; let us have the pure particle—a vivid image, on a page or two, without explanations, transitions, commentaries, or padding. This is what Aubrey gives us; this, and something more—a sense of the pleasure, anxious being who, with his odd touch of alchemy, has transmuted a few shillings of relics into golden life."

There are women in this collection of portraits, too. There is Mary Berry, admired and loved by Horace Walpole. With a masculine mind, and a quality that led her to "read eagerly and long," she might have been a leader in a later century, but she was ahead of her times, out of her sphere, and, although she edited Walpole's papers, studied political economy, appreciating Malthus and free trade, she thought herself insignificant and said, "Nobody ever suffered insignificance more unwillingly than myself." Her life was one of frustration in romance as well, and she died a spinster, dreaming of the man she loved but could not marry.

The life of Madame de Lieven, born in 1785, was as varied and exciting as the great national events she lived in and in which she participated: the French revolution, the Napoleonic era, the division of Europe in which Metternich, Austrian statesman, was the dominant personality, and the "European monarchy" of Louis-Philippe. Metternich was her admirer; so were Lord Grey, the great Whig earl, and the French historian, Guizot. The czar followed her advice; she was a power in Europe.

Strachey says she was one of the last grand figures of the aristocratic salons in Europe. "Her manners were of the genuinely terrific kind. Surrounded by them, isolated as with an aseptic spray, she swept on triumphantly, to survive untouched—so it seemed—amid an atmosphere alive with the microbes of bourgeois disintegration."

You'll find these miniature portraits fascinating. They're "wells of English pure and undefiled."

Hats Off to Record-Breakers!

Some, like our Mr. Banks, are daring both in the air and aground. You'll love Coast. He was a Don Juan of the flying service, given to mesquoes and cocktails. His story is about incredibly gay aces, spies and aviators in that amazing war. We think it's the best book of its kind since War Birds. By ELLIOTT WHITE SPRINGS. $2.50

Good Morning!

Now right off the reel I want to tell you that the Chicago theater is C-O-O-L and that Marie Dressler and Polly Moran are FUNNY. So you don't have to read any farther if you're hot and don't want to, but DID desire to know whether "Politics" was worth going to see. It is.

"Hattie Burns for mayor! H'RAY!" shrieked the women of Lake City as they paraded through the streets with their ladies' band tooting belligerently and their men folks scuttling along the sidewalks madder than wet hens, but not knowing just what to do about it.

This woman menace, you see, had descended on the men so suddenly! Overnight their helpmeets' allegiance to the mayor who was running for reelection, had been transferred, kitchen, bath and clothesline, to the Widow Burns, who, up to that time, hadn't known a politic from a wood tick.

"Hattie Burns for mayor . . .!" Husbands cringe. Gangsters seethe. And under the candidate's own roof something strange is going on that she wots not of . . .

Now the widow's chief aide, campaigner, orator and general all around trouble woman is Mrs. Ivy Higgins, who, with Mr. Higgins, a barber with a speech impediment, lives under her roof. Mr. Higgins is as much agin Hattie for mayor as his spouse is for her. Hattie's daughter, Myrtle, is, unknown to her mother, engaged to a certain young man wanted by the police and, yes, Hattie's party, who are determined to clean the town of speakeasies and locate the murderer of a girl known as Daisy. [Every little movie has a gangster angle all its own!]

And so on. The above gives you an idea of the story.

As for the acting—you know Marie Dressler and Polly Moran. Never was the famous team in finer fettle. Polly is wild from start to finish, but Miss Dressler has some subdued and tender moments that are delightful. She is a great comedienne and just as great a dramatic actress. Lord, no wonder they love her in Hollywood, the grand old deliverer of goods!

The supporting cast is excellent. Especially laugh provoking is the work of Roscoe Ates who portrays Husband Higgins. Charles Reisner put all he had into the direction and he had considerable. Most of the lines are pat. The action is fast and interest-compelling. There was some difficulty with the sound yesterday, but I imagine that will have been ironed out by now. Unless, of course, the trouble wasn't the sound but cuts ordered by the censors.

See you tomorrow.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 16.—[Special.]—If Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney would like any further income from her noted horse, Twenty Grand, she might explore the possibilities of royalty from his name.

The Universal Film company, apparently wishing to share the magic of a winning name, has fastened the title "Twenty Grand," to a film that will be shortly produced.

COLLEEN MOORE.

Mae Clarke, who has been stepping up the ladder of film renown in recent appearances, will play opposite Pat O'Brien [of "Front Page" fame] in a principal rôle. Slim Summerville, comedy star, has another important rôle. Cyril Gardner, who directed "Royal Family of Broadway," will boss the production. O'Brien, the leading character, played his same rôle, Curly, in the New York stage run of "The Up and Up" from which "Twenty Grand" has been adapted.

No fooling about Universal realising the trade value of a famous victor's name attached to its recent film titles. "Waterloo Bridge" is just finished and "Spirit of Notre Dame" starts next Monday.

Finishing "Palmy Days" with Eddie Cantor at United Artists, Charlotte Greenwood is being hustled to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to play the lady who advertises for a husband through a matrimonial agency with Bert Lahr in "Flying High." Chuck Reisner is to direct it.

Previews of Helen Hayes' first film, "Lullaby," result in acclaim from film insiders being heaped on Miss Hayes, but brickbats on her story, which, strange as it may seem, is partly the work of her husband, Charlie MacArthur, our old time Chicago reporter friend. MacArthur did the continuity and dialogue from the Edward Knoblock play. One reviewer says "Cliff Edwards and Marie Prevost were worked into the picture for comedy relief. They have as much place in the picture as a hangover in church."

Peverell Marley, cameraman, says the budding reconciliation between him and Lina Basquette got frosted and that there will be no impediment against a final decree of divorce replacing the one-year interlocutory decree which Marley secured from the black-haired and changeable actress last year. Miss Basquette has been going places with Al Roscoe, actor.

Home Style Winners, 24 of Them, to See Some Famous Homes

Winners in the National Home Styling contest were announced here yesterday. Twenty-four women and girls were honored in the awards and will be taken on a month's tour of famous homes of the United States during August.

Miss Frances Walker of San Francisco was termed America's foremost home stylist and Mrs. Charles F. Wendling, Pittsfield, Mass., took second place. Third place was given Mrs. W. L. Gillespie of Portland, Ore. Included among the other prize winners were the Kraus sisters, Florence Lee and Juliette, of Mobile, Ala.

Entrants in the contest were required to show, through use of a floor plan arrangement, color schemes and furnishings, their ideal room, appointed correctly from a decorative standpoint. The contest was sponsored by the National Home Furnishings program.

Dr. Butler's appointment was one of the twenty-two announced yesterday by the board of trustees. Thirty-three promotions also were made public.

PREMIER OF GREECE HELPS TO DEDICATE POET BYRON'S SHRINE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 16.—Shrines to the memory of two great English poets, Byron and Keats, were dedicated in England today.

Historic Newstead Abbey, Byron's ancestral home near Nottingham, immortalized in "Don Juan" as Norman Abbey, was handed over to the Nottingham corporation this afternoon by the Greek premier, Elefterio Venizelos, who expressed the deep homage of the remembrance of his nation to the poet who gave his life in defense of its liberties.

Marquess Crewe, the son of Keats' first biographer and editor, tonight opened the museum built in the grounds of Keats' Hampstead home to house the many relics preserved there.

Premier Venizelos this morning placed a wreath on the grave at Hucknall church, where Lord Byron was buried, 107 years ago today. Later, on the green lawns of Newstead Abbey, which was the gift of Sir Julian Cahn, he declared, the name Byron and Greece inseparable forever.

"Modern Greek history is enriched with the magic of the great English poet. Nobody can think of free Greece without thinking at the same time of Byron and his death for the freedom of the Greek people."

Marquess Crewe said he believed Keats' life to be happier than it has been the fashion to suppose. "He surely was happier than his great brethren, Byron and Shelley, for he had a happier nature than either and liked the things that make life pleasant. He liked open air expeditions, liked a glass of claret, liked pure nonsense as sensible people ought, and liked good talk in the choice company of men of intellect."

Weather Again Reminds You of Need for Ice

Calling Attention to Fund to Help Poor.

Ever forget to put the ice card in the kitchen window? Ever come home during midafternoon of a 98 degree day, go to the ice box for a few cool chips for a refreshing drink and find not even a chunk the size of a walnut?

Disappointing, yes, but the oversight always is remedied the next day if not before. Not so down in the ghetto, in the stockyards, in the miles upon miles of tenements pacing the streets that radiate from Chicago's loop. Ice, there, is not even a luxury. It is as rare as though it were worth its weight in gold.

Think of what torment the rattle of an ice wagon down the alleyway must mean to a mother whose baby lies ill in a stuffy back room. Think of the despair that must come to her heart as she realises that there is no money for doctors, no money for ice, no money for the proper food for a tiny child. You mothers whom fortune has smiled upon, what would you do were that your child?

It is the purpose of THE TRIBUNE free ice fund to furnish ice tickets as far as they will go among these underprivileged families. Even a small gift to the fund will help to provide a family with an ice book.

Yesterday one of the most generous gifts that has come in many a day was a $100 check for the ice fund from Mrs. Ogden Armour, who also inclosed another $100 check for the Camp Algonquin fund. Through those two gifts a goodly number of families will receive ice, and ten mothers and children will be given two weeks' vacations at Fox river valley camp, 45 miles northwest of Chicago, which is supported in part by TRIBUNE readers.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR WORK IS LAUDED BY HOOVER IN RADIO TALK

Washington, D. C., July 16.—(AP)—In the midst of complicated international discussions President Hoover today said that "national independence and international understanding are not incompatible."

The chief executive went to the cabinet room to deliver a radio address to the International Christian Endeavor society, which is meeting in San Francisco. At the time he was awaiting a trans-Atlantic telephone call from an American representative in Europe concerning the German financial crisis.

The Christian Endeavor, the President added, stands for international good will and world peace and is a force for righteousness and respect for law in every nation.

Calling attention to the fact that the San Francisco meeting is celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the societies, President Hoover said that from a humble beginning in Portland, Me., in 1881 the movement had become a world force for the promotion of spiritual advancement.

"The fiftieth anniversary of the International Christian Endeavor societies is a notable moment in your history. It is significant not only to you but to the whole nation by reason of your past services and your potentialities for even greater usefulness in the future."

In spite of differences of language, traditions, and custom, the President said, the youth of the world has found in Endeavor societies a common ground for spiritual training and service to their church, community and country.

"It represents," he added, "the most enduring monument to the idealism, insight and organizing genuis of its founder, the late Francis E. Clark."

In behalf of the nation, the President welcomed the delegates from other lands and congratulated the convention "on the achievements of a half century of practical idealism."

San Francisco, Cal., July 16.—(AP)—The convention of the Christian Endeavor society heard President Hoover speak by radio today.

Late today Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the organization, announced the 1933 convention would be held in Milwaukee. He also said that Carlton M. Sherwood of Boston and New York had been chosen general secretary.

Dr. Frederick Fisher of Ann Arbor, Mich., a former Methodist bishop in India, called Gandhi the "Nemesis of war."

Dr. William Shaw of Santa Monica declared "war" against "offensive" motion pictures. He declared: "I serve notice on the promoters and producers of motion pictures that when we have cleaned up the prohibition situation it will be their turn, unless they stop the flood of salaciousness and violence that flows on the movie film through our theaters today."

King George Wears Kilt at Palace Dance

Officers Park Swords; 'Peanut Vendor' Played.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, July 16.—For the first time in seven years music and dancing were heard and seen in Buckingham palace and for the first time in 19 years King George and Queen Mary gave a private dance for 3,000 guests assembled at the London residence of their Britannic majesties tonight. The party was given by the queen because London's debutantes have not had enough fun this season.

The occasion of the royal dance was the arrival of Lady Cambridge from South Africa. The king and queen and younger members of the royal family, led by the prince of Wales, the duke and duchess of York and Lady May, were at the head of a brilliant assemblage made up of the cream of Great Britain's nobility, the entire diplomatic corps, and a host of London society, invited to the first occasion of levity at the palace since the king's illness two and a half years ago.

King George wore the full dress kilted uniform of a colonel of the Black Watch, and Queen Mary was gowned with ivory colored chiffon embroidered with pearls and bedecked with the order of the garter.

Many of those present attended the last state ball in honor of the king and queen of Rumania and the king and queen of Italy in 1924. At 10 o'clock their majesties entered the ballroom, made their way to the dais, and the ball began in a dazzle of gowns, jewels, uniforms under crystal candelabras lighting up the gold and red plush decorations of the state ballroom.

At 11:30 royalty adjourned to the state supper room where refreshments were served on the famous gold plate while others used the throne room and the household dining room.

"God Save the King" was played twice as their majesties entered and as they left after supper. The party carried on until 3 o'clock in the morning.

Gorgeous Scene; "Peanut Vendor."

LONDON, July 16.—(AP)—Against the crimson and gold white background of the great state ballroom dancers moved in a kaleidoscope of color, of resplendent uniforms of scarlet and blue, with glittering medals, orders and gold lace, of floral chiffons, satins and soft silks.

Every woman present wore long white kid gloves and many carried fans, while nearly all wore glittering gems. The older women wore tiaras of precious stones.

U. S. Woman Buys Historic Canning Gem, Paying $50,000

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 16.—The historic Canning jewel, which belonged to the Earl of Harewood, husband of Princess Mary, may find a home in an American museum. It was purchased today at Sotheby's by an antique dealer for an American woman collector, whose name was not ascertainable.

Before the jewel was auctioned it was stated that if no bid higher than $50,000 was received it would be withdrawn. After a short silence that bid was made, followed by more silence. No one bid more, so the hammer fell.

This famous pendant, which is attributed to Benvenuto Cellini, and consists of an enormous barouque pearl surrounded by a profusion of jewels, was given by a Florentine prince to a Mogul emperor of India, in whose treasury it was found during the Indian mutiny. The Indian government took possession and later sold it to Earl Canning, first viceroy of India, from which it eventually became the property of the Harewood family.

Junkin. Bishop Stewart plans to return in time to attend the general convention of the Episcopal church, which opens in Denver Sept. 16. Bishop Stewart has been appointed by the Most Rev. FLOWER OF THORNS

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and suicide of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. A porter's lodge, facing the Dixie highway, gives her the idea of starting a hot dog stand. She arranges with a milkman, who says he is Mr. Forman, foreman of the Winstead dairies, to deliver milk. He is really Samuel Forman Winstead, only son of Henry Winstead, town banker and holder of the Oakleigh mortgage. Sam, well educated and traveled, prefers farming to finance. The Rutherford ladies "didn't know" the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, whose estate adjoined Oakleigh. Sally's milkman helps her get the Shack ready for business. Antiques from Oakleigh are offered for sale. The venture is a huge success. The young set from town patronizes the Shack and Sally meets the handsome and romantic Lowndes Jennings. The interest on the mortgage falls due and Sally receives a receipted bill. Then Sally learns who the milkman is.

INSTALLMENT XI.

AS STRONG AS DEATH.

When the strong old woman who was Caleb Winstead's widow lay a-dying she put in her son Henry's hand the sealed letter left to her care, addressed in Katje's handwriting. "To my son, Sam Winstead: To be opened on his eighteenth birthday." Henry put this letter, together with some favorite, intimate trinkets that had belonged to his wife, in a safety deposit box. On the morning of Sam's eighteenth birthday his father handed him the key and told him to go to the bank and open the box. This letter from a mother so long dead to the son whose growth she could never see seemed so sacred that Henry could never again mention the matter to the boy.

"While I am writing this you are little Sam, a baby, but if ever you should read it you'll be a great tall boy, a dear boy I shall never see or know, for I'll be dust. Although your grandmother scoffs at me, I have a premonition I may not be able to survive the trial before me—hence the message I am moved to leave you, and which you will receive only if my premonition proves true. I may never see you growing up, little son, but I know you will grow more and more like me, for baby as you are I have seen myself mirrored in you. You are Henry's son—and you are me," wrote Katje.

"My message is this: Do not allow anything—anything—to come between you and your father; do not misunderstand him as have most others. His own parents have never understood him, although they love and respect him. Henry appears to be matter of fact, a little commonplace, and stolid even. In reality he is incurably shy and romantic, kind, tender, loyal—capable of beautiful, foolish, generous deeds—and of being rather afraid and ashamed of those deeds, which puzzle and upset him. Because he doesn't realize—my dear funny Henry!—that these same traits most truly express his living spirit.

"Be generous and merciful in your demands, son, for your father's love will be unable to refuse or deny you anything you ask for. He will try to move heaven and earth, if need be, for Katje's son. And he is so helplessly inarticulate, so shy, that I am moved to speak for him from my grave—for I shall be in my grave if ever you read this—for I alone in all the world have ever truly understood him.

"You will be with your grandparents, naturally, after I am gone. They are the salt of the earth, they have ever been kind, and I know they will adore you—but they cannot help you learn to know your father as he really is, for they do not know him as he really is, they do not understand, and this frightens me a little. You will not, must not fail, Henry. Because you are like me I think you will understand why I leave you my love for your father as your heritage from me.

"I pray that you may some day be allowed to make some girl as happy and sure hearted as Henry has made me. I pray God that the girl you love shall love you as I love Henry. This is my message and my prayer for my son from his mother."

Along with the yellowed letter were the few trinkets, a tress of bright hair not yet tanned to smoothness, and a miniature on porcelain that Henry had had painted of his young wife in the first happy year of their marriage. Sam studied the little picture devouringly. His own resemblance to her, which he couldn't fail to see, gave him a poignant sense of intimacy. As she had divined, he understood.

"I put away a miniature of your mother, as well as some trinkets she liked to wear," Henry told his son when he gave him the key to the safety deposit box. "You are like her, as much as a strapping boy can look like a slender girl. You have her hair, her smile, her eyes." He winced, and then Sam saw his father's eyes. Later, when he read his mother's letter, he remembered his father's eyes.

Henry never again mentioned the miniature, or the letter, and almost never spoke of Katje herself. His son knew now that his father winced away from the pain of it. If Henry noticed that the boy showed him a deeper affection, a keener sympathy, an almost fierce loyalty, he said nothing of it. But he responded in his own inarticulate way, a way that was eager to grant any requests, and was—unostentatiously—generous and unselfish. He seemed to hold himself in readiness to serve, to be in eager waiting to do anything and everything his lordly son wished done.

When he saw Sam's chosen venture succeeding Henry was a little astonished. It gave him a secret pang to consider what Sam might have accomplished in the world of finance had he chosen money instead of milk. The one thing that consoled Henry was that Sam was indubitably going to be at the head of one of the great enterprises of the state. Also the boy was home with him, as the Winstead house bore increasing evidence, Sam's taste being everywhere present. Henry found himself living in increasing comfort as Winsteads began to take on more and more the aspect and charm of a model modern bachelor establishment. Left to himself, Henry was austere—life should be useful, not decorative. But Sam had a flair for beauty and comfort, and Henry accepted the changes Sam wrought, and found them satisfying. Sam was in constant social demand, a welcome guest in circles which wouldn't have considered his grandparents, nor even, in times past, his father. Henry had never troubled himself about his lonely status. His life had been filled to overflowing in Katje's time—and after her going increasing business responsibilities occupied him, his personal demands being few and simple. But he was grateful that the situation which had at the outset confronted the Winsteads didn't exist for his son, whom he admired quite as much as he had admired Col. Rutherford.

His resplendent neighbor's suicide had shocked Henry to the heart. That romantic and colorful figure had been the luminary in his boyhood's skies, made all the brighter by contrast with his austere parents.

When the colonel first mortgaged Oakleigh, to a real estate firm which would have foreclosed on the place when his investments failed and he couldn't meet the interest, Henry immediately took over the whole amount when the colonel came to him for help. He most emphatically didn't want the suburban subdivision which the real estate men were planning to put into effect—he preferred the place to remain in the hands of the Rutherfords. Henry discovered then, to his astonishment and regret, the flaw in the brilliant colonel—the man couldn't resist the itching urge to gamble, every now and then, to save his life. Obeying his gambler's instincts, he speculated modestly and at times he won enough to whet his appetite for more. Just as often he lost, which whetted the desire to recoup. He had been able to send his granddaughter to a fashionable school, and on summer trips to Europe, due to a successful deal in wheat. Then he began to lose.

Henry listened and shook his head. But he took over the mortgage, because he didn't want to have the suburban subdivision next to Winsteads.

When the next mortgage was made, Henry realized that he was practically buying Oakleigh—which he didn't want—from a man who had taken the bit between his teeth and was galloping down the road to ruin.

Henry gave him time, never pressed him, but tried his best to restrain him. The end didn't so much surprise as it shocked the banker inexpressibly. He hadn't thought Rutherford would do that! Henry had racked his brains over seeking some nominal solution of the problem, a solution which would enable the colonel to retain Oakleigh—say at a fair rental. His plans were brought to nothing by the colonel's suicide.

But of all this Sally Rutherford knew nothing. It didn't occur to her that Henry might not want Oakleigh, his own estate being larger and finer, or that he might really have been motivated by the desire to oblige and protect her grandfather. Of course he wanted Oakleigh! To gain his ends he had taken cruel advantage of poor grandpapa's guilelessness.

It so happened that, while others of her friends had come in contact with the youngest Winstead, Sally hadn't. She retained but the faintest memory of that one childish meeting when she had haughtily ordered him off Oakleigh. She didn't know him, didn't want to know him.

The disclosure of grandpapa's affairs filled her with fear and anger. Mr. Sinclair tried to tell her something of the truth as he knew it, but the kindly lawyer couldn't find it in his heart to show up his old friend as having been foolish and reckless to the verge of insanity. Let the poor child keep her memory of her kindly grandfather. It was too bad, the lawyer reflected that she should cherish such notions against Winstead—who was a kindly man enough, if one knew him.

Mr. Sinclair wondered dismally how the Oakleigh muddle was going to end. He could see no hope that the Rutherfords could retain it—yet the girl clung to it desperately. It came to Mr. Sinclair that, in some ways, Rupert's granddaughter was very like Rupert himself, and that made the lawyer sigh. Outside of that he rejoiced to think that Sally was doing very well in her venture—very well indeed.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Help for Boy Scout.

"My sixteen year old son is leaving on July 20 for a Scout camp. He needs clothing and equipment which I cannot buy him and I wondered if you could help to secure it for him. I hate to think that he may have to stay at home because he hasn't got what he needs. We would be so grateful for two pairs of stockings, size 10½, a pair of short Scout pants, two Scout shirts, size 14 and a Scout belt.

Mrs. M. H.

This boy may not have the opportunity to go to camp again and it would be a pity if he had to pass it up now for lack of equipment. Isn't there another Scout with some of these articles outgrown or ready to be discarded?

WASHINGTON HOPED MEN WOULDN'T SWEAR, HIS SERGEANT WROTE

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 16.—(AP)—Although some of the soldiers in the continental army might have thought it a mark of genius and military spirits to swear "like a trooper," profanity was frowned on by Gen. Washington and he issued orders against it.

Dr. Randolph G. Adams, librarian of the William L. Clements' library of American history at the University of Michigan, cites an entry in the orderly book kept by Sergt. Bingham, who was Washington's sergeant major when the general had headquarters at West Point in 1779.

The sergeant [the spelling is his] wrote:

"The Gengl. hopes and believes his officers and men will comply with his excelleney's wishes to unite with him to discontinue and banish the odious and sinful practice of swearing so unbecoming a soldier and a Christian. It may be worth while to observe that in the beginning of the war, there were but few of the New England troops that were guilty of this vice, but laterly forgetting the precepts and example of their good education many have from a false pride and ambition looked upon the use of oaths and profain speaches as the mark of genius and military spirits although these very persons have in some instances be laught at and despised by those whose good graces they would gain by imitating their iniplous example. It greatly behoves every one to consider how far his own conduct in every respect may be the cause of this publick calamity and provoke the diety to continue to judments of war."

Boston, Mass., July 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Minerva C. Boyd, of Chicago, regent of the National Circle of the Daughters of Isabella, was nominated for re-election at today's session of the annual convention.

E. F. McDonald Jr. Weds Miss E. I. Riddle at Seminole, Okla.

Seminole, Okla., July 16.—(AP)—Eugene F. McDonald Jr., explorer and yachtsman of Chicago, and Miss Elba Ines Riddle, Oklahoma girl, were married here tonight with a simple ceremony at the bride's home.

Only six persons witnessed the ceremony, in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Taylor Riddle. The couple announced they would go by airplane to Chicago and spend their honeymoon on Mr. McDonald's yacht, the Mispah, cruising in Georgian bay.

The Rev. Ike Armstrong, Methodist minister of Shawnee, where Miss Riddle once lived and played the organ in his church, read the ceremony. Miss Florence McDonald of Syracuse, N. Y., sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, and Irving Herriott, long time friend of Mr. McDonald, was best man.

Hindering Gestures Useless When Beau Decides to Vanish

BY DORIS BLAKE

Julian tells of the boy that walked out on her after two years steady companionship. She has called him up many times, begging to know why he left her, why he stopped loving her, why he doesn't answer her letters to him.

Julian apparently hasn't heard that there is only one way to treat a man whose desire has fled. It is never to remonstrate with him, never to phone him, to write him, to plead with him for an explanation. They are old tactics—but there hasn't been a modern improvement on them offered to date.

Make a man feel uncomfortable over you and he's going to dodge you on every occasion. If he is through in so far as any lingering passing is concerned, the cleaner the break the better for the girl. At least, she acquits herself with dignity. And that is something, regardless of how headstrong she may feel at the moment.

If there is a lingering residue of the old feeling, it's only hope of arousal is not to complain of the man's coldness, not to make tearful requests for explanations, not to precipitate scenes that are unbearable.

When breaks come, and they are common enough occurrences, let the parting hold such dignity, such lack of embarrassment that, should a future meeting arise, the man will not want to take to his heels to avoid meeting you.

Some wise person said that it is better always to "let your relations with men leave memories of seething fury and hatred than to leave memories of embarrassment." That is sophisticated advice—but isn't it true that one recovers more quickly from a "mad" than from an hour in which one was made helplessly uncomfortable?

It makes the discarding still more unbearable each time the thing is brought up again with a telephone call or a note or a plea. At least, a girl can have her pride, or should have her pride, in coping with such situations.

Pursuit of Beauty Permits No Slack Periods for Weary

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I attended a fashion parade the other afternoon and if any misguided dear believes she's going to be able to crowd her "curves" into the geometrical patterns most noticeable in the advanced evening frock showing, she's just going to be heartbroken. Some of the styles would scare you away from eating a spaghetti string for fear it wouldn't remain perpendicular. If in the process of digestion it ever wound itself into a tiny ball—well, you know the rest.

Proving that there ain't never going to be any rest for the wicked eater—not if she wants to look the fashion plate.

Personally, I think there ought to be a closer affiliation between the restaurateur and the dress designer. After all, we've got to live and work in order to live in the style to which we have grown accustomed and we need a hearty meal once in a while. However, I guess it's nothing to write home about, because we do manage to adjust our silhouettes and our minds to bodily conditions existing after the sixteenth birthday. I'm only just warning you, so you won't consume too many quarts of ice cream in the interim.

What I particularly noticed at this show was the way the hair is going to appear under the new fall hats. The Empress Eugenie type of hat particularly—down over one eye, with a wide sweep of hair showing on the other side. And how that hair has to look to keep pace with the stunning chapeau. Rich with gloss and youth it must be, with waves trained to a line corresponding with the sweep of the tres chic hat.

Now, just watch that hair of this summer. Don't let it get out from too much sunning, begin right now to treat it to over the scalp needs to promote look of health and beauty that going to be wishing for termin the fall. It takes a lot of to get dried out scalp and hair ditioned. But there's nothing can do so easily for yourself to business of making the hair glossy, and beautiful.

Sally's Gang Cheers Cubs to Victory Over the Giants

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Well, boys and girls, wasn't that a battle waged on the Wrigley field frontier yesterday afternoon when we assembled at the north side park for our baseball party! Everything was simply perfect. To begin with, and what's most important, after all, the Cubs beat the Giants with a score of 5 to 2 and you never saw such superb baseball or such an exciting game.

Then, while almost every one in the city sweltered we sat in our box seats conveniently situated on the shady side of the park and enjoyed a delicious breeze which rippled continuously from the lake. Before the first inning had gone its way many of my young guests optimistically prophesied, "The Cubs are sure to win, Sally. I know it." And even when the Giants were leading by one run we didn't lose faith, for hadn't we asked Hack Wilson and Gabby Hartnett to do their best for us when they came up out of the dugout to have their pictures taken with us, and we knew they wouldn't fail us.

We don't believe we've ever heard anything to equal the lusty shouts that burst forth from one hundred young throats when in the sixth inning Woody English made a run which tied the score, or when in the same inning our old favorite, Hack Wilson, made another run to add to the steadily mounting figure on the board. Then Rogers Hornsby did his bit to make this sixth inning one of the most exciting we've ever witnessed by making still another run.

We thought these were only a few of the highlights in a perfect afternoon of baseball: Wilson, Hornsby, and Grimm making singles in quick succession in the second inning . . .

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

Printed chiffon was used for this daytime cape model, for chiffon is used in some of the smartest street dresses today. The molded to the bodice effect at the center front and back is generally becoming, while the deep, pointed outline contributes to an effect of slenderness. The skirt, too, has a deep pointed outline at both front and back, giving height to the figure.

The pattern, 3187, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with 1 yard of velvet ribbon for the belt.

Little Wanderer Day Nursery Is 26 Years Old Today

Twenty-six candles will burn on the birthday cake of the Little Wanderer day nursery, 2116 West Chicago avenue, today. The children will celebrate and the board of directors will meet to review the past accomplishments and make plans for a public appeal for $24,000 to carry on the work in the future.

"Since the nursery was founded," Miss Ann Brockett, superintendent, said yesterday, "it has provided 663,000 days of care for children, ranging from babies of of year up to as long as they need us. The daily attendance is about 80 children.

"The parents pay what they can for the care of children at the nursery, although many can pay nothing. A good breakfast of cereal and milk awaits the small visitor when he arrives in the morning. Then he goes to school while his younger brothers and sister play on the nursery floor or in the yard. There is a good meal at noon prepared in the kitchens. The children who do not go back to school take naps in the afternoon and at 4 o'clock have bread, milk, and jam, and splash in the pool."

TWENTY GRAND TO BE ODDS-ON CLASSIC CHOICE

BY FRENCH LANE.

Our own opinion is that he will be at 1 to 1 in the betting. If he wins he will return about $3 for every $2 bet. The entry will pay about that much to place.

McLennan lays 4 to 5.

Other persons at Arlington familiar with the prices which prevail in the mutuel betting on races of this kind in which there is a standout horse like Twenty Grand did not agree with us, nor did they agree with one another.

Joe McLennan, the Arlington racing secretary and at the head of the handicapping in America, thinks Twenty Grand's price in the mutuels will be 4 to 5, or, in other words, will pay $3.60 for a $2 ticket if he wins. Roy Carruthers, general manager of the Arlington course, thinks the great majority of the crowd at Arlington on Classic day will try to pick a horse to beat Twenty Grand. He wouldn't be surprised if the final price on the champion was 2 to 10 or even money.

Harry Williams, one of the veteran racing experts from around New York, thinks 1 to 2 is a good price on Twenty Grand in the Classic. "I think New Yorkers alone will back him with so much money that he won't pay much more than 1 to 5," he said. At 1 to 5 in the mutuels Twenty Grand would return $2.40 for a $2 ticket.

Gets Second Choice.

Second choice in the Classic betting no doubt will be A. C. Bostwick's Mate, the Preakness stakes and the American Derby winner. The price against him will be around 5 to 1. Pomfret Play, the Latonia Derby winner with a big Chicago following, is also sure to rule as the third choice. Not even as the third choice he is likely to be at around 10 to 1. Joey Ish possibly will be the fourth choice at 15 to 1. As for Sun Meadow, Sir Abbey, and Epithet, any price may prevail. Some of them are likely to be at 100 to 1 or more.

The Classic candidates put in a fairly busy day of it at Arlington yesterday. Mynheer, which ran a smashing race at Arlington last week, loomed up as a possible starter, and as he never indicated he might go to the post it caused quite a scramble for jockeys.

Robertson has signed to ride Mynheer for W. R. Caskey Jr. If Mynheer doesn't start, Robertson has agreed to be in the saddle on Mate. So in the event that Mynheer goes to the post, A. C. Bostwick, Mate's owner, signed up Sonny Workman to ride Mate over the rich Classic journey.

Twenty Grand Rises Early.

Twenty Gra..... was up bright and early at the stable of Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney yesterday morning. He showed no ill effects from his last Classic drill, which took place late Wednesday afternoon. "He's the finest horse I've ever seen," his trainer, Jimmy Rowe, told a group of friends yesterday.

"There's nothing temperamental about him except that he objects to being decorated with a big bouquet of flowers after he wins a great race. He never makes a false move whether it is on the race track, in his training work or while loafing around his stall. I'm thoroughly satisfied with his condition. I'll be the most surprised man in the world if he doesn't run a great race in the Classic."

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

If this thing continues John McGraw, the so-called master mind, will want to cut Chicago from his itinerary. The Cubs defeated his Giants for the third consecutive time yesterday, 5 to 2. To make the jolt doubly annoying the Chicagoans evicted their old rivals from second place. However, the Bruins still are six games behind the Cardinals, which is the team they want to catch.

The pleasure of making the year's record against the Giants seven triumphs against five defeats fell to Charley Root who, once he squared away, made certain that nothing would happen to prevent his ninth victory of the season. Root, however, didn't bask in the spotlight without company. He had to share some of the rays with Hack Wilson and Rogers Hornsby, both ex-Giant employes, who used their bats to convince their old boss they haven't retired from business.

Giants Evince Nervousness.

The Giants, as in the two previous games, gave evidence that they are without peace of mind, possibly because of some tart language from Mr. McGraw. Leach dropped a ball as he was about to throw it. Jackson let a grounder outsmart him. Clarence Mitchell, the 42 year old left hand spitballer, let loose with a wild pitch. All these items assisted the Cubs in their scoring. In the main, however, the base hit was prominent, particularly in the sixth when the Cubs sneaked up from behind and scored three runs to clinch the decision for Root.

Root encountered most of his woes in the early innings. He was frisked for a run in the second and in the fourth he was almost on the ropes, but escaped with only one hostile scoring. After that he really pitched. In the four succeeding innings he handled himself perfectly, except for one hit in the sixth and a base on balls in the eighth. Then in the ninth, with two out, Verges and Pinch Batter Leslie helped themselves to singles, but Happy Hogan filed out in place of the pitcher and the 17,000 spectators called it a day.

Giants Score Early.

Bob Smith, with his left thumb still a bit sore as the result of a cracked bone, will face the Giants in the final today. Fitzsimmons or Berly will pitch for McGraw.

The first two hits off Root became a Giant run in the second. Terry led

TRAFFIC PLANS COMPLETED FOR $90,000 RACE

Plans went forward yesterday to handle what many believe will be the largest crowd ever to assemble at a Chicago race track at Arlington Park tomorrow for the running of the $90,000 Classic, in which the 3 year old champion, Twenty Grand, will take part.

The North Western railroad, which will carry a big part of the crowd to and from the loop, has scheduled 21 special trains to leave the North Western station at short intervals from 12:10 until 1:35 p. m. It will be prepared to operate extra special trains if the travel to the track demands it. The Classic day crowd was handled a year ago on 21 special race trains and about a dozen regular trains which stop at the track, but there are indications the attendance will be greater tomorrow than it was a year ago when Gallant Fox beat Gallant Knight by a nose.

Classic Scheduled at 4 P. M.

The Classic will be run as the fourth race at about 4 o'clock, and some of the North Western specials will begin the return trip to the loop about 20 minutes later.

Officials of the Arlington Park Jockey club, anxious to avoid as much early traffic congestion as possible, announced yesterday the gates of the jockey club grounds will be thrown open early tomorrow morning.

"Hundreds of persons have notified us they will arrive early for picnic parties on our lawns and grounds during the morning," Roy Carruthers, general manager of the Arlington Park course, said last night.

Various motor coach companies have arranged to operate large fleets of buses to the track on Classic day.

Best Auto Route.

The best automobile route is north from the loop on any through street to Dempster street, then west on Dempster street to the Northwest highway, and west on the Northwest highway to Arlington Park. Dempster street has been opened to through traffic within the last few days.

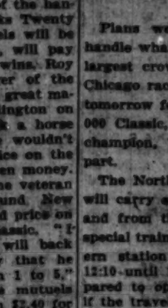
Every reserved box seat in the clubhouse and grandstand has been sold for three days. However, there are thousands of advantageous seats in the huge grandstand and clubhouse sections which will go to those who arrive earliest tomorrow morning.

There is room for the parking of about 4,000 automobiles inside the Arlington racing grounds. About 4,000 additional cars can be parked alongside the roads and streets approaching the track. It was planned to handle 12,000 automobiles in these parking spaces and it was expected they would carry about 30,000 people to the Classic.

Weather Man's Trick and Senators Beat Sox, 5 to 4

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 16.—And now the weather man has gone against the poor White Sox. This afternoon he snatched away what seemed to be the most stirring Sox victory of the season by not keeping his rain turned on after he had caused an hour and a quarter delay when the Sox were ahead of the Washington Senators, 3 to 2.



SMEAD JOLLEY.

The rain let up and the Sox made it 4 to 2 in the eighth, but the Senators cut loose on Tommy Thomas and Pat Caraway with one out in the ninth. There were five hits in a row, three of them by pinch batters, and the Senators were victors, 5 to 4.

After which it started raining again and the second game of a scheduled double header was called off.

Since we were all set to write a piece about Big Smead Jolley when it appeared the umpires would be forced to end the game in the seventh, we have decided that a little thing like rain and a more or less typical White Sox pitching collapse can't keep us from busting out with what we had planned to say.

Jolley Hits Homer.

The score was 2 to 1 against the Sox going into the seventh. Storm clouds were gathering fast and it was doubtful if an inning could be completed. Kerr was out, but Appling doubled to center. Jolley was called forth to do his first batting in almost two months. Smead knocked two fouls and then took a ball. The next one was a fast one and Mr. Jolley caught it a foot from the end of his bat. Away went the ball on a trip over the far distant right field fence, and the Sox were leading, 3 to 2, as the rain began to pour.

Umpire Ormsby didn't want to call the game after the first half of the seventh because the Sox would have been deprived of the two runs due to the Jolley homer. So he ordered the players to proceed. The Sox got the Senators out in the midst of the downpour. Ormsby halted the game and the long delay ensued.

All at once the skies cleared and roustabouts swarmed on the field to lift the soaked tarpaulin. Men came with wheelbarrows filled with dry dirt. Even Nick Altrock and the hot dog men were pressed into wheelbarrow service.

The Sox were the first to bat in the eighth. Reynolds singled with one out and went to second when Fonseca caught Cronin in a mud hole for a single. Simons batted one to Kuhel and as he threw toward second he slipped and made a wild toss, Reynolds scoring.

Bluege Starts It.

In the last of the ninth, Kuhel was thrown out by Cissell but Bluege bounced a single off Cissell's bosom. Pinch Batter H. Rice singled to right, Bluege stopping at second. Thomas gave way to Caraway following a middiamond conference with Manager Bush. Caraway came in and was a pushover for Pinch Batters Pinky Hargrave and Joe Judge, both of whom singled. He was likewise soft for Sammy West, who cracked out the single that drove in the winning run.

BOYS HATE JACK SO MUCH THEY'LL FAVOR MICKEY

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 16.—It may be the heat and it may be the humidity, but more likely all this excitement about Mickey Walker's new found youth is nothing but heat for his impending prize fight with Jack Sharkey on the night of July 22.

For the benefit of Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard and any other red hot prize fight fans who may not know what heat is in this usage of the word, I will explain that heat is ballyhoo. If Dr. Lowell of Harvard does not know what ballyhoo is, then Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale can tell him. He can also tell him how it is made.

This prize fight between Sharkey and Walker needs heat because Sharkey is the best American heavyweight just now, with 196 pounds of live, useful meat on him, and Walker is only a middleweight, slightly blown up. Mickey probably weighs no more than 165 pounds and he has been fighting in the ring 14 years. Moreover, during the last four or five years Mickey has been a member of the night side, so, for one thing, there isn't enough of him and, for another thing, what there is of him isn't as good as it would have been if he had always gone to bed at 9 p. m.

Everybody Likes Little Mick.

The people like Walker, though, because he has always been a game, reckless character, not only in the ring, but out of it. When his wife divorced him because he didn't come home one year, he tossed her all the money he had, says he, saving nothing for himself, when he knew his best fighting and earning days were behind him.

In a fight he has always been willing to take a sporting chance with the party of the second part, partly because he is too proud to cover and clutch and partly because he likes the customers to think well of him. All fighters, whether they admit it or not, like the customers to think well of them, but some of them often refuse to give a good show and they get sore at the customers for getting sore.

Between Mickey Walker and the customers there has always been mutual good will.

Against Harry Greb and Dave Shade he fought two of the most delightful slaughters in the current era of prize fighting in New York. One night in Chicago, he and Ace Hudkins went ten rounds in a bad storm of rain at the White Sox ball yard, fighting on a slightly concave ring which held water almost ankle deep.

The Boys Fought Pretty Well.

They used hatchets and ball bats all the way and by the end of round three both artists looked as though

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

They say that hope beats eternal in the human breast. Perhaps that is why thousands of Chicago baseball fans are ready to give you an argument when you count the Cubs out of championship consideration.

JESS HAINES.

What a race in that old National league! Only seven games separate the first and fourth place clubs, and the pennant drive is more than half over. To make things still hotter the same four clubs that battled it out for the 1930 flag are at it again. That means continuation of old rivalries with old scores to settle.

The Cubs this morning are in second place, six games behind the leading Cardinals. Ordinarily a position that far behind the pace makers would mean elimination from the race. But it hasn't worked out that way in recent National league seasons.

Brooklyn	49	31	.613
Chicago	48	36	.571
New York	43	39	.531
St. Louis	41	38	.519

The Cardinals, who eventually won the championship by a margin of two games, were in relatively worse position than the Cubs are this morning. They were seven and a half games behind the first place team whereas the Cubs now trail by six games. The last half of the 1930 campaign juggled the standings until they read as follows at the end of the season:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	92	62	.597
Chicago	90	64	.584
New York	87	67	.565
Brooklyn	86	68	.558

The Cardinals have been out in front practically all season. They have held their position in the face of injuries that would have disheartened a less courageous group. At various times they have been without the services of Haines, who is the best pitcher on the club, with the possible exception of Grimes; and Hafey, Gelbert, Frisch and Flowers. Not long ago three infielders, Frisch, Flowers and Gelbert, were out of competition simultaneously. None of the title contenders has been more seriously handicapped.

If you insist further on getting out the black plush drapes, you might take another look at today's standings. They will reveal that the Cardinals have played more games than their three championship rivals. Their win column shows eight more victories than the Cubs, ten more than the Giants and eight more than the Robins.

Suppose the Cardinals should remain idle until the Cubs catch up with them in the number of games played. Suppose further that the Cubs should win all those games. They would still be four and a half games out of first place.

Jack Sharkey, the man with a genius for doing the wrong thing, is on the spot again. On Wednesday night in New York he fights Mickey Walker, an overgrown middleweight, for the right to demand a return bout with Champion Schmeling.

It was four years ago this month that Sharkey fought Jack Dempsey. He would have earned a match with Tunney if he had not made the mistake of stopping to talk things over with the referee while Dempsey was firing away. Dempsey not long ago told me that Sharkey could have whipped him that night if he had possessed a champion's heart. He became discouraged when his hardest blows failed to slow Dempsey's attack.

Sharkey later won a clinching match from Stribling at Miami that added nothing to the prestige of either fighter. About the time the fans were convinced that Sharkey was not championship timber he came back with a knockout victory over Tommy Loughran. He held the ground he had gained by stopping Phil Scott in a ludicrous bout at Miami the following winter. You perhaps recall that Scott dropped to the floor claiming he had been fouled. The referee ordered him to get up and continue, but he decided to retire for the evening about the middle of the third round.

Sharkey then got the greatest opportunity of his career. The New York commission and the National Boxing association nominated him to meet Max Schmeling for the crown vacated by Tunney. For nearly four rounds he gave Herr Max a thorough thrashing. Then he made the mistake of hitting out of bounds and the title was handed to Schmeling.

LEHMAN REACHES SEMI-FINAL IN WESTERN GOLF

Portland, Ore., July 16.—(AP)—The defending champion, Johnny Lehman, Chicago; Dr. O. F. Willing, Don Moe and Malcolm MacNaughton, all of Portland, today advanced to the semi-finals of the western amateur golf tournament.

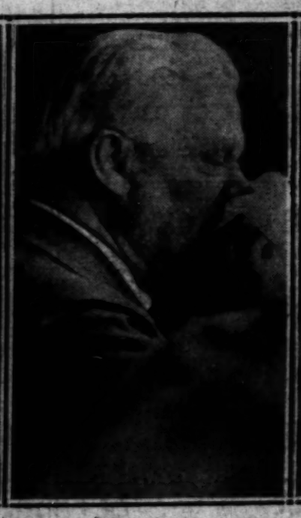
In the 36 hole quarter finals today Lehman defeated Harold Thompson, Glendale, Cal., 6 and 5; Moe conquered Fay Coleman, Los Angeles, 7 and 6; Willing downed Jack Gaines, Glendale, 4 and 2, and MacNaughton beat Rudie Wilhelm, Portland, 5 and 4.

Lehman will play Moe and Willing will meet MacNaughton in the semi-finals tomorrow.

THE CAMERA TELLS A FEW INTIMATE ANECDOTES ABOUT THE DAY'S SPORTS

Mate's all ready to go in the $90,000 Arlington Classic tomorrow. Here the Preakness and American Derby winner is leaving the track after his workout of yesterday. His owner, A. C. Bostwick, is on the horse in front of him.

"It's not so much the heat as the stupidity," John J. McGraw (right) seems to mean as he watches the Giants help the Cubs along with misplays. With McGraw is Tony Mullane, a former big league pitcher.



Mr. McGraw brings his handkerchief into play, but whether it's a cold or sorrow of defeat the photographer doesn't say.

Telling him how it's done in the big show. Manager Rogers Hornsby talks things over with Vincent Barton, the latest addition to the Cubs, in the Bruins' dugout. Barton, an outfielder who showed promise in spring training, was recalled from Los Angeles to bolster up the Cubs' ageing outer guard.

While all the championships are being handed out at Arlington park some sort of a prize should go to Knight Commander, 3 year old son of Whiskaway-Ruth Ware, which races in the purple and white jacket of Jim Norris Jr. of Chicago.

The consistency championship probably should be awarded Knight Commander, for he made his fourth start of the Arlington season yesterday and came rolling down the stretch with a drive which conquered Dark Sea and gave Knight Commander his fourth straight triumph. He ran a sensational race, turning the mile in 1:35 4-5. There's been but one faster mile run at Arlington. Lady Broadcast did that a year ago and her track record is 1:35 3-5.

When Knight Commander not many weeks ago was running in rather ordinary selling races hardly anybody believed he would ever turn such a mile. Nor did they think he could beat horses like he has been trimming at Arlington ever since the season opened.

Dark Sea Takes Lead.

His three earlier victories were scored in somewhat easy fashion, but not his triumph in the Montana purse yesterday. Dark Sea outran him all through the early stages of the journey and was still leading him half way down the stretch.

Then Jockey Chiavetta began driving Knight Commander, and the Nerin horse soon poked his nose in front. He kept it there until they had raced past the line of finish. Nostaw was third, but didn't have a chance with the two leaders. In the mutuels Knight Commander mustered a big following which backed him so stoutly he was the favorite. He paid $4.54 for a two dollar ticket.

Another fine looking 3 year old from the stable of Mrs. John Hertz was uncovered in the juvenile event, which opened yesterday's program, in French Duchess, a daughter of Epinard-Grey Duchess, which was making the first start of her career.

French Duchess Gets Decision.

She showed fine early speed and jumped into the lead a furlong after the battle started. She wheeled into the stretch with a comfortable margin, but a half furlong out All Rowes and Westys Queen rushed up past her. The daughter of Epinard was game and she came again to get the decision by a head in a thrilling finish.

Eastern victories came in the two other best races on the program. Stostera, owned by Johnny Scherr, beat Newgro by an inch in the Lake county purse, which engaged some of the best two year old colts here. There was a plunge on Espinaca, a stablemate of Twenty Grand in Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney's stable, but he went the way of many other eastern favorites here and finished out of the money, running a very bad race.

Mrs. Whitney's pink and black jacket was carried to victory in the Moline purse by the 3 year old filly, Robin's Egg. She wooed the easiest victory of the day by five lengths from the Kentucky filly, Weideleen, with Michigan Girl showing some of her old time speed by getting third money. Robin's Egg was another heavily backed choice at $4.74 in the two dollar market.

Bucking Tarpon Provide Thrills in Deep Sea Rodeo

BY BOB BECKER.

Rodeos with bucking horses and daredevil bulldoggers who wrestle steers are well known features on the recreational programs of western states, but it has remained for the south to take this kind of sport carnival and apply it to salt water and a free for all test of the fisherman's skill. The result is Alabama's annual Deep Sea Rodeo, which this year is scheduled for Aug. 17, 18 and 19. This is one of the most novel fishing contests held on the continent and draws competing anglers from more than 15 states.

The annual fishing event, which has developed into this salt water rodeo in Alabama, started in 1929. The tarpon is the big prize of the rodeo. The migration of tarpon, one of the most spectacular leaping fishes in salt water and a bruiser of a fighter, swings northward along the gulf coast every summer and brings thousands of these magnificent game fish close to the shores of Alabama.

Handsome trophies are put up for this rodeo. Although the most emphasis is placed on tarpon fishing, there also are prizes for large catches of other game fish, first tarpon landed, queer fish hooked, the smallest fish brought in [any species], big fish, and the best fishing story. The sky is the limit on the latter. The best liar wins!

Inasmuch as the fishing waters abound in tarpon, black fish, red fish or channel bass, sea trout, mackerel, and other species, the competing angler has a chance to bring in an interesting mixed bag. The rod and line work is done off Danube Island, at the mouth of Mobile bay.

Grayson Here to Serve as Race Steward

Admiral Cary T. Grayson arrived from Washington yesterday and will serve as an honorary steward during the last ten days of the Arlington season. He will be a contributor of nine yearlings to the thoroughbred sale which will be held in the Arlington paddock tomorrow.

Paul Waggoner of the Three D's Stock farm Waggoners of Texas has arrived for the Classic. He is sorry Canfil, the Arlington Oaks winner, was not nominated for the Classic. Trainer Dick Vestal has developed Canfil into one of the best 3 year olds of the year.

Jockey T. Malley is coming from New York to ride Sir Ashley in the Classic. He is under contract to William Woodward's Belair Stud stable and is one of the best young lightweight riders in the country.

Clockers are of the opinion that H. Teller Archibald may have one of the best 2 year olds at Arlington in Westy's Junior, a son of Westy Hogan. The colt excited the clockers yesterday morning when he worked six furlongs handily in 1:12 3-5. He is being pointed for the Post and Paddock Stakes.

C. W. Hay, general manager of the Washington Park track, arrived from his Scotland farm in Kentucky. He had hoped to send his Scotland's Glory to the post in the Classic, but decided the colt wasn't quite up to such a gruelling test.

John Hertz received a message during the afternoon that Herbert Bayard Swope and a large party of friends from New York will arrive from the east this morning to remain until after the running of the Classic.

Definite word was received at Arlington yesterday that James Butler's brilliant handicap horse, Questionnaire, will be shipped from New York to Arlington Park on Sunday to fill his engagements in the Arlington Cup and Arlington Handicap events.

James Simpson Jr. seems to have sold the horse Gormond too soon. Since Mr. Simpson disposed of him the 7 year old son of Negofol has won three races on the flat at Arlington.

I. W. A. C. PUTS ITS BEST SWIMMERS IN TRIBUNE MEET

Coach Praises Races as Boon to Sport.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Illinois Women's Athletic club, a leader in all sports in which girls compete, will have a score of its best swimmers in THE TRIBUNE 100 yard swimming championships which will be decided on July 26 in the Lincoln park lagoon. Mrs. Lillian Reilly, swimming coach, is enthusiastic in her support of the meet, particularly because it encourages swimming for novices.

"While our club hopes to make a splendid showing in the races, we welcome THE TRIBUNE meet because it encourages all boys and girls to compete," she said. "Last year only a few of the 900 swimmers ever had entered such competition before, and the same must be true this year. An event of this kind stimulates interest in competitive swimming."

Designed to Develop Swimmers.

Each contestant who reports at the Lincoln park lagoon and completes the 100 yard test on July 26 will receive a merit badge for that achievement. While ten champions will be determined, that is not the all important feature of the tournament. Rather, the meet is intended to provide a competitive test over a 100 yard championship course. It seeks to replace inactivity on the beach with actual participation in the water.

Many of the contestants have no hope of winning a championship. But all may earn a merit badge emblematic of their ability to swim 100 yards.

Only four days remain in which to enter the races. Any boy or girl 11 years old or over is eligible. There are five age divisions. The divisions insure that none will be outclassed because of physical strength.

Sanctioned by A. A. U.

No check is made at the time of entry concerning honesty of the record of age. However, all winners of championships and the second and third place medals will be subject to investigation if there is cause for belief that the age is incorrect. The meet is sanctioned by the Central association of the Amateur Athletic union and all contestants 16 years of age and over must be registered with the A. A. U. The registration fee of $1 cents may be forwarded in advance to Roy E. Davis, 536 South Clark street, or it may be paid to A. A. U. representatives on the day of the meet.

The preliminaries will start at 1:30 o'clock. All contestants must report to the Lincoln Park Boat club between 10 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. for their numbers. No numbers will be given out later than 12:30, as the starter will be busy arranging the boys and girls in heats.

Runs at Home If Possible.

The names of all contestants and their numbers will be printed in THE TRIBUNE on Sunday morning, July 26, and in the programs which will be distributed at the Boat club. Cloth numbers and safety pins, each number designating the class, will be ready.

Dressing quarters will be available at the boat club and at Diversey beach. However, as many of the swimmers as can are urged to come in bathing suits. This will relieve the congestion and will aid those who find they must dress at the lagoon.

The Boys Will Favor Walker Over Sharkey

they had been run over by something heavy. But they paddled around the pool, kicking up little feathers of pink spray for thirty minutes and when it was over, a lady in a clammy costume, who had just witnessed her first prize fight, remarked that it had been like watching a major operation done with a boat oar.

So Mickey's exhibitions must be described as indelicate and the fact that he has been for some years one of the customers' favoritest prize fighters shows just how far popular civilization has progressed.

Undoubtedly, the customers would rather see Mickey knock out Sharkey than vice versa and, naturally, in promoting the prizefight, the shrewd thing to do is keep on suggesting this remote possibility until, by force of reiteration, it becomes a live, tingling hope. Often times, at a horse track, a party will bet more or less money on some poor weary steed at odds of 50 to 1 or some such figure and, just by wishing alone, will develop a beautiful picture of that horse winning the race by the time they go to the post. Then the horse jumps a few yards and sits down to bat a whisker of hay out of his ear with a hind foot and finishes nowhere at all, but the customer has had the fun of hoping, anyway.

Dream a Lil' Dream for Me!

People without imagination may be spared some of the terrors of fear, but they also miss certain delightful pleasures. Many a horse better, riding out to the track on the train with a few moist bills in his pants pocket, has closed his eyes and dreamt himself a four-horse parlay, composed entirely of long shots and a rapturous half-hour of wealth and splendor.

Two bucks at 50 to 1, for a starter, is $102; right back at 20 to 1, is $2,160; right back again at 20 to 1 is $45,360, and back again at a modest 10 is——

Everybody out! Arlington Park!

They ought to build the horse tracks farther out from town so the boys could dream a little longer.

The reason why people would enjoy seeing Sharkey lose, aside from the natural sympathy for the little party in a fight, is that he has fought a number of extremely punk fights for them when they had been led to expect the utmost ferocity. The first time he fought a punk fight, the commission held up his money, but Sharkey went right down to see the boys and said, "Of course it was a punk fight; I'm just a punk fighter."

This so startled the commissioners that they said, "Pick up the money, you win."

It's a Queer Hate, Mates.

But then he fought punk fights with Tom Heeney and old Myer Christner and another punk one with Willie Stribling and followed these with two fouls, against Fainting Philip Scott and Max Schmeling. In the meantime there had been an act with Jack Delaney which, to this day, is cited as one of the most daring mockeries ever perpetrated, so, taking him as they have found him, the customers don't like Sharkey, and, in the curious manner of prizefight customers in punishing people they don't like, they have been paying him hundreds of thousands of dollars. If Pussyfoot Johnson, the prohibition magnate, had been a prize fighter, the New York customers would have made him one of the richest men in the history of the ring.

In the last year or so, Sharkey has become one of the great misunderstood, with a following of devoted interpreters who become upset when people speak or write of him as he seems to be, unaware of the true sympathy, gentleness and beauty of that deep soul of his. He is a good husband and father and lives in a beautiful home near Boston and therefore everybody ought to forgive and forget when he turns in a $10 fight for a purse of $100,000 or so.

Jack Getting no Better Fast.

This is one occasion when the customers will thank him for one of his punk fights for if he is punk enough Walker will win and the spectacle of Sharkey losing to a man 30 pounds lighter will be viewed with vengeful joy.

Whether he wins or loses he will never be the champion how because he scared Max Schmeling away last year and by the time they meet again, Schmeling will be as good as Tunney was and Sharkey will be as bad as Dempsey when they fought in Philadelphia. Schmeling is coming on but Sharkey is as good as he ever will be.

Esposito's 151 Captures Seventh Annual Stampede

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

A blistering sun failed to halt a herd of 100 players who charged over the fairways of the Illinois Golf club during its seventh annual Stampede yesterday. And the least daunted of them all was Long Joshua d'Esposito Jr. of the home club, who came in with a 36 hole gross score of 151.

Josh, who was graduated from Loyola university recently, is 6 feet 6 inches tall. The makeup of his 151 were a par 71 in the morning and an 80 in the afternoon round.

That morning performance included an eagle 3 on the 475 yard tenth, achieved with a second shot which dropped six feet from the pin. He was over par on the first, his second shot lacking carry, but he came back on the next hole and dropped an easy putt for a birdie 4.

Hon Is Second.

His drive to the fourth was out of bounds, but he immediately redeemed that with a 12 foot putt for another birdie on the fifth. After his eagle on the tenth, he was over par only twice, on the eleventh and thirteenth.

Par—Out	435	434	443—36
D'Esposito—Out	545	334	443—36
Par—In	534	443	444—35—71
D'Esposito—In	544	543	444—35—79

Martin Hon of Illinois had the next best score, shooting a 77 and an 81 for a 36 hole gross of 158. Richard Woolf of North Shore won low net honors with a card of 177—33—144. Charles Fink of River Forest was second with 194—50—144.

D'Esposito's 71 was naturally the best low gross of the morning round, but because he took the Stampede honors the prize was awarded to Dick Gambrill of Illinois, who shot a 74. Elmer Rich of Bob o' Link won the post-luncheon gross with a 78. The best net rounds were turned in by J. L. Nau of Illinois with 80—11—69 in the morning, and C. N. Burghart of Knollwood with 85—14—71 in the afternoon.

Fessler's Perseverance Rewarded.

C. M. Nichols of Illinois and Al Brett of Calumet tied for the best scores on the course's short holes, the 5th, 9th, 11th, and 15th, each traversing the quartet in 25 strokes.

The winning low gross foursome was composed of Dick Gambrill, H. L. Watrous, Dr. E. H. Raidel, winner of last year's Stampede, and J. J. Rink, all of Illinois. They had a total of 655. F. M. Simonds and E. J. Kavanagh of Illinois, Tom Holstein, unattached, and Fink had the best net total of 607. F. A. Fessler of Crystal Lake refused to quit, and for his perseverance in shooting a high gross of 240 was awarded a prize.

J. L. Nau, Illinois	165	22	143
Charley Fink, River Forest	194	50	144
R. Woolf, North Shore	177	33	144

PANTALEO SHOWS GOOD PUNCH FOR GRIFFITH BOUT

Although Tuffy Griffith is rated a favorite over Paul Pantaleo, the odds may be even when the pair meet in a ten round fight at White City Monday night for Promoter Mique Malloy.

Pantaleo, in his workouts with Harry Loach the last few days, has shown good form. His right hand is finding the mark frequently against Loach, who is a smart boxer and hard puncher. Although Griffith has been training steadily for the last ten days, his layoff for several months previous may keep him from being on edge and his punches may lack precision. These suppositions are used by Pantaleo enthusiasts to bolster their hopes that the south side Italian may spring an upset in beating Griffith.

The boxers on the supporting card are rounding into shape. Edgar Norman and Gary Leach are paired for eight rounds. Jerry Crane is to battle Jack Moran in a six rounder. Pat McLaughlin and Joe Corbett, heavyweights, meet for six rounds, as do Dick Sisk and Tony Saunders. Buck Everett fights Marion Matussak.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: In 1868 the Unions of Morrisinia, near New York City, came to Chicago to play the Excelsiors on their home grounds at 22d and State for the championship of the two cities. The Unions won easily, as they had a curve pitcher whom the Excelsiors could not master. Later, Zettlein, Chicago pitcher, learned to throw curves.

But I claim to have pitched the first curve ball in Chicago. I had begun to use it in Brooklyn and Chicago in 1866, and in 1867 had it under good control. That year I organized the Orioles from among the boys along State street, running from "Archey" road to 22d. We were from 13 to 16 years old with me captain and pitcher. In 1868 we defeated many local teams and won the boys' championship after a hectic game with the Cottage Groves.

Shortly afterward there was a game for the city industrial championship on Excelsior field. As I was helping my father, who was a contractor at Herring's safe factory, I was allowed to join the team as a pitcher, then 13 years old, short but thickset.

Before a large crowd we blanked the opposing Bouton Foundries for four innings, during which 11 struck out and two were retired at first. The Boutons protested I was using an unfair delivery, but the umpire, from New York, ruled against them. Then I stopped a sizzling grounder with my left hand, threw out the runner at first, but split my knuckle. A doctor on the ground stopped the bleeding and I went to right field. The Herring Safes won. While my hand was getting well I taught a number of grown-up pitchers the curve ball delivery.—George A. Brennan.

Here is an ordinance passed by the Chicago common council April 2, 1853: "That any owner of any horse, swine, goat, or geese, or any such animals, who shall permit the same to run at large, within the limits of the city, shall for each offense forfeit and pay a penalty of three dollars; Provided, That this ordinance shall not be construed as to prohibit the running at large of horses south of Van Buren street, west of the Fisinia street, and north of Chicago avenue, and, provided further, That cattle shall not be permitted to run at large in the south division, north of Van Buren street."—Ben W. Alpiner.

Cubs Defeat Giants, 5-2; Take Second off with a single to center and Hemsley immediately committed a passed ball, on which Terry went to second. Ott singled to left. Good judgment should have induced Terry to stop at third, but he preferred to take a chance, and luck was with him. Wilson made a terrible throw in, and no play was possible at the plate. A double play and a fly to center made up the remainder of the inning.

Hack, Hornsby, and Grimm schemed to retrieve the run in the Cubs' half of the second. Wilson started the inning with a single to right and, after one futile attempt to bunt, Hornsby sent a single to left. Taylor tried to sacrifice, but popped to Mitchell. Grimm shot a hit into center, scoring Hack. Thereafter both Hemsley and Root struck out.

Double Play Stops Rally.

The manner in which the Giants started the fourth indicated numerous runs, but a double play managed to keep the result down to one tally. Fullis beat out a single to deep short and dashed for third on Terry's hit to center. He scored on Ott's single to right. A base on balls to Jackson filled the bases with none out. Verges bounced to Hornsby, who pegged to the plate to force Terry. Hemsley then shot the ball to Grimm to kill off the hitter. English picked up O'Farrell's grounder for the third out.

After the second inning the Cubs didn't have a real opportunity until the sixth. They lost no time getting on the job here and collected three runs. A pass to English began the foray. Cuyler's bunt moved him to second. Hack hit Mitchell's first pitch into center for a single, scoring English. Mitchell slipped over two strikes on Hornsby but on the next pitch Rogers poked a two base hit down the left field line, scoring Wilson. Leach fumbled the ball long enough to let Hornsby go to third. Mitchell then helped him home with a wild pitch. Later in the inning Grimm doubled, but nothing came of it.

Jackson's Error Costly.

Jackson mussed up Root's grounder to open the seventh inning and the Cubs converted this into a run, making the score, 5 to 2. Jurges' bunt sent Root to second, from whence he scored when English arched a single into left. Cuyler produced a hit to right and when Wilson's fly was caught in deep center English dashed to third. Cuyler wanted to steal, but Mitchell trapped him off first base. The upshot of all this was the extermination of English between third and home.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Commerce

FRIDAY, JULY 17, 1931.

L. J. ROSENWALD IN LINE TO HEAD MAIL ORDER CO.

Now Vice Chairman of Sears Board.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The son of another of Chicago's business pioneers is in line to succeed his father as head of a great company. Lessing J. Rosenwald, son of Julius Rosenwald, yesterday was elected vice chairman of the board of directors and chairman of the executive committee of Sears, Roebuck & Co., the $234,000,000 mail order and chain store concern.

LESSING J. ROSENWALD.

According to La Salle street's view of the announcement, Lessing Rosenwald is destined to be the active head of the big corporation. His father will continue as chairman of the board, but he has been in ill health for some time, although reported to be improving recently. But the younger Rosenwald will have as colleagues on the executive committee such able executives as Gen. R. E. Wood, president of the company; D. M. Nelson, vice president in charge of merchandise; E. J. Pollock, vice president and controller, and T. J. Carney, vice president in charge of operations.

Learns Trade from Bottom.

Lessing Rosenwald's promotion marks another step in learning the business from the bottom. He is 40 years old, having been born in Chicago in February, 1891. Upon graduation from Cornell university, he joined Sears, Roebuck & Co. in a minor capacity. Then in 1920 he was appointed manager of the Philadelphia plant and in 1928 he was elected a vice president.

BROKERS' LOANS DROP

With the sagging tendency of the stock market in the last week, the volume of credit devoted to speculation again shrunk to almost the low level established last month. The weekly report of the federal reserve board shows brokers' loans now total $1,430,000,000, marking a decline of $25,000,000 in the last week and also a drop of $1,813,000,000 from a year ago, when the total was $3,243,000,000.

It would appear that banks still hold a plethora of funds, for the interior banks increased their loans to brokers by $15,000,000 in spite of the 1½ per cent call money rate. On the other hand, the New York banks reduced their own loans by $35,000,000 and nonbanking lenders withdrew $5,000,000 from the call money market.

Reduce Borrowings.

Easy conditions in the commercial credit situation and no improvement in demand were reflected in the weekly statement of the federal reserve system. The member banks reduced their borrowings at the reserve banks by only $833,000, bringing the total to $181,803,000. Through open market operations the reserve banks disposed of $21,330,000 of bankers' acceptances, but bought $9,900,000 of government securities.

Total deposits expanded $12,506,000, but note circulation dropped $20,301,000. Gold and total reserves declined $14,756,000 and $10,511,000, respectively. The ratio of reserves to liabilities eased to 84.1 per cent, compared with 84.2 per cent last week.

No Change in Rate.

The New York reserve bank made no change in its 1½ per cent rediscount rate. Its statement showed a decline of $2,111,000 in member banks borrowings, which now stand at $24,000,000. Bankers' acceptances receded $7,480,000 but government securities increased $5,124,000. Deposits rose $41,518,000. Reserves increased $16,000,000 but the reserve ratio fell to 89 per cent, compared with 90 per cent last week.

The Chicago reserve bank reported a decline of $1,427,000 in member bank borrowings, which now stand at $71,000,000. The reserve bank sold $1,133,000 of bankers' acceptances, but bought $1,351,000 of government securities. Deposits fell $15,802,000. Reserved declined $14,996,000, and the reserve ratio sagged to 89 per cent, compared with 89.5 per cent a week ago.

Buyers Are More Confident and Wheat Prices Advance

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

More confidence was shown on the part of buyers of wheat yesterday than for some time past. The probability of improvement in economic conditions in Europe combined with a realization that the price had dropped to such a low level in parts of the west and southwest that it could not go much lower brought in sufficient investment and other buying to readily absorb heavy hedging sales. The close was around the top.

Wheat prices here moved up 1¾@2c from the finish on Wednesday and there was not the pessimistic view as to the future which has prevailed for so long, and the finish was 1½@1¾c higher, with the July closing at 53⅞c, September 54½ to 54¾c, and December 55¼ to 55c. Kansas City surprised the trade by closing 2¼c higher on the July at 44½c, while Winnipeg gained 1⅛@1⅜c, with July there 57⅛c and October 60¼c at the last.

Hedging Pressure Heavy.

According to pit brokers there was persistent selling of the September by the Updike Grain company, presumably representing hedging operations by the Farmers National Grain corporation, the latter firm having become an important factor in both the cash grain and futures market through its widespread activities in all sections of the country. The selling, however, passed into strong hands and some operators who were said to have been short recently were credited with having turned to the bull side.

There was considerable business in wheat futures in the way of spreading operations between the various deliveries, but Winnipeg reported a lack of pressure from Chicago, which has been a factor there of late. Liverpool closed 1¼@1⅝d higher, with the July closing at about 57½d and October 61¼d.

Rumors of crop deterioration in Russia, while denied by cables from the continent, served to have some effect on the wheat market as did the hot weather in the American northwest. Fears of premature ripening were expressed in some quarters. There were intimations of a much better foreign demand for American hard winters, but the quantities sold were not given, and sales in all positions for the day were placed at 600,000 bu, mainly Canadian.

The possibility of a heavy reduction in the winter wheat acreage for the 1932 crop incident to the prevailing low prices, and the belief that the farmer has finally come to the realization that he must help himself is expected to become a big factor in the market ultimately. It is also figured that the producer who holds back his wheat for higher prices has everything to gain and little to lose, and should the improvement in economic conditions in Europe be followed by an increased foreign demand the price would advance, especially should there be material crop damage in Russia.

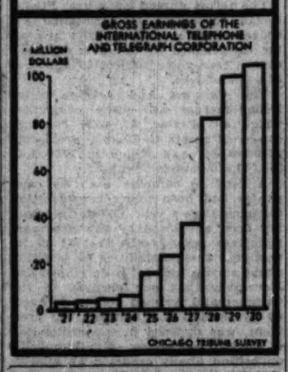
Corn in Sharp Advance.

Corn prices have advanced sharply as the result of the development of dry and hot weather over the main producing sections, and while there was a lack of actual damage claims the trade was apprehensive that the yield might be cut down, and with an enlargement in the speculative buying the September at the top yesterday showed 5½c over the low on Monday and the December was up 4½c. The finish was at the top, with net gains of 2@2¼c for the day, July being 61⅝ to 61½c, the highest since June 30. September closed at 55⅛@55¼c and December 48⅛@48⅝c.

There was some investment buying of December corn during the day on the price, as it figured around 25c to 30c per bu for No. 4 to the producer at many points in Illinois and Iowa for shipment early next winter. Reports of rain being needed are coming from a wide area.

Cash interests are not looking for a heavy movement of new oats at the present time owing to the prevailing low level. Farmers' bins are regarded as being bare and the first threshings are expected to be used to replenish the depleted farm stocks, and there also a feeling that much grain will be stacked until a more favorable market presents itself. Futures finished 1¾@1⅞c higher, with July 26⅝c, September 27¼@27⅝c, and December 30⅝c. Rye finished 1¼@1½c higher with wheat, September closing at 36⅝c and December 40½c.

International Telephone Earnings Increased Thirty Fold in Ten Years



UNITED STATES' GOLD STOCK REACHES PEAK OF NEARLY 5 BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., July 16.—(AP)—Gold stock of the United States reached the highest point in history on July 15, when it amounted to $4,965,000,000, though the federal reserve board's report for the week ending July 15 showed that gold holdings had decreased $5,000,000 as compared to the preceding week.

On July 8 the gold holdings of the country totaled $4,962,000,000 and increased until on July 13 the peak was reached. On July 15, however, the monetary gold stock had dropped to $4,957,000,000, a decrease of $5,000,000 in the week. The report showed since July 15, 1930, an increase of $417,000,000.

The previous peak in gold holdings of the United States before the present inflow during the last two months was reached on May 14, 1927, when $4,634,000,000 was held.

In June the greatest amount of gold ever imported in one month was credited to the United States, holdings increasing $156,000,000. In the week ending June 17 this country gained $90,000,000 of gold, the largest amount ever credited in one week.

The huge gold gain in June was explained by officials as being due to the fact that much of it was received from Germany and had been held to German credit in New York, where it was earmarked for German accounts. When confidence in the German situation was shaken Americans who had large amounts of money invested in short time loans in Germany recalled the loans with the result that more gold flowed into the United States in that month than could have been brought in ships had it actually been sent from across the Atlantic.

During June some gold was received from the Argentine and Canada, but it was a small amount compared to that received from German sources.

Bank Survey Finds Rates Paid on Deposits Excessive

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 16.—A majority of banks are "paying more for deposits than prevailing money rates justify, giving depositors the benefit of an interest rate that is higher than the returns obtainable from safely invested funds," it is declared in a study of interest rates based on a nation-wide survey issued here today by the bank management commission of the American Bankers association.

While rates paid on deposits should not be wholly contingent on fluctations in the money market, yet the present wide discrepancy between the price which bankers pay for funds and the price they receive for them serves to emphasize the need for remedial action, the report says.

Trend Towards Reduction.

On the basis of replies to a questionnaire from over 1,400 banks in all sections of the country, in addition to reports from clearing houses, state bankers' associations, the controller of the currency and state bank commissioners, the commission finds "a decided trend toward the reduction of interest rates" which, it says, when "handled in the proper manner will cause no material decrease in volume of deposits." The "proper, or preferred method," it says, is "concerted action coupled with both corrective and constructive education of the banking public."

Regardless of the future ups and downs of money rates and bond prices, banks, generally speaking, pay an unnecessary high rate for the savings and surplus funds of their communities, the report declares.

Two years ago a bank "might have paid generously for deposits and still earned a profit," but today the prevailing rate on prime commercial paper is from 2 to 2½ per cent, prime ninety-day acceptances are quoted at less than 1 per cent, call money is priced between 1 and 2 per cent, the yield on treasury notes and certificates has shrunk to six-tenths of 1 per cent and the same trend, although less marked, has occurred in the rates which banks charge customers for loans, it is pointed out.

Must Preserve Strength.

"If the financial structure of the nation is to remain sound, banks must preserve their strength, and one means of accomplishing this is to earn a reasonable profit," it goes on.

"It has been estimated by competent authorities that between 30 and 45 per cent of the gross earnings of banks in the United States is turned back to depositors in the form of interest. Moreover, it is disclosed in a survey conducted not long ago under the auspices of the American Bankers' association that a major portion of the profits of banks are attributable, not to their operation as banking institutions, but to the investment of stockholders' funds."

PRODUCTION RISE IN EAST TEXAS HITS OIL TRADE

Mounting production from the new east Texas oil fields has intensified the difficulties currently being faced by the petroleum industry, and has brought about a collapse of crude oil prices almost without precedent, says the Standard Statistics company of New York, in a current survey, which continues in part:

"In the train of these sharp reductions in the price of crude has come a further material decline in gasoline quotations. Thus, the benefits of large volume sales during the prevailing season of heaviest consumption have been almost wholly eliminated by the low prices now in effect.

"While substantial deficits were sustained by most corporations in the industry during the first quarter, results for the second quarter, and probably the third quarter also, will reflect an even less satisfactory situation, since drastic price cuts were effected in March and again at the beginning of June. For the year as a whole, it is probable that the majority of oil companies will report substantial deficits, and that even the most strongly intrenched units will record severely curtailed profits.

"As a longer term consideration, however, we believe that the very seriousness of the present situation will provide its own corrective. In fact, the current demoralized price structure has already resulted in a saner attitude throughout the industry, and has led to an earnest attempt to overcome the evils of over-production and excessive marketing competition. Through such cooperative endeavors, we believe that the start of fundamental recovery in the trade may be accomplished before the end of the year."

STONE BELIEVES THAT FARMERS SHOULD HOLD WHEAT FROM MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 16.—The farm board has no intention of changing its policy as to its wheat holdings, nor has it any intention of engaging in stabilization operations again, Chairman James C. Stone stated today in the face of continued pressure to make the board promise to hold its wheat entirely off the market.

JAMES C. STONE. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

While sticking to its July 1 statement, in which it refused to lock up its wheat, the board, said Mr. Stone, has also adhered to that part of the statement in which it promised to make no immediate sales at the present prices, except of certain stocks needed by the millers. Every bushel sold in the southwest has been replaced by purchase, Mr. Stone said.

He declared that wheat ought to be higher and placed part of the blame on short selling. "It is a bad thing to let a small group of men sell millions of bushels of wheat with no intention of taking actual possession of the grain," he said. "Certainly it does not help the farmer."

"Without wishing to give advice," Chairman Stone said it was his opinion that if wheat farmers would hold back as much of their grain as possible and follow that move by reducing acreage materially, wheat prices would be benefited. He made it clear that the board had no wish and that it certainly had no funds with which to commence stabilization operations again.

In the meantime, Vice President Curtis, who has been active in urging the board to keep its wheat off the market, stated that he and Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] had evolved a plan which they would present to the board next week. He hoped that the board would look on it favorably.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 16.—Wall street sized up the European situation on the face of the overnight returns to mean that a little display of returning confidence was in order and set about to register its convictions in improved stock market prices. The advance was not carried very far—one can't be too cautious these parious days—but the close found the active list 1 to 2 points higher as a rule than it was when the evening shadows fell on yesterday's operations.

Probably a goodly bit of the upturn was by way of cautious short covering. This interest, reputedly of more limited dimensions than it had been in a long time, seemed to have taken in its lines in the first two hours or so of trading and thereafter the movement began to lose steam. Prices held within striking distance of their highs of the day but the market turned very dull in the afternoon sales tapering off to some 1,500,000 shares.

Things Look Brighter.

No one had any thought, of course, that the German crisis had entirely passed, however, hopeful the tone of dispatches from the various fronts—Berlin, London and Paris.

The steps taken by the reich to keep down to a minimum any disturbances which might have been occasioned by the reopening of the German banks today, the evident readiness of France to recede somewhat from the iron-clad political conditions which she had insisted in imposing upon her offer to help, and the announced decision of the state department of Washington to put the matter down as a world problem needful of all-round help at today's meeting in Paris, all contributed to make things look a bit brighter than they did earlier in the week.

Of the leaders, United States Steel acted best. It spurted ahead in sprightly fashion in the early dealings and closed at its high for the day, up 3 points on the session. American Can did almost as well rising 2 points. Most of the groups moved along in orderly array. The rails provided a conspicuous exception, however, although some issues of this division registered good gains. The carriers were probably suffering somewhat from the harsh things being said about railroad operating prospects at the rate hearings down Washington way. June earnings reports also are beginning to come in and they are not particularly encouraging. Southern Pacific and Union Pacific were particularly disliked. New York Central, New Haven and others eased fractionally on limited trading.

National Biscuit Weakened.

Here and there genuinely weak spots developed in the list. National Biscuit yielded to new low ground, while Corn Products, another of the food group, experienced quite a sinking spell and Air Reduction, one of the leaders in the chemical group, fell back rather sharply. The action of some of the less favored issues carried the suggestion that holders are inclined to give some cognizance to the matter of quarterly and half year

WORLD NITRATE PARLEY FAILS; BLAME GERMANS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, July 16.—When the world nitrate conference ended in failure late yesterday evening in Lucerne, Switzerland, one of the most important postwar developments of international business relations was brought to a termination. Negotiations between the synthetic nitrogen producers of nine European nations and Chilean nitrate interests, which control the world output of natural nitrates, began nearly two months ago and have been carried on successively in half a dozen European cities almost without interruption.

The amount of capital involved in the combined world nitrate industries has been estimated at more than $2,000,000,000 and thus the negotiations assumed great significance in the eyes of business men.

The Lucerne meeting has been the final effort to renew the original world agreement which expired June 30 but was extended until yesterday in the hope of reaching a basis of understanding. American interests through the Guggenheim brothers have a dominant rôle in the recently merged Chilean nitrate industry.

Final collapse came when Germany in an effort to impose its demands upon Chilean interests promulgated an emergency decree, effective beginning yesterday, placing a prohibitive duty of 120 marks per ton upon all nitrogenous fertilizers and upon all Chilean nitrates. Since all nations affected by the decree, with the exception of Chile, are protected by trade agreements, the delegates of the Chilean nitrate industry interpreted the move as directly discriminatory and immediately withdrew from the conference.

An attempt late last night to form a purely European cartel also failed of its purpose. The outcome of the break is that Chile now resumes open market selling such as existed up until the time of the original agreement two years ago.

Domestic Coal Business Better in Some Centers

While quietness was the ruling characteristic in most of the bituminous coal markets of the country in June, improved business, largely in domestic sizes, was noticeable in a few of the larger trading centers, Coal Age reports. Demand for both domestic and steam sizes was slow as in past months, curtailed production reduced the visible supply of slack and screenings, with the result that quotations occupied their usual strong position until the end of the month, when a slight tendency toward weakness became apparent.

Report Rise in Operations of Continental Can Co.

Operations of Continental Can company showed a material improvement during the last month, and it was reported June shipments exceeded those of the like month last year. The improvement reflects largely the demand for cans for the pea crop, which is now in the harvesting season. The company's report of earnings is issued only once a year, and no indication of the results for the first six months this year is available.

Insuranshares Corp. to Offer Rights to Holders

The New York Stock exchange has received notice from Insuranshares Corporation of Delaware that holders of common stock of record July 20 will be offered the right to subscribe at $9 a share for common stock to the extent of one share for each four shares held.

INVESTORS' SYND. ASSETS REPORTED IN $4,005,400 GAIN

Assets of Investors' Syndicate show an increase of $4,005,400 since the first of the year, totaling $42,815,515 as of June 30, according to a report issued by E. M. Richardson, secretary and treasurer of the company.

Since the first of the year assets have gained an average of $667,566.62 per month, the report showed. The June increase was $757,268.61 and compared favorably with the largest monthly increase of $758,997.57, made in March.

Capital, surplus, and reserves increased in June from $5,585,212.45 to $5,646,083.19. Cash on hand amounted to $796,335.21. Bonds and securities totaled $3,059,286.16.

First mortgages and first trust deeds on city residential property increased during June from $32,186,114 to $32,943,372, according to the company's statement. The total loan holdings of the company average approximately 45 per cent of the appraised value of the mortgaged properties, Mr. Richardson said.

North Western Loadings Hold Up During July

Car loadings for July 1 to 14 inclusive, on the Chicago and North Western railway held their own with the period of June 1 to 14. Cars were loaded at an average of 4,877 per working day, as compared with 4,809 cars per working day in June. Total car loadings for the first two weeks of July were 53,682, as compared with 57,719 in comparable June period. The July period had one less working day. Loadings were down 9,109 cars from the same period of July, 1930. In spite of the one less working day, live stock showed a 159 car gain over the first two weeks in June and coal shipments were up a few cars.

Rock Island loadings during the week ended July 14 were 35,212 cars of revenue freight, as compared with 30,079 during the previous week and 35,858 during the same week a year ago.

Peak for Grain Selling Passes by End of July

"The peak of farm marketing of wheat is normally about the last week of July or first week of August," asserts Nat Murray, crop statistician. "Going over a period of ten years, 17 per cent of the total marketing is in July, 19 per cent in August, 16 per cent in September, 11 per cent in October, and 37 per cent in the remaining eight months of the season. This year highest yields are being obtained by the southwest part of the wheat area, where marketings are earliest, and poorest in the northern area, where marketings are later. Therefore, the peak may be expected to come earlier than usual this season."

New York, July 16.—(AP)—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, recently purchased a large interest in Stutz Motor Car Company of America, and again is the largest Stutz shareholder. SAYS FIGURES SUGGEST TRADE REVIVAL SOON

Washington, D. C., July 16.—(AP)—Tracing similarities in past business depressions, the agriculture department's economics bureau said today a continuation of the "striking analogy" of the 1914-'21 and 1878-'95 fluctuations "suggests a revival in the near future similar to that of 1894-'95."

Business rose from a low of 80 per cent in June, 1894, to about 93 in January, 1895. During the next quarter a decline dropped the index to slightly below 90, but a succeeding rise brought it up to about 106 in the fall of 1895.

The present depression hit a low of 71 last January. An upward trend extending through the first quarter into April swung the indicator to around 77. The chart for the second quarter has not been drawn.

Sees Fall Improvement in Heavy Hardware Sales

Des Moines, Ia., July 16.—(AP)—Improvement in sales is anticipated beginning Sept. 1, Louis Williams of Minneapolis, president of the National Heavy Hardware association, today told members attending the midsummer meeting of the organization. Stating that the heavy hardware business is affected quickly by changes in prices of farm products, he said that sales had been held down by low prices in the early months of this year.

Prospects for fairly good crops in the midwest this fall, even at low prices, indicate that farmers will be able, after harvest, to purchase needed equipment," Williams said.

Although official figures have not been issued, reports in Wall street state it is understood Ford world production in June was just under 80,000 cars and trucks, compared with 102,095 in May this year and 174,523 in June last year.

CHICAGO STOCKS SHOW STRENGTH; PRICES ADVANCE

Late News Reports Prove More Encouraging.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

With the prospects for averting the threatened financial breakdown of central Europe growing brighter the securities market turned about yesterday and staged the most reassuring demonstrations seen in several days. It was not until after an early period of uncertainty in which prices receded that the turn came, however.

On opening transactions sellers had to make price concessions in nearly all classes of shares and another sinking spell developed in early afternoon. As the more encouraging late news reports were received a sudden change in sentiment took place and shares were whisked up vigorously.

All Groups Participate.

Trading on the Chicago exchange featured no particular issues. Nearly all types of securities participated in the late come back. Commonwealth Edison again joined that select group of shares which command a price of 200 or more by moving about 2 points on a meager volume of transactions.

The earnings report of the Cities Service company induced selling in the company's shares in the early dealing but the issue recovered its loss. The statement showed June surplus available for common dividends and reserves of only $560,436, as compared with $811,842 in the corresponding month of 1930. The fight being waged by the Kansas securities department and the company has found no appreciable reflection in the market action of the shares. The company has won the most recent legal skirmish in its effort to prevent the barring of the sale of its junior securities in that state.

"Good support was in evidence for National Standard which has been known as a "Burnham stock." Although the trades in the issue were small the price was advanced 2¾ points. Bendix again overshadowed Borg-Warner in the motor group, being traded in fair volume and moving up slightly.

Estimate Earnings.

Current estimates place per share earnings of this company for the first six months of the year around $70 cents, while friends of the issue say that the company will make a better showing in the last six months.

An odd lot transaction in Unit corporation of America preferred stock brought a slight price recession to 1¾ as the committee representing holders of the stock went ahead with plans for reorganizing the company. In connection with the plans, the committee has sent a letter to the preferred stockholders stating that a thorough investigation reveals that the equipment of the company is modern. However, the administration expense has been excessive, the committee says, and the accounting department needs to be revised.

REAL HOPE FOR FALL BUILDING SEEN BY DODGE

Expects Third Quarter to Be 1931's Best.

BY AL CHASE.

"Real hope is afforded in the outlook for construction as a whole for the third quarter of 1931" reads a bulletin from the F. W. Dodge corporation, issued last night. "In our opinion this period will show the best quarterly comparison to date with the like period of 1930. Though we anticipate a decline, the loss will probably not exceed 20 per cent. This would contrast with realized losses for the first and second quarters of 24 and 37 per cent respectively."

Metropolitan New York and vicinity leads the nation with $407,540,000 in new construction contracts awarded during the first six months of 1931, with the Chicago territory second, with $280,435,000, and by the middle Atlantic third with $191,547,000.

Residential Fares Best.

"June added $331,879,000 to construction contracts for the thirty-seven states east of the Rockies, bringing the sum total for the first half of the year up to $1,803,226,000" the Dodge reports states. Residential building held best among the three major construction classes in both the second quarter and the first half of the current year. For the first half of the year the loss in residential contracts was 15 per cent when contrasted with the corresponding period of 1930.

"The only individual class of building to gain during the first six months of 1931 as compared with that period of 1930 was public buildings which showed $74,451,000 in the current year against $62,322,000 in 1930.

"Spurting ahead of May's $308,079,000, the month of June divided its $331,879,000 among the three major classes of construction as follows: residential, $72,744,000; non-residential, $184,623,000; and public works and utilities, $134,512,000.

Farm Park District.

Flossmoor Park, the South Shore investment company's development in the village of Flossmoor, has been formed into a park district in accordance with an election just held. The new park district comprises the entire development and its formation, according to Walter R. Drennan, president of the South Shore Investment company, was due to a desire on the part of the residents of Flossmoor Park to provide funds through taxation to keep up the parkways, the street lights and as far as possible maintain the general character of the development which in the past has been taken care of by the developers.

At the election the following residents of Flossmoor Park were elected trustees of the new park district; Gordon L. Hostetter, Joseph Lhevey, Arthur Somones, Cyril Thomas and Frank C. Wells.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 15,000; sheep, 10,000.

Cattle values slipped down 15@25c more on a drowsy trade yesterday. A blasting sun sent the temperature soaring and trading dragged along slowly in the sweltering heat. Cattle drank more than usual and buyers were averse to taking on too many steers with big "water fills," resulting in a dull afternoon session, some loads going over unsold.

Consumptive demand for beef was again curtailed by the general heat wave, biggest carcasses suffering most in the price revision on the wholesale trade during recent sessions. Shipping demand has subsided some and reports from the eastern dressed beef trade were rather discouraging yesterday. Receipts dropped back to about normal proportions for Thursday, but available supplies proved excessive and buyers held the whip hand in all classes.

Cows and heifers shared in the weakness, many sales toward the close showing 15@25c loss. Light weights were easiest to dispose of at the opening, but came to a very slow close after a few early orders had been filled. Calves declined 25@50c more, selling fully $1.50 below the opening levels this week.

Calves at $8.50 yesterday were similar to the $10.00 calves late last week. Top steers halted at $8.50, while only occasional sales of heavy beeves were made above $7.75. The bulk of all steers sold at $7.00@8.25.

December Hogs Offered at $7.35.

December medium and heavy hogs were offered at $7.35 on the futures market yesterday, while light weights for that month were offered at $7.50. September light and medium were offered at $6.60 and bids of $7.50 were made on the mediums. Heavy grades for next September were offered at $7.60. Light weights for today's deliveries were bid $7.70 on the "to arrive" market.

Top hogs on the cash trade forged slowly ahead to the highest point in twelve weeks, against the influence of weakening markets for fresh pork, which curtailed buying by city butchers and smaller packers on recent sessions. The extreme top advanced 10c, at $7.75, highest since April 20, while the general average moved up 5a, at $6.50, although the finish was slow on all but top light weights.

Pork loins are selling 3@4c under the high point late last week, but are still 5@7c above the low point a month ago. Lightest weight loins brought 22@25c yesterday, while heavy loins went to 11@11¼c. Hog receipts have been running below normal for some time. The number of hogs slaughtered in the United States during this spring, March to June, inclusive, at 13,870,000, was smallest since 1926. The decrease, 24.8 per cent, compared with the winter season, November to February, inclusive, was the greatest since 1921 with one exception.

Fresh Lamb in Demand.

With the exception of lamb, all classes of fresh meats have suffered on the wholesale market lately. The former is still selling 6@8c per pound higher than early in July and demand is reported holding up well considering the hot weather.

Carcasses selling lately at 14@23c are similar to the kinds at 11@13c a week ago and 8@11fc early in the month. The market for live lambs slipped down mostly 25c in sympathy with the break in other live stock, but there was a better tone to the trade at the close and sorting was cut down. Most natives and westerns were sorted at $8.00, although a few lots of natives reached $8.25. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 15,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep, against 1,551 cattle, 16,423 hogs, and 5,006 sheep the previous Friday, and 1,331 cattle, 12,350 hogs, and 10,462 sheep a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, July 16.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firm and unchanged today at 3.50 for spots. The sales reported included 3,000 bags of Porto Rican stored in a local refinery and 16,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment to an outport refiner, at 3.50c, with a continued good inquiry at this level, but holders were asking from 3.53c to 3.55c.

Reduced stocks of the continued firmness of the spot market and the liberal withdrawal demand for refined. Futures were firmer, closing with net gains of 7 points on the spot month and 2 to 4 points on the later deliveries. Approximate sales 44,000 tons. Prices follow:

PROVISIONS ADVANCE

Higher hog and grain prices, with lighter offerings of product and buying by cash interests, made a better feeling in the cash last for lard futures yesterday with an advance of 20@25c, the close being at about the top prices. Liverpool lard was 6@6d lower. Export clearances were 583,000 lbs of lard and 25,800 lbs of bacon. Financial conditions in Germany, it is feared, will restrict exports of hog products of that country, but the market's action for the day did not reflect any uneasiness in that direction. Hog receipts were slightly larger than a week and a year ago and prices higher. There is nothing doing in bellies for future delivery, and the trade in pork loins is light at $1¼@2¼c in car lots for light weights. Prices follow:

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

For the first time in many weeks the wheat market presented a decidedly improved tone, with more resistance to selling and a greater disposition on the part of traders to consider the buying side on breaks, with confidence. It was said that the market had absorbed an immense quantity of hedging sales as prices advanced. In many instances traders who have been bearish were said to have covered their shorts and taken the long side.

Buying of September and selling of December at 4¾c difference was a popular spread. With low priced wheat and interest rates down to the lowest in years, it was said that spreading operations offered more inducement for those who have not been in the market.

"We are informed by cables from Europe that Russia has further reduced grain prices and chartered an enormous amount of tonnage," said the Uhlmann Grain company. They also had cables denying that the Russian crop had been considerably damaged. "We have felt for some time," said Mr. Uhlmann, "that on account of the extreme cheapness the movement from the country might dry up. The advance in price, however, has brought about a bet... premium from the country and our own purchases today were quite considerable, although little could be sold to mills."

Winnipeg reports said there was no selling of futures there by Chicago interests on spreads, which were rather prominent the last few days. The market was also helped by odd lot buying by mills and some purchases by seaboard houses in connection with export business, which was about 400,000 bu for the day.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Potato market was weak due to large receipts and hot weather. Arrivals were 119 cars, with 350 cars on team track. Live hens were off ½c, with heavy spring chickens 2c lower and fryers 1c lower. Receipts, 5 cars and 28 trucks. Fresh eggs advanced ½c. Receipts, 5,455 cases. Butter was steady to ¼c higher, with standards showing the most advance. Receipts, 10,045 tubs.

BUTTER MARKET FIRM

November butter advanced early on the Chicago Mercantile exchange but pressure developed near mid-session and the market reacted, closing unchanged to ¼c higher. Egg futures also were firm at the opening but eased to a close ½@1c under the previous day. Potatoes were about steady. Idahoes and round whites dropped 1c and green mountains gaining a point. Storage and production news continued bullish in butter, the centralizers reporting production nearly 20 per cent less than a year ago and the four markets storing 123,000 lbs less than last year. The reports brought in strong buying at the opening but realizing and new selling came in later. Sales—Butter, 119 cars; eggs, 96 cars; potatoes, 10 cars. Deliveries—Butter, 1 car. Prices follow:

SHORTS ADVANCE COTTON

Shorts were mainly responsible for a good advance and fairly strong close yesterday around the best prices for the day in cotton futures. Although there was not backed up by an improvement in trade purchases, the market had a better tone and at the close futures in Chicago were 30@32 points net higher. Other markets were 27@33 points. New Orleans being the strongest. Spots in New York were up 25 points to 9.30c, or the same as Galveston, with New Orleans up 30 points to 9.15c, which was also the price in Houston. Liverpool reported 15@16 points. The advance in stocks and grains, with a better tone to the financial news from abroad, created an improved tone at the close. J. E. Bennett's report said that with firmer securities and constructive developments abroad values might easily have a further improvement. Prices follow:
